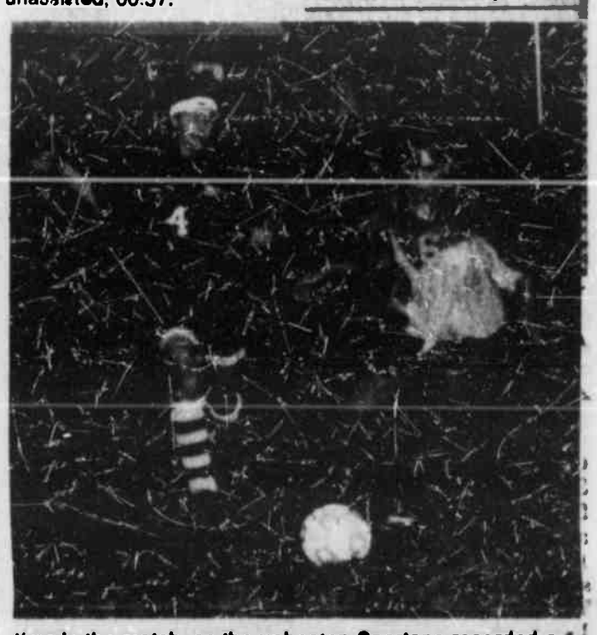
Top performers for Fort Hill were Jacob Growden and Nick James with 45 and 46, respectively. Zach Bittinger paced Westmar with a 49.

The Huskies' first loss of the season was by a 168-160 margin to Preston yesterday afternoon. Elkins was also in the competition and tied the Huskies' score of 168.

Thomas again paced the Huskies with a 40, Durney finished with a 41, Butler carded a 43, and Settle finished with a 44.

Ann Prowznick of Preston was the low medalist of the event, as she finished with a 38, while Luke Luzier carded a 39.

Leading Elkins were Torben Scheulen with a 41 and Kyle Kelly and Matt Doerr with 42s.



The Huskies had defeated Preston earlier in the season at the Wisp course in McHenry by 12 strokes.

The Huskies will compete again next Monday in the 18-hole Charles Pinto/WMIL Championships, which will be played at the Maplehurst Country Club. Tee-off is set for 1 p.m.

The next match for the Southern Rams is slated for today at home against Preston. They will also participate in Monday's tournament at Maplehurst, and then host Bishop Walsh next Thursday.

Teets Records Hat Trick In Ram Win Over Alco

A hat trick by Sarah Teets was the highlight of a big 3-0 victory by the Southern High School girls' soccer team over visiting Allegany Tuesday evening. The win upped the Rams' record to 2-1 overall and 2-0 in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League standings.

Teets scored all three of the match's goals in the first half, and all three unassisted. Her first came with 33:54 remaining in the half, her second was with 12:29 left, and her third was with just 1:04 remaining in the half. The second half was all defense.

Southern finished with an 11-7 advantage in shots on goal, and each team had four corner kicks. Becky Martin had five saves in goal for Southern, all in the first half, and Gina Reeves recorded one in the second half. Brooke Payton was credited with five saves for the Campers, who dropped to 0-2 with the loss.

The Rams, who are in their first year of competition, are scheduled to play in a tournament this Saturday at Northern and will entertain Beall next Tuesday in another WMIL contest. The kickoff is set for Tuesday's match is 7 p.m.

THE GOING WAS TOUGH the second week in a row for the offensive unit of the Southern High School varsity football team, which perhaps for the first time in history has gone scoreless in its first two games of the season. After opening the 1998 campaign with a shutout loss to Keyser, the Rams were blanked Friday night by visiting Musselman, 23-0. Above, Southern running back Jason Weaver finds some running room around the right side behind a good block by and unidentifiable teammate. Player #12 in the center is Southern quarterback Justin Liller. The Rams will go after their first win this Friday at Preston County.

Frustrated Rams Blanked Again; Fall To Applemen

Total frustration continued this week for the Southern High School varsity football team, as the Rams failed for the second straight week of the season to put any points on the board and went down to defeat Friday evening at home to unbeaten Musselman, 23-0. The shutout came on the heels of a 13-0 loss to Keyser in their season opener the previous Friday.

While the Southern defensive unit played well again, the offense just could not put a drive together that put the ball across the goal line, although as in the game with Keyser, they had several opportunities. One of those was a first and goal at the seven-yard line of the Applemen that simply went nowhere. Another was a fumble and turnover on the Musselman 30-yard line.

Second Quarter

M - Travor Schada 3 run (Brock kick).

Third Quarter

M - Kevin Dingess 16 interception return (Brock kick).

Fourth Quarter

M - Brock 23 field goal

M - Schada 14 run (kick failed).

The first half was nearly all defense, which featured a scoreless first quarter and only one touchdown scored by the visitors before intermission. Trevor Schade put the Applemen on the board with a three-yard touchdown run with 10:04 remaining in the second quarter and Chad Brock booted the extra point to make it 7-0.

The Rams started the second half deep in their territory and, on a third-down play, Kevin Dingess picked off a Justin Liller pass and raced 16 yards for a touchdown. Brock's kick gave the Applemen a 14-0 advantage with 8:04 remaining in the third quarter.

Musselman's defense continued to stop the Rams after they had penetrated into Appleman territory. The visitors added a 23-yard field goal to go up 17-0 with 6:34 left in the game, and then tacked on an insurance touchdown on a 14-yard scoring run by Schade with 2:34 remaining. The kick for the conversion was no good.

Schade rushed 15 times for 128 yards, while Todd Mosby rolled up 119 yards on 16 attempts. Jason Weaver led the Rams' ground game with 66 yards on 22 carries.

Pacing Southern's defensive effort were Robert Unger with 11 tackles and Billy Stoner with 10.

"We played very well in the first half, especially on defense," Southern coach Tom Woods said. "But our defense was just out there too long as the game went on.

"None of us (the coaching staff) can remember a year when we played two games in a row without a touchdown," Woods said. "But we still believe we have a good offensive team; we just can't seem to put all the pieces together at one time. It's been very frustrating, because during our scrimmages this fall we were elated with our offense. But in our first two games, it seems that when we get inside the 20 we panic, we fumble, we're called for a penalty, we completely miss our blocking assignments... We do have an inexperienced quarterback in Justin, and we have two offensive tackles who are experienced players, but not experienced at that position. But it's certainly not all their fault, either.

"Plus, we lost to two high-quality opponents in Keyser and Musselman," he added.

"We're still optimistic, though," he continued. "It's going to come together for us. All we need is a touchdown or two and a win."

Woods hopes that that win will come this Friday night, and believes that Preston County is not the caliber of either Keyser or Musselman. "Offensively, they aren't close to the quality of those two teams," he said. "Defensively, though, they will give us some problems. We're just going to stick to three or four basic plays, and we believe we will be able to get outside a little more against them."

Preston, which upset Bridgeport in its season opener, lost to Buckhannon, and topped Hampshire last Friday, uses the I-formation and wing-T on offense, which is led by junior quarterback Eric Hayes (5-11, 165), junior halfback Robbie Bishoff (5-11, 155), tight end Brandon Rohrbaugh (6-5, 180), and massive senior tackle Justin Harsh (6-2, 340).

"Offensively they have struggled, a lot like we have," Woods said. "They run their offense straight ahead, with very little deception, so we think we are in good shape defensively."

The Knights' 5-2, 4-3 defensive unit is led by senior linebackers Steve Sharps (5-10, 185) and Jason Bolyard (6-2, 198), whom Woods described as "an excellent pair of inside backers." They also have an outstanding senior defensive end in Justin Wheeler (6-0, 195) and an impressive junior nose guard in Myles Liston (6-1, 190).

"Even with our two disappointing losses, our kids are healthy and very excited to play," Woods said. "We've had a couple of great nights of practice and we feel real good going into this game."

Friday's kickoff at Preston is set for 7:30 p.m.

Huskies Tame Wildcats, 14-0, Set To Host Unbeaten Tucker

"The best offense is a strong defense," the old football saying goes, and the undefeated Northern High School varsity squad proved the point this past Friday night in a 14-0 victory at Westmar. Hard hitting by the visitors shut down the Wildcats' attack and forced two fumbles to boot. The Huskies' offense played its part as well by putting together a pair of perfectly executed scoring drives to convert both fumble recoveries into touchdowns and take Big Blue's record to 2-0. A battle of undefeateds will be waged tomorrow night at the dog pound as the Huskies host 3-0 Tucker County.

Opportunity fell into Northern's grasp for the first time in Lonaconing when a gang-tackling effort led by Husky noseguard Toby Gilpin (a gang unto himself at 6-3, 285 lbs.) forced a Wildcat fumble near midfield. After linebacker and fellow sophomore Mark Wolf fell on the ball to make the recovery, the Husky offense took the field and marched into the end zone on eight plays, the last a five-yard scoring run by junior fullback Ryan Brenneman. Justin Robison converted the extra point kick to put Northern up 7-0.

The second fumble occurred at the 3:30 mark in the second quarter, coming none to soon as Westmar was on the Huskies' three-yard line and knocking at the door to the end zone. Although not exceptionally large for a defensive end, 6-0, 160-lb. junior Brandon Wilkens popped a Wildcat ball carrier with a shattering hit that knocked the ball loose. Wilkens then smothered the pigskin to sow up the recovery, the second such quick-thinking move of the night for an increasingly well-disciplined Husky defense.

Northern's offense again capitalized on the turnover by driving the length of the field in two minutes to score. Confident in the blocking assignments of his ground troops, head coach Phil Carr called a series of running plays as the Huskies executed one of their best drives in several seasons. "Senior halfback Mike Auvil and fullback Ryan Brenneman made some great second-effort runs during the drive," Carr commented, "breaking several tackles to keep the momentum going."

Northern scored from the 14-yard line when quarterback Adam Brenneman dropped back to throw; with his receivers covered, the junior tucked the ball under his arm and scampered around the right side and into the end zone. Another extra-point boot from Robison made the score 14-0 with just 30 seconds to go in the half.

The combatants slugged it out to a standstill through the second half, although the Huskies "could have scored two or three more times," Carr commented. "We had several really good drives, but our inexperience on offense led to some costly mistakes; one drive was shut down after a 15-yard taunting penalty, and another was lost when we fumbled the ball away. We're not happy about those plays, but we'll have to chalk them up to experience, learn from it, and move on."

Northern's defense rose to the occasion once again late in the game, when a Wildcat pass attempt from the Huskies' 37-yard line was intercepted by senior free safety Jed Wilhelm, who had ranged deep to the corner to pick off the throw with 3:30 remaining. "Jed made a great play to get us the ball at the three-yard line," said Carr. "After that it was up to the offense to control the ball, so we could work the clock down as far as possible." A pair of first downs enabled the Huskies to do just that, and only 14 seconds remained before Northern had to punt the ball away. Westmar's subsequent Hail Mary pass attempt fell to the ground without a prayer, and the game ended in a 14-0 Husky victory.

For the night, the Huskies running game totaled 260 yards in an evenly spread attack. Fullback Ryan Brenneman gained 94 yards on 18 carries and scored a touchdown, Auvil racked up 89 yards on 11 carries, including a touchdown of his own, and quarterback Adam Brenneman put his mobility to good use by rushing for 78 yards on 14 carries.

Defensive standouts included noseguard Gilpin, linebacker Wolf, and defensive ends Ryan Savage and Nathan Rush, who helped Northern hold Westmar to a mere 179 yards of total offense. Auvil added an interception from his linebacker slot early in the final quarter.

"Overall we're pretty pleased with how things are going," Carr said of his team's 2-0 start, its first since 1993. "We'll stay with what we're doing when we play Tucker County tomorrow night. The Mountain Lions are 3-0, and every one of their starting players, save one junior, is a senior who also started on last year's varsity squad. They have a lot of experience, size, speed, and depth that we're going to have to work hard and smart to overcome."

Opponents to watch include tailback Wes Lambert and split end Derrick Simmons, both of whom have excellent speed and hands, while quarterback Jason Hedrick can run as well as throw. It will be hard to miss Tucker's offensive line either, which averages over 250 pounds per player across the front. "Their offensive line is much bigger than our defensive line," Carr said. "We're hoping to use our quickness to overcome their size, and hopefully our defense can keep us close and get us into good field position like it has in the first two games.

"That will help our offense," the coach said, "which is coming along but still shows its lack of experience at times." The Huskies can expect an uphill battle when it tries to run the ball, as Carr expects Tucker to run a 4-4 defense with the flexibility to bring the linebackers up to the line at will to cover every gap.

"This will be one of our biggest tests of the year," observed Carr. "Tucker is one of the toughest opponents on our schedule. As both teams are undefeated, we're hoping for a big turnout and a loud show of support for our players, who have been playing their hearts out."

The kickoff time for tomorrow night's home contest with Tucker County is 7:30 p.m.

Huskies' Junior Varsity Stymied By Falcons, 33-0

The opening game for Northern High School's junior varsity football team this past Thursday gave its coaches plenty to work on in this week's practices as the Huskies were routed at Frankfort, 33-0.

The Falcons scored in the first quarter on a 60-yard pass from quarterback Jason Sidaway to Justin Jenkins to put the hosts on the board, 6-0. The extra-point kick attempt failed. Jenkins scored again in the second quarter on a 20-yard run, but the extra-point attempt was booted once again, leaving the score at 12-0 as the teams went into the locker room at halftime.

Frankfort came out and exploded for three touchdowns in the third quarter. The first came on a 15-yard run by Richard Kimble, who followed up on his score by rushing for the two-point conversion. Kimble scored a second touchdown on a 7-yard run, followed by a successful kick by Jenkins for the extra point. A short time later the hosts scored again as Seth Weakley carried a fumble recovery for 10 yards into the Huskies' end zone. The point after touchdown kick attempt failed, and the score remained at 33-0 until the final gun.

Runnin' Rams Third, Fifth At St. Mary's; One, Two At Home

The boys' and girls' cross country teams of Southern High School opened their seasons Saturday by competing in the multi-team Mount St. Mary's College Invitational in Emmitsburg, where the SHS girls captured third place as a team and the boys, defending champions of that event, finished fifth.

The Runnin' Rams then hosted a five-team meet at their Broadford Park course Tuesday, when the boys won first place and the girls were narrowly edged out by Grafton when one of Southern's top runners was sidelined with illness.

At Emmitsburg, Amy Snyder was the Southern girls' top finisher, as she recorded a time of 22:13 for eighth place. Erin Hoalcraft placed 19th in 23:10, Beth Sauder was 26th in 23:45, Angie Sincell finished 32nd in 24:02, followed by Katelyn McBee in 25:46, Katie Moomau in 26:26, Erin Lucas (27:04), Faiyn Shaffer (27:34), Laura Hollingsworth (28:02), Maria Hines (29:53), Haley Gillespie (31:48), and Lauren Rudy (32:16). Only the top five runners' finishes are calculated in the team scoring.

Westminster won the girls' race with a score of 50, followed by Linganore with 64. Southern was third with 131, followed by: Mercersburg Academy, 134; Glenelg, 160; Waynesboro Area, 161; Wilde Lake, 190; Sherwood, 239; Atholton, 251; St. Mary's Ryken, 267; Thomas Johnson, 315; Springbrook, 349; Bishop McNamara, 400; and St. John's Prospect, 424.

There were 20 boys' teams in the competition, with Westminster also taking the boys' title with 49 points. Mount St. Joseph was second with 75, Thomas Johnson was third with 123, Wilde Lake placed fourth with 147, and Southern was fifth with 160. Placing sixth was Gonzaga with 165, followed by: Glenelg, 233; Atholton, 256; Sherwood, 280; Linganore, 280; Mercersburg Academy, 308; Springbrook, 344; St. Mary's Ryken, 337; Waynesboro Area, 390; Wheaton, 402; Northwestern, 441; Severn, 490; Milton Hershey, 490; Bishop McNamara, 536; and St. John's Prospect Hall, 609.

The top runners for the Rams were Eric Rexrode in eighth place with a time of 18:08 and Casey McBee in 26th with a time of 18:50. Other Southern finishers and their times were: Beau Gibson (19:16), Ted Wolf (19:18), Dan Shafer (19:41), Rusty Strubin (19:50), Pete Porcaro (19:58), Jared Fike (21:24), and Matt Frederick (21:29).

The top female runner of the day was Faith Homan of Milton Hershey, who recorded a time of 21 minutes flat, while Cassy Crosse of Linganore crossed the finish line almost simultaneously and placed second. Westminster's Holly Thompson was third in 21:26.

Jason Santucci of Westminster recorded a time of 17:11 to win the boys' race, followed by Shawn Day of Thomas Johnson in 17:23, and Dan Sweeney of Gonzaga in 17:20.

In Tuesday's meet with Preston County, University, Morgantown, and Grafton, the Southern boys finished with 24 points to easily win as a team. Casey McBee was the individual champion with a time of 17:27, while Rexrode placed third in 17:43, Beau Gibson was fifth in 18:05, Ted Wolf finished seventh (18:24) and Rusty Strubin was eighth (18:54).

Preston County finished second with 47 points, followed by University with 89, Morgantown with 108, and Grafton with 110. University's Stephen Hiser placed second individually with a time of 17:313, while Jesse Messenger and Matt Livengood led Preston by placing fourth (17:50) and sixth (18:20), respectively.

Southern's Angie Sincell, an all-state runner, had to miss the meet because of a throat infection, which may have been just what Grafton needed to win the meet. Grafton finished with 33 points, while Southern recorded 35. Preston was third with 59, followed by Morgantown with 114 and University with an incomplete score.

Heather McDaniel led Grafton by placing first with a time of 21:38. Snyder and Hoalcraft finished second and fourth, respectively, for the Rams with times of 22:00 and 22:26. Giti Farudi of University was third in 22:21.

Also among the top 10 finishers was Southern's Beth Sauder in seventh place (23:24).

Preston's top runners were Joanie Chambers in fifth place (23:06) and Kristin Nestor in ninth (23:44).

The Runnin' Rams, coached by Carl Booth (boys) and Louis Newcomb (girls), will compete again this Saturday in the Boonsboro Invitational before hosting Westmar, University, and Morgantown next Tuesday.

Northern plays at Westmar this coming Monday, while Southern hosts Fort Hill the same night. On Wednesday, the Huskies will host Fort Hill and the Rams will welcome Mt. Savage to the Oakland court on Wednesday night.

A road trip to Campobello gymnasium Monday ended in a 3-1 defeat for Northern's volleyball team at the hands of Allegany High School by match scores of 10-15, 15-4, 7-15, and 13-15. Last night the Huskies roared back at home to defeat Southern High School 3-1 (see separate story) to give Northern a 2-1 overall record.

The Garrett Community College athletic department will be hosting an alumni volleyball game for all former GCC players on Saturday, Sept. 26, at 4 p.m. Prior to the alumni game, the Lakers will host Cecil Community College and Potomac State College in a tri-match beginning at 1 p.m.

For more information, persons may contact GCC head coach Margaret Quinn at 301-387-3052.

GCC Volleyball Off To Slow Start At 3-4

The Lakers are struggling to hit their stride early in the season, as Garrett Community College's volleyball team stands just below .500 with a 3-4 record after a full week of action. An opening 2-2 split in the Essex Community College Tournament was followed by a 1-1 split at a CCAC-Boyce triangular match; then last night the Lakers fell in a rematch against Howard.

At Essex on Saturday, the Lakers came in third in a five team field that was led by Howard Community College, followed by Potomac State, GCC, Charles Community College, and Essex.

GCC posted a 2-2 mark for the tourney by downing Essex 2-0 (16-14, 15-13), Charles 2-1 (15-3, 4-15, 15-12), and falling to the Catamounts 2-0 (10-15, 9-15), and Howard 2-1 (15-17, 15-17, 2-15).

The Lakers were led by Andrea Barrick's 27 total kills for the tournament, while Erica McBride followed with 22 kills. Laurel Wolf had 14 service points, two aces, and 27 assists. Other Laker standouts were former Northern High School star Mindy McCarty, a native of Friendsville, who posted three aces and 11 points, Melissa Yutzy with four aces and 16 assists, and Oakland native and Southern High School alumna Sindy Niner with two aces and 12 service points.

Garrett's next outing came Monday in a triangular match with CCAC-Boyce and CCAC-South in Monroeville, Pa. The Lakers split by defeating South 15-13, 10-15, 15-7, before being swept 11-15, 14-16 by host Boyce.

McCarty led GCC in the victory over South by going 17-for-19 from the service line, and compiling match-high stats of 10 aces and 12 points. She also racked up seven kills in a 17-for-20 effort on the attack. Yutzy was perfect on serves, 17-for-17, with 11 points of her own, and Niner was a perfect 13-for-13 on serves with seven points. McBride added eight kills and Barrick had seven kills and three blocks. Yutzy converted 39 of 43 sets with nine assists, and Wolf was 32 of 39 with 15 assists.

Wolf was one of the bright spots for the Lakers in the loss to Boyce, going 17 for 18 from the service line, scoring 13 points and tallying 10 assists. Terra Alta, W.Va., native and Preston County High School alumna Lana Groves was 11-for-11 with six points. Barrick added eight kills once again in addition to four solo blocks, and McBride totaled four kills and four blocks. Crystal Kimble was 25-for-36 in sets and added six assists.

GCC's Maryland JUCO opener, a rematch at Howard, ended in a 3-1 win for the hosts last night in a closely fought contest. The Lakers lost the first two games, 10-15 and 12-15, came back to take the third 15-12, but fell in the fourth 6-15.

McBride accumulated 12 service points, going 22-for-23 from the line with three of her points coming on aces. She totaled eight kills in a 21-for-31 showing on the attack. Barrick had 13 kills in going 23-for-31 on the attack, and added three blocks.

Groves totaled 11 points and two aces, Wolf scored 6 points and led the team in assists with 11, and McCarty had seven kills. Niner added six points, Kimble had eight assists and three blocks, and Yutzy also had eight assists.

GCC hosts Anne Arundel and CCAC-Boyce in a 5 p.m. triangular tomorrow. The Lakers then hit the road for a Monday triangular at CC-Beaver versus Beaver and Butler-CC, and a visit to Charles County CC on Wednesday.

"Flying Scot," A County Native, Named To Sailboat Hall Of Fame

As the summer sailing season draws to a close, word has been received that the Flying Scot, a boat designed by former Oakland resident Gordon K. "Sandy" Douglass, is the most recent inductee into the American Sailboat Hall of Fame. and model of the vessel will be on permanent display at the Museum of Yachting in Newport, R.I. The boat has been produced locally since 1958 by Flying Scot Inc., formerly the Gordon Douglass Boat Company.

The Flying Scot met Sail America's standard of being "a boat that has earned lasting recognition by fostering new enjoyment and growth in the sport of sailing through excellent design and production ingenuity." It joins 13 other boats that have been inducted into the American Sailboat Hall of Fame since the its founding in 1994.

A committee of magazine editors composed of chairman Bill Schanen of Sailing Magazine, John Burnham of Sailing World, and Patience Wales of Sail made the selection, which was announced at the Sail Expo in Atlantic City, N.J.

In the brochure for the induction ceremony, Sail America wrote what could be a description for a mass-market daysailer designed in 1997: "Simple. Comfortable. Easy to launch. Stable with positive flotation. Good sailing performance."

Flying Scot Inc. president Harry Carpenter accepted the award along with long-time Scot builders Eric and Mary Ammann.

In his acceptance speech, Carpenter recognized Douglass and read a short letter that the Flying Scot designer wrote in 1957. "As the result of my years of correspondence and conversations with sailors and prospective sailors," Douglass wrote, "I had formed a pretty definite conception of a boat which would answer the growing need for a planing family-type boat, a boat which could be used for day sailing as well as racing, could carry a crowd and yet could be sailed by two persons under all normal conditions."

Douglass closed the letter by writing, "The Flying Scot, then, is the embodiment of an idea for better sailing for many people."

Under the designer's direction, the Gordon Douglass Boat Company built the Flying Scot in Oakland until Douglass retired in 1972 and sold the company to the Ammanns. In turn, when the Ammanns retired, the Carpenters took over in 1991 under the signboard "Flying Scot Inc."

In combination with a few other builders who were licensed to build Scots, more than 5,200 of the boats have been built, and production in recent years still averages 60 to 70 boats annually. In the tradition of Douglass, who won three of the first four national championships, the Carpenters continue support of class regattas throughout the East, Midwest, and South, often taking home trophies in the process.

The 2,000-member Flying Scot Sailing Association has worked with the builders to remain true to the designer's original tenets of keeping things simple and resisting frequent rule, design, or equipment changes. The class has also successfully worked to keep the low-key, family emphasis on class events such as the Wife-Husband Championship, started in 1987, and the Parent-Child Championship, initiated in 1997.

The 14 Hall of Fame boats, noted as "true American classics, exemplars of the extraordinary skill and ingenuity of American boatbuilders," range in size from 10 to 41 feet. Several date to the dawn of the fiberglass era and are considered collector's items, while others are still in production selling briskly. Half-models of Hall of Fame boats are displayed each year at Sail Expos, and are on permanent display at the Museum of Yachting.

Lakers' Davis Signs Letter With Coastal Carolina

Garrett Community College baseball standout Jason Davis has signed a letter of intent to continue his athletic and academic career at Coastal Carolina University, located in Conway, S.C. An NCAA Division I institition, Coastal Carolina finished second in the Big South Conference during this spring's regular season and lost in the championship game of the conference tournament.

Davis, who played shortstop and catcher for the Lakers, had a .315 batting average last season and was ranked third in RBIs with 22. He attended Woodbury High School in New Jersey and was drafted out of high school by the Houston Astros.

"Jason Davis was the best overall athlete to play for GCC," remarked Ed Wildesen, the Lakers' head baseball coach. "Seldom do you find a top college player that can catch and play shortstop both."

Davis is the son of Jacob and Deborah Davis of Woodbury, N.J.

Maryland Deer Archery Season Is Now Open

Maryland's 1998-99 deer bow season opened on Sept. 15, with increased hunting opportunities for the state's estimated 50,000 bow hunters.

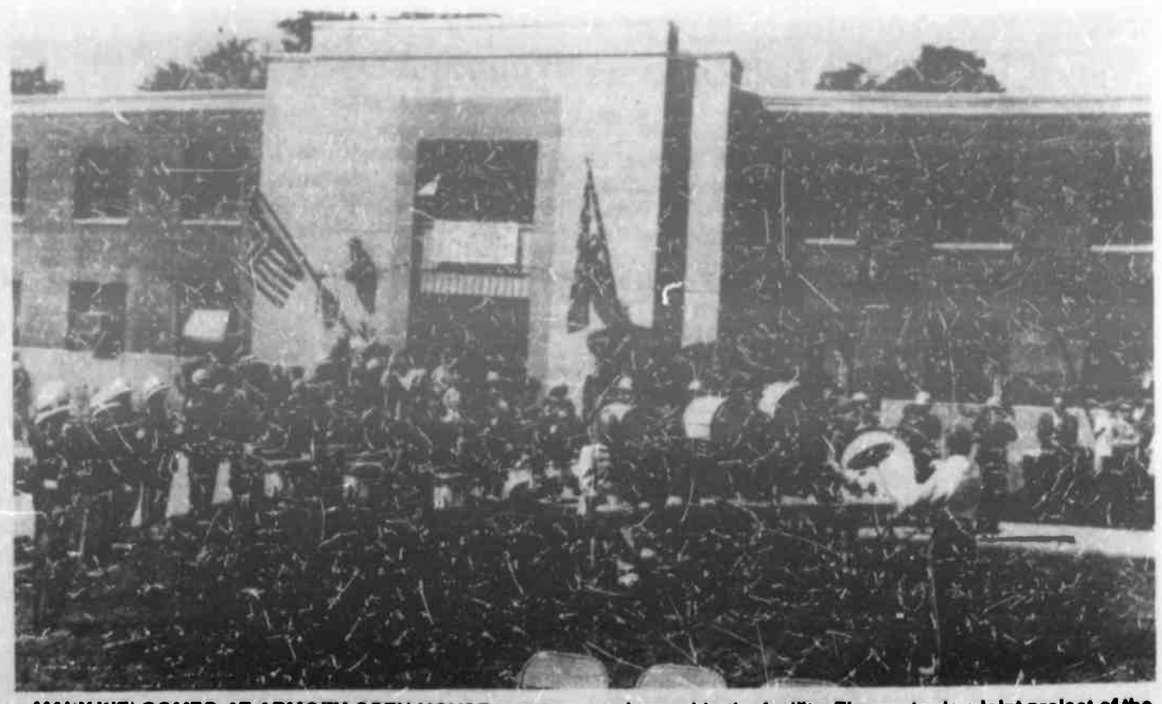
"During our statewide deer planning process, Maryland citizens told us that deer should be managed in consideration of Maryland's distinct habitats and landscapes, and the diverse public interests that exist across the state," said John R. Griffin, secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR). "Maryland's 1998-99 deer hunting regulations reflect this philosophy."

A major change to Maryland's deer hunting regulations involves the creation of four deer management regions. Independent deer bag limits have been established for each region. The number of deer that a bowhunter can take in one region will not affect the hunter's bag limit in another region.

Maryland's new deer harvest regulations are designed to stabilize deer population numbers throughout the state by encouraging hunters to harvest antlerless deer in certain areas, Griffin said, adding that the creation of separate bag limits for different sections of the state will enhance efforts to tailor deer management for the needs of local communities.

During the 1998 session of the Maryland General Assembly, legislation was passed which has resulted in changes to regulations relative to bonus deer stamps. A bonus deer stamp entitles an individual to take one additional deer for each stamp purchased, within established seasons and bag limits for a particular Deer Management Region. Bonus deer stamps can be used in any deer season, i.e., the bow, muzzleloader, and firearm season. An individual who purchases a bonus deer stamp but does not use it during a particular season may use that stamp during any subsequent season in the same hunting license year. The fee for a resident bonus deer stamp is $5, while the fee for a nonresident bonus deer stamp has been increased to $25.

Region A includes: Allegany, Garrett, and Washington (Zone 2) counties. Region B encompasses Carroll, Frederick (Zone 1), and Washington (Zone 1) counties. Region C covers Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Frederick (Zone 2), Howard, Montgomery, and Prince George's counties. Region D takes in Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Harford, Kent, Queen Anne's, Somerset, St. Mary's, Talbot, Wicomico, and Worcester counties.



In Region A bowhunters may take one antlered or antlerless white-tailed deer. A second white-tailed deer may be taken using either a bonus deer stamp or a bonus antlerless deer stamp. The combined total bow season bag limit in Region A is two deer. A limited number of bonus antlerless deer stamps will be available via lottery for Region A.

Application procedures for bonus antlerless deer stamps can be found on pages 31 and 32 of Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1998-99. Although this publication states the stamps are valid only on certain dates during the firearm and muzzleloader season, bonus antlerless deer stamps will also be valid in Region A during the late segments of the bow season, to include: Dec. 14-18, 1998, and Jan. 4-30, 1999. This change was necessary to ensure that DNR regulations were consistent with new legislation passed by the General Assembly relative to bonus deer stamps, according to Griffin.

Bowhunters are reminded that only one deer may be taken per day in the following counties: Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington. In all other counties, there is no restriction that applies to the number of deer that may be taken per day within the season bag limits.

Bowhunters are asked to concentrate on safety whenever afield. They should always wear a safety belt or harness when using a tree stand, and stay out of trees on windy days. Permanent tree stands should be inspected and repaired as necessary. Hunters should always use a hoist rope to get equipment up and down trees.

For additional information regarding Maryland's deer hunting regulations or for information about hunting on Maryland's more than 250,000 acres of public lands, persons should consult the DNR publication Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1998-99. This publication is available from all DNR Sport License agents and DNR Regional Service Centers.

MANY WELCOMED AT ARMORY OPEN HOUSE — Hundreds of visitors came to the Oakland Armory Sunday afternoon to see equipment, play games, watch demonstrations, and perhaps even get their faces painted, as shown at bottom. Spinning balloons with darts was a favorite for the youngsters (below), and all were entertained by the performance of the Southern Garrett Marching Band, shown above. The guard members were on hand to explain weaponry and other equipment, and to answer questions about enlistment. Guests were treated to a pancake meal inside the armory, and were allowed to climb all over official vehicles parked outside. Another highlight of the day was the official opening of the Distance Learning Center housed in the facility. The center is a joint project of the Maryland National Guard and Garrett Community College, and is one of five distance learning classrooms housed in the state by the National Guard. The center offers college and professional courses through video teleconferencing and the Internet. GCC was one of the first state colleges to enter into a Partners in Education agreement with the Maryland guard, whereby guard members receive a 50% tuition waiver from GCC while the guard allows GCC to offer classes at its Distance Learning Centers. The Adjutant General of Maryland, Lt. Gen. James F. Fretterd, and Dr. Stephen Herman, the president of GCC, jointly dedicated the center Sunday. Photos by John McEwan

Roaring Knob Raceway Park

Dave Groves of Morgantown, W.Va., was crowned "King of the Knob" as he conquered the competition by leading all 40 laps of the season ending Late Model special at Roaring Knob Raceway Park Sunday afternoon. Jim Byers of McClellandtown, Pa., was the big winner of the "Rod Burning Special" for the Modified Stocks; Jeff Taylor of Saltsburg, Pa., made his first appearance a winning one in the "Rockin the Knob" 20-lap race for the E-Mods, and the Pure Stock feature produced a career first win for Neal Isminger of Washington, Pa.

Although Groves led from the start, his win was certainly well earned, as he flawlessly maneuvered the spec motor #0 through lapped traffic during the 40-lap event. While last week's winner, John Flinner, was methodically working his way through the pack from deep in the field, Chris Conner, Denny Chamberlain, and Jim Kutas were swapping positions two through four. Flinner joined the chase, and the four of them set their sights on Groves. A final late race caution on lap 31 reset the field for the dash to the cash. At the finish it was Groves, Chamberlain, Flinner, Conner and Kutas. Rounding out the top 10 was Ken Scheltenbrand, Corey Conley, Mike Hawkins, Robbie Scott, and Ron Slavic. The three heat races were won by Groves, Hawkins, and Scheltenbrand

Jim Byers was back in his #35 for the first time since his arm injury, and he showed that he was up to the challenge by leading every lap to win the extra dollar event for the Modified Stocks. Joe Kelley finally got by second-running Tom Humberson late in the race, and he appeared ready to make a move for the lead when a tire went down on the final lap. Bobby Neratka and Lonnie Hoffman were both able to pass Kelley for positions two and three coming for the checker, and Kelley managed to limp across in fourth with Tom Humberson winding up fifth. Six through 10 were Jeff Kenner, Brian Duffy, Mike Bakalon, Keith Friedline, and Ken Brown. Byers picked up the extra cash for leading at halfway, and Neratka received the Hard Charger award for coming from eleventh to second. Heat winners were Hoffman and Byers.

The race for the E-Mods was a good one between Jeff Taylor, who garnered his 23rd feature win this season, and Shawn Davis who also has more than 20 wins for the year. Taylor held off the continual challenges from Davis, and at the end of the 20-lap special it was Taylor winning by a small margin. Larry Kugel was right there for third, and fourth was Rick Stricker, with Louie Krushansky coming in fifth. Following close behind them was Renee Dean in sixth, Ron Clevenger seventh, Charles Cochran eighth, Vince Laboon ninth, and Vic Vandergrift rounding out the top 10. The two heat races were won by Kugel and Davis.

The final race of the season at Roaring Knob Raceway Park was composed of a full field of Pure Stocks, and when the checker waved, an excited Neal Isminger had won his career first feature in his initial visit to "the Knob." Brian Taylor dogged him for the distance, but Isminger was not to be denied, as he maintained his line throughout the race. Taylor settled for second, with Jamie Kemp third, Jack Rosenberger fourth, and Bart Tressler fifth. Completing the top 10 were Bob Medved, Wayne Korzun, Doug Foster, and Charlie Bittinger. Heat race winners were Rosenberger and Isminger.

Menker Named

an outdoor traveling club program called Arsenal Football Associates. Both of these programs afforded high school youth an opportunity to play teams beyond the local area to further develop their level of skills.

Besides coaching the traveling teams, he has also performed most of the administrative duties for the program, along with his wife Cathy. He has coordinated license courses with MSYSA for the training and certification of local coaches, he assisted in the development of a coaches' manual which provides direction in techniques, skills, and tactics that can be taught at each age level, and he was instrumental in the founding of high school girls' soccer in Garrett and Allegany counties, which began this fall. He is also a certified referee, both by FIFA and the high school association, and referees on a regular basis for MSA and area high school matches.

Menker was recommended for the state award by a number of persons, including Ron Petrella, MSA president; Carole Ann Lovett, immediate past MSA president; and former players and parents of players.

"Mel is a leader who is taking the soccer program in Garrett County to another level," Petrella said. "He is a major source for soccer knowledge and has provided guidance needed to assure a successful program in the future."

Lovett added, "I knew after our first meeting that Mel was a gift to the soccer youth of Garrett County."

A parent wrote, "I saw my daughter's soccer skills improve because of Coach Menker's patience and guidance, and he wasn't even her coach at the time. Sportsmanship and personal character development are the most important to him, though. The game was to be fun, and as long as the team had given their all, he considered that a win."

A former player at Southern added, "Coach Menker has made more of an impact on me in the last two years than all the other coaches I have had in the last nine years combined. He has turned the local soccer program completely around."

Menker's wife Cathy said that she, too, believes her husband has been "an integral part of the growth of soccer" locally. "His enthusiasm and love for the game continues to grow, and is contagious," she said.

"Also, since Mel is a minister by profession and, in that role, counsels many people, his encouragement and positive attitude toward life has helped turn several 'at risk' youth into productive members of the high school team with improved academic performances," she said.

In making the presentation to Menker, May also noted the support of Mrs. Menker. "Having been involved in youth soccer for over 20 years, I know that it simply is not possible to give the amount of time required to have such an impact on the game without the support of one's spouse," he said. "This kind of support is quite a selfless act by a wife who can now look forward to either less time with her husband, or more time on a soccer field to be with him."

The Menkers are the parents of two sons, John and Chris. John was a standout player for the Rams until completion of his senior year last spring and Chris is a freshman member of the varsity this season. Both are certified referees, while John is also serving as a coach in the MSA youth division.

The late Dr. Minnegan was the state director of physical education from 1942 to 1944 and was appointed by the U.S. Department of State to establish physical education and youth soccer programs in Europe in 1945 and Korea in 1947. He established indoor soccer at Towson State University in the 1950s and was a member of the staff of the U.S. Olympic Committee for the 1964 games in Tokyo. Throughout this period, Minnegan continuously established and promoted the establishment of youth soccer programs in the Baltimore area and throughout Maryland.

"While Mel's involvement in youth soccer in Maryland has spanned only two years, it was very evident to the MSYSA board of directors that this year's winner has contributed more to elevating the game in his community in a relatively short period of time than most individuals would contribute in a lifetime," May said during the award presentation. "I have had the honor and privilege of presenting many of our Coach of the Year awards during my years of involvement with MSYSA, but none has given me more pleasure than presenting the 1998 award to Mel Menker of the Mountaintop Soccer Association, the Arsenal Football Club, and Southern Garrett High School."

ROUNDERS

Rated R · Running time: 1:55

Over the years, we have seen many gambling movies: The Hustler and its sequel, The Color Of Money. Indecent Proposal and its comedic counterpart, Honeymoon In Vegas. The Sting, The Cincinnati Kid, Rain Man, Oscar And Lucinda, etc., etc. All of these have either been funny or thought-provoking, or satisfying in some way. But John Dahl's Rounders is none of the above. Little more than a showcase for Matt Damon, Rounders captures all the cons of high-stakes poker and none of the pros. And yet Damon's character, Mike McDermott, never learns the difference. We're supposed to understand why Mike is attracted to the pastime, but I'll be darned if I can figure it out from the screenplay, penned by newcomers David Levien and Brian Koppelman.

Mike is a recovering gambler who lost thousands of dollars to a Russian-born card shark named "KGB" (John Malkovich) while trying for the chance to compete in the World Series of Poker. After KGB cleaned him out, he quit the game and started working toward his law degree. His girlfriend Jo (Gretchen Mol), also a law student, supported him in his struggle, and the two of them lived together in humble security. But when Mike's friend "Worm" (Edward Norton) is released from prison, Mike soon begins the inevitable slide back into his old ways. He starts losing money and missing meetings, and Jo dumps him like a box of rocks.

Soon we learn that Worm has a large outstanding debt to a man called "Grama" (Michael Rispoli), who works with KGB. Grama makes it clear to Worm that if he doesn't pay off in a few days, he's going to be very uncomfortable. Since Worm is Mike's friend and former partner, Mike agrees to share the debt. So the two guys begin a dedicated playing spree, and every time Mike is almost winning, Worm gets caught cheating, and they both get thrown out on their ears. Tired yet? I was.

Finally, Mike has to go to his old law professor, Abe Petrovsky (Martin Landau), to help bail him out. Luckily, Mike had made such a good impression on Abe that he is willing to clean out his savings even though Mike has quit school.

What is not explained by the Levien/Koppelman script is why Mike would so easily leave his legitimate life and go back into business with Worm, who is obviously nothing but trouble. We are told of Worm's expertise at cards, but all we really see is that he is an obnoxious punk who continually cheats and steals (even from his friends) and can't stop irritating the wrong people. Meanwhile, Abe, Jo, and the rest of Mike's law friends seem to be respectable people, yet he casts them aside like the seal off a new Bicycle deck.

The acting in this film is above average, and that's what saves it from being completely undistinguished. The obvious, astonishing exception is John Malkovich, an extremely talented actor, who seems to be concentrating so hard on his phony Russian accent and his Oreo cookies that he has forgotten how to craft a character. But Damon continues to show why he was nominated for Best Actor last year, and Norton, Landau, and the others provide an adequate supporting cast. Rounders is another nice notch in Damon's belt and an excellent commercial for Oreos, but its destiny lies as a dust collector on the video store shelves. ★★★

LEADING THE PACK for the 1998 OutSpokin' for Maryland's Kids, an annual 350-mile bike trek across Maryland that began at the Salem Children's Trust near Grantsville, was Tom Ruckert, a member of Salem's staff. The purpose of the event, which got under way Monday and will conclude in Ocean City this weekend, is to raise awareness of the special needs of children throughout Maryland's child care agencies. Those interested in making a donation to benefit the Salem Children's Trust may do so by calling 301-689-8178. Salem also held its open house Sunday, an event which featured among other things an antique auto show, pictured below, by the Mason Dixon Street Rod Association. Salem's children were afforded rides around the grounds in various classic vehicles. Above right, Senator John Hafer presents to Salem board president Stephanie Cupler a resolution from the Senate of Maryland to Salem recognizing "20 years of educating, assisting, and nurturing Maryland's children through a dedicated faculty and staff, along with the efforts of many tireless volunteers."

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

If my memory is right it was in an early week of September 1862 when the Battle of Antietam was fought. A few years ago I was reading a family history of my mother's ancestors, the Miller family. They had settled near Grantsville and Bittinger. On one day in the 1860s, Henry Miller was working in his fields on his farm on the Amish Road and The National Trail, when his horses began to be hard to handle. He sat down to take a break, and as he sat on the ground he felt the ground rumble. He thought it was a possible upcoming thunderstorm or an explosion. The next day he learned about the Battle of Antietam just being fought that week.

CATECHISM CLASSES

The Emmanuel Lutheran Church Catechism classes are back in session. The second-year class will meet each Sunday at 6 p.m. and will be taught by Doug Knupp, our intern pastor. The first-year class will be held during Sunday School time at 9 a.m., taught by Rob Vagnetti. A first communion class is to begin soon.

SURPRISE VISITOR

A late surprise visit by Rick Sieble of Annapolis happened when he arrived at the Sussman home with a two-foot-long rock fish he caught on the Bay. So that called for another cookout and we had a huge feast Saturday evening. Other guests were Rick's best friend since childhood, Mike Voekel, and his family, of the Cove.

Megan and Sarah Voekel spent the night with the Sussman girls. Everyone was so stuffed, but happy.

Last Friday afternoon my former boss at Garrett Community College, Dean Lillian Mitchell, visited me to cheer me up. She brought her super cheesecake. After she left I had to take my girls to the Glotfeltys and, since I did not want the dogs to follow me, I had to leave them in the house. Would you believe what happened? Those two dogs got that cake off the table and when I arrived home in a few minutes, I almost fainted. I did cry and yell and scream and throw a few things. But I was broken-hearted.

A NEW FRIEND

Katie Wilson is a new resident to the McHenry area and a good friend of my girls. She moved here with her brothers Jeffrey and Corey and her parents, Richard and Terri Ludwig Wilson, in August from Calvert County, which is in southern Maryland. Katie has made many new friends quickly. Although she left many good friends in Calvert County, she has managed to stay busy. She attended her cousin's birthday party at Crystal Smith's grandmother's home in McHenry. After leaving the party she went with Claire and Katie Sussman to their home, where she rode a horse and a hog and just had a great time.

On another day, Katie and her brothers and their mom went to Crystal Waters and rented a boat to ride around and swim in the lake. She has also visited Swallow Falls and jumped from a rope swing into the falls. Katie and her family were visited this past week by her older brother Brian and his girlfriend, Christi Lynn Hayward, Mike Burley, and Christina Wilde. They, along with Katie's mom and Corey, went to the Garrett County Airport and flew over the lake and the building site of Katie's soon-to-be new home on Mosser Road.

Katie loves Garrett County, but hopes to spend her 13th birthday on September 27 back in Calvert County with her oldest brother Rickey, her sister-in-law Carrie, niece Ashley, nephew Cannon, along with Brian, Christi, Jeffrey, Corey, mom and dad, and her many old school friends. As if any of that could be topped, Katie's father surprised her and her family by bringing Katie's nephew, Richard Lee "Hunter" Wilson, up from Calvert County where he was visiting his dad, Ricky and stepmother Carrie, and Ashley and Cannon from Florida.

Margaret and Jim Wagner attended the 50th wedding anniversary party for Art and Ruth Butler at the World Lighthouse Worship Center at Grantsville on Saturday evening.

Sheila Filsinger and daughter Halei, Accident, visited her father, Jim Wagner, and wife Margaret on Sunday.

Ruth DiPaolo attended the annual Wilhelm get-together at Avilton on Saturday evening. She attended GLAF volunteer appreciation party at the Yacht Club on Turkey Neck on Sunday afternoon.

Harriett and Ken Buckel visited June Beachy and daughter Thelma and Mildred Bever on Sunday afternoon at June's residence on Negro Mountain.

Ferne Beachy visited Thelma Green on Saturday afternoon.

Ruth Stinchcomb, Canton, Ohio, was a weekend guest of her aunt, Ida Reckner. Others visiting were Roland and Norma Bernard, Canton, and William Brenaeman of Bloomington; and Dwaine and Lisa Platter, Adam and Amanda, Smithsburg.

Cheryl and Tim Glotfelty spent last weekend with Tom Glotfelty in Atlantic City, N.J., where he is based with Spirit Airlines.

SOCCER SEASON

Soccer season is back in Bittinger. On Saturday parents were running around all over the place for their children's games. For example, one of our children, Meredith, was playing a game in Oakland at 9 a.m. Then, Caitlin had to be in Friendsville at 10 a.m., followed by Claire's "Singer" game. Claire and her teammates, Torrey Poholsky and Brent Housley, made a strong effort against an older and bigger team, but it was not enough.

Greg Whittemore moved up to the Northern junior varsity team. Lesa is busy with her new responsibility as "in charge of the concession stand" at the JV games.

Local Historical Society, Museum Awarded Grants

The Garrett County Historical Society and the Garrett County Historical Museum were both recently awarded $1,775 in grant funding by the Institute of Museum and Library Services (ILMS).

The funding is part of a $275,000 package recently distributed to historical preservation institutions across Maryland. The grants are designed to provide critical support for core museum operations, help museums care for collections, and strengthen professional standards and practices within museums of all sizes and disciplines, according to Diane Frankel, ILMS director.

"Today's museums connect people with ideas, memories, accomplishments, and creativity," Frankel commented. "We are proud to support these outstanding institutions and congratulate them for the unique experiences they offer to millions of visitors each year."

IMLS supports the full range of museums including aquariums, arboretums and botanical gardens, art museums, youth museums, general museums, historic houses and sites, history museums, nature centers, natural history and anthropology museums, planetariums, science and technology centers, specialized museums, and zoological parks. Small and large museums in cities and towns across the United States use IMLS funds to strengthen their public service.

IMLS provides a wide range of awards: General Operating Support (GOS) grants reward the best in museum practice with funds that can be used for ongoing institutional activities; Conservation Project (CP) Support provides for a variety of activities to care for collections and preserve our nation's heritage for future generations; Conservation Assessment Program (CAP) helps small museums hire professional conservators to evaluate the condition of the museum's collection; and the Museum Assessment Program grants (MAP I, II, and III) offer technical assistance for museum operations, care of collections and the museum's public dimension.

Created by the Museum and Library Services Act of 1996, IMLS is an independent federal grantmaking agency that fosters leadership, innovation, and lifetime of learning by supporting museums and libraries. For more information, including grant guidelines, interested organizations and individuals may contact Institute of Museum and Library Services, 1100 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, DC 20506: 202-606-8536; or http:// www.imls.fed.us/.

In Loving Memory of Olive Lewis

The family wishes to express sincere thanks to Pastor Wally Weeks from the Pleasant View Baptist Church, and everyone who sent cards and gifts of money. Also, we want to thank Rev. Leatherman of the Independent Baptist Church who visited every week to share scripture with her and to pray with her. Also, to each member of Hospice who showed her love in so many ways. Also, for her favorite hymns that Sonny Ashby sang and the beautiful hymn that Mark Watkins sang. We want to especially thank Burt & Carol Davis who have been with us in every emergency. Also, Anne Lee and Marty who were so helpful all during Olive's illness. Our thanks to the ladies of Pleasant View for the wonderful meal that was provided for the family after the funeral and to Mark Durst of Durst Funeral Home for his special concern and caring for family and friends. May God richly bless all who had a part in making this difficult time a little easier.

Sincerely,
The Family - Robert & Doris Lewis, Charles & Pauline Lewis, Martha Lewis, Evelyn Lewis & Family, Nieces Anne Lee & Martha Lewis

Learning Life

This playground has been quiet all summer...no laughter, no somersaults, no bumps and bruises. Soon scrambling, screaming children will scamper from place to place to see who can climb higher or who can do the neatest tricks.

We might think of this playground as symbolic of our child's life in the future when egos will be bruised and some will climb higher than others on the corporate ladder...when we cannot "kiss it and make it better". Now we must prepare our youth for adult challenges and help them to grow in confidence as well as humility; in intelligence but also in wisdom.

A child's introduction to life is not complete without an introduction to God and weekly family visits to His House. There your youngster will learn lessons which will guide him or her through life with joy and peace of mind.

Begin worship now. "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." Prov. 22:6

Medical Advice From Medical Students

YOU ARE NOT ALONE
by Christine Browning

Check those characteristics that you see in yourself:

- o Feeling ugly inside.
- o Feeling worthless.
- o Feeling that you are in the way.
- o Feeling guilty or ashamed.
- o Blame yourself for whatever goes wrong.
- o Unable to complete tasks.
- o Difficulty trusting others.
- o Tend to get involved with people who abuse you physically, verbally, emotionally, or sexually.
- o Difficulties communicating thoughts, feelings, and desires to others.
- o Difficulty accepting favors, compliments, or presents.
- o Unable to enjoy sex or to have orgasms.
- o Promiscuity.
- o Unexpected bursts of anger or rage.
- o Mood swings.
- o Chronic depression.
- o Addiction to food, alcohol, or drugs.
- o Sleep disturbances: nightmares or insomnia.
- o Tendency to overapologize.
- o Require extreme privacy in the bathroom.
- o Failure to remove clothing when swimming, bathing, or sleeping.
- o Problems with headaches, frequent bladder or vaginal infections, skin disorders, or numbness.

If you found yourself saying, "That's me!" to many of these, you may have been sexually abused as a child. If so, you are not alone. One out of every three girls, and one out of every seven boys, are sexually abused by the time they reach the age of 18. Sexual abuse is any unwanted or uncomfortable sexual experience with anyone (a parent, step-parent, uncle, aunt, grandparent, cousin, sibling, babysitter, teacher, even someone just a few years older than you). Some abuse is not even physical, but verbal, emotional, or psychological. Nor is it defined by frequency or length of abuse, it can occur only once and take only a minute.

Many survivors of sexual abuse have minimized the damage suffered, convinced themselves that they have moved past it, or even repressed the memories entirely. The checklist you have just completed is an inventory of coping skills you may have learned to survive the trauma of being sexually abused. The checklist may suggest a couple of things: that you were sexually abused as a child, but have forgotten; or that it continues to affect everything in your life (self-esteem, relationships, sexuality, parenting, work, even health) if you have minimized or "moved past" it. While some coping skills have developed into strengths (being successful at school or work, being independent, having a sense of humor, or being a good parent), others have become destructive patterns (overeating, alcohol abuse, abusive relationships).

If you feel overwhelmed reading this, remember that you have survived the hardest part, the abuse itself. You have no reason to be ashamed. You did the best you could to survive an impossible situation. This abuse has provided you with strength, the most important quality necessary to heal.

There are a variety of therapies available to survivors of sexual abuse. They range from reading books (such as Bass and Davis' The Courage to Heal and Engel's The Right to Innocence) to attending support groups or psychotherapy. In support groups, survivors share feelings, struggles, and triumphs as they battle shame, secrecy, and low self-esteem (check local newspapers for groups). Survivors of Incest Anonymous offers a national 12-step program (SIA, P.O. Box 21817, Baltimore, MD 21222-6817, 410-433-2365). And therapy is available to individuals, couples, or families (contact your physician or local health department).

Dealing with sexual abuse is not an option; it is a requirement. The longer you put it off, the worse it will get. There is hope for everyone whether you have no conscious memory of the abuse, deny its effects, or are aware of both. With hard work and commitment you can not only heal from childhood sexual abuse, but thrive.

Westvaco Buys 45 Percent Of Chinese Plant

Westvaco Corporation has announced its intent to acquire a substantial equity interest in a new consumer packaging plant in Guangzhou, China. The plant, located in southeast China, is owned by a Chinese subsidiary of Shorewood Packaging Corporation. Upon closing, Westvaco will acquire 45 percent of Shorewood's Chinese operations for approximately $25 million.

Shorewood, a leading non-integrated folding carton company, plans to open its state-of-the-art package printing and package converting facility within 30 days. The new plant is located in a 125,000-square-foot building on 11 acres.

"The acquisition is an excellent business opportunity and reflects our continuing strong interest in expanding our international consumer packaging operations," said John A. Luke Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Westvaco. "In 1995, we built a new plant in the Czech Republic, and in 1996 we purchased a modern plant in Brazil. These two facilities, along with our new venture in China, complement our substantial consumer packaging operation in the United States."

Luke added that the arrangement with Shorewood will quickly increase Westvaco's participation in Chinese markets. Westvaco entered the Chinese market nearly 20 years ago and exports paper, paperboard, and specialty chemicals to a variety of customers in the country.

"While the present economic turmoil in Asia has recently tempered China's extraordinary economic growth, we are very optimistic about long-term business opportunities in the country," said Luke. "The partnership with Shorewood positions us well to benefit from rapidly increasing demand by the Chinese people for a wide variety of consumer products."

The plant's customer base includes multinational and Chinese producers of confections, cosmetics, personal care items, film, batteries, and tobacco. The new plant will operate gravure and offset printing presses.

Shorewood will have day-to-day management responsibility for the new plant and will work closely with Westvaco on marketing programs and new product development.

"Shorewood is a highly respected producer of premium packaging with strong operating experience, a blue-chip customer base, and a broad product line," said Luke. "We know the company very well as a customer for our bleached board, and our companies have a great deal in common. We both emphasize innovative products and services and view international markets as offering some of the best business opportunities.

Consummation of the China transaction is subject to the execution of definitive purchase and sale and operating agreements, and the satisfaction of certain conditions contained in the agreements.

Westvaco is a major producer of paper, envelopes, packaging, and specialty chemicals. The company owns 1.5 million acres of timberlands in the United States and Brazil and has manufacturing facilities in both countries as well as the Czech Republic. International business accounts for 25 percent of Westvaco's sales, and the company has customers in more than 70 countries.

Shorewood Packaging prints and manufactures high quality paperboard packaging for the cosmetics, food, home video, music, software, tobacco, toiletries, and general consumer markets in the United States and Canada.

Improving Lives by Providing Quality Health Care to Families in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania

September is Habitat For Humanity Month!

HABITAT HOUSES ARE:

•1,040 square feet in size •Built with volunteer labor
•"A hand up, not a handout" •Owned by families who can afford the mortgage, taxes, insurance, and utilities using no more than one third of their income and have contributed 500 hours of sweat equity.

All are built on a solid foundation of community support, including:
•Volunteer Workers
•Businesses
•Churches and civic clubs which provide meals and lodging
•Financial support from generous, committed individuals

The CARPENTER'S CLUB is a special way for you to support Habitat. Each square foot of living space costs $46.00, and Carpenter's Club members pledge to cover the cost of that one square foot in every house we build. Traditionally, Habitat builds two houses each year, so that the biggest commitment a member has is $92.00 a year. When we have reached our goal of 1,000 members, the biggest stumbling block Habitat faces—the start-up cost for each home, will be conquered.

PLEASE JOIN THE CARPENTER'S CLUB
by returning the pledge card below with your check for $92.00 made out to Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. Hereafter, you will be informed each time Habitat is about to break ground on a new home to remind you of your pledge.

The Board of Directors and fellow Carpenter's Club members thank you for considering this opportunity.

*Some members of the Carpenter's Club want to commit to 2 or more square feet of living space for each home. We invite you to join at the level that works best for you.

Layton Named GES Nurse By Health Dept.

Martha Layton has been selected as a Geriatric Evaluation Services (GES) nurse with the Home Care Services division of the Garrett County Health Department. Layton is a native of Garrett County. She is the daughter of Alice Rice, Mtn. Lake Park, and the late James Rice.

The GES program is designed to assist elderly persons, 60 years of age and older at risk, to determine which community resources will meet their individual needs and enable them to avoid institutionalization or to remain as independent as possible in the least restrictive environment.

GES units in local health departments are composed of multi-disciplinary teams consisting of a nurse, social worker, and physician. These teams provide health and social evaluations which ascertain the needs of elderly persons. Evaluations are made in the home setting or at the client's current location.

Geriatric Evaluation Services will evaluate persons age 18 and over. No fees are charged for the evaluation visit. For information regarding these services, persons may contact Geriatric Evaluation Services at 301-334-8253 or 301-895-3112.

STOP AND HEAL COLD SORES FASTER

More than 50 million Americans suffer from reoccurring cold sores. Cold Sores (or Fever Blisters) are caused by a virus that hides in your body until it's triggered. The trigger is usually something very common like sun or cold exposure, stress, fatigue, and injury.

The virus can cause early symptoms, like tingling, before the blisters appear. Once the blisters appear, most cold sores will heal on their own within 7 to 10 days.

A new prescription medication, DENAVIR, is the first FDA approved medication for the treatment of cold sores. It is an anti-viral medication that will attack the virus. If placed during the early stages (before the blister appears) it may stop the cold sore from appearing. For cold sores (or blisters) that are present, Denavir has been shown on average to shorten the healing time to 4.5 days.

During your next visit to your dentist or physician, ask about Denavir to see if it may help you smile a little better.

COVER STORY

NBC dramas add new female roles

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

When NBC's Law & Order, ER and Homicide: Life on the Street begin new seasons this week, three new female characters join the fray.

Wednesday, Sept. 23, in Law & Order, Angie Harmon introduces Assistant District Attorney Abbie Carmichael, whose independent style rubs womanizing colleague Jack McCoy (Sam Waterston) the wrong way. But with a 95 percent conviction rate at her last job, Abbie is a hard woman to argue with.

Angie Harmon

"She has a lot more strength than the past two characters I've done," Harmon says, referring to her roles in Baywatch Nights and C-16.

"She's used to (prosecuting) drug dealers. She's used to working on her own and getting the job done."

If there is any doubt about Harmon's suitability for a spot in the cerebral drama, executive producer Dick Wolf has a ready response.

"This woman is a terrific actress," Wolf says. "Holding people's previous credits against them, in this business, is pretty risky."

Besides, Wolf adds, "There is a wish-fulfillment factor (for female viewers) when you put an attractive woman in a situation where she is doing real, adult stuff and doing it with obvious intelligence."

Wolf's wish theory must be contagious, because a beautiful woman is one of two new characters joining the Homicide team when it returns Friday, Sept. 25.

In the wake of last season's squad room massacre, Lt. Giardello (Yaphet Kotto) welcomes Detective Rene Sheppard, played by Michael Michele, who had a recurring role in Wolf's New York Undercover.

A former beauty queen, Rene can handle her caseload perfectly well, thank you, and won't let her good looks be held against her. It seems a good bet Rene will have a juicy role in the next Law-Homicide crossover story line, coming later in the season.

Also new to the show is FBI agent Mike Giardello (Giancarlo Esposito), the lieutenant's estranged son, who transfers in from out of town to work in tandem with the homicide squad.

Overall this season, Tom Fontana, the show's executive producer, says viewers should expect a broader focus for Homicide, unlike last season, when Andre Braugher's Frank Pembleton was the centerpiece.

On Thursday, Sept. 24, ER welcomes Kellie Martin (Christy, Life Goes On) as third-year medical student Lucy Knight.

Martin says the name Knight is appropriate for her character, as she thinks she is going to save the world.

"She is a big screw-up, though. That's the big shocker," the actress says. "She's a straight-A student in the classroom, but when she gets into the arena and she actually has to put in an IV, she doesn't know what to do."

In fact, Martin says, her character is turning out to be a bit of comic relief for the show. "She doesn't threaten anyone's life with her blunders. That wouldn't be funny, obviously. But (her antics are) really funny right now. She's just mangling everything."

Judge Joseph Wapner

Q: I hear Judge Wapner has a new TV show on Animal Planet, but I can't find it anywhere in my listings. What is it called? –Mary Fran Purse via e-mail.

A: Judge Wapner's Animal Court airs weekdays on Animal Planet starting Monday, Sept. 28.

Q: Does Gale Storm have any plans to star in another series, or guest star in one that's already running? I think she would be great on Touched by an Angel. –Allen Freeman Jr., Madison Heights, Va.

A: At 76, Storm has no plans to tackle a new series (her last one was The Gale Storm Show, also known as Oh! Susanna, which ended in 1960). She made a guest appearance on a Murder, She Wrote episode back in 1989.

She does, however, seem to be moving back into the public eye since the 1996 death of her husband, Paul Masterson. She charmed fans last spring at a Knoxville, Tenn., film festival event in her honor.

For more information, write to the Gale Storm Appreciation Society, P.O. Box 212, Coalton, OH 45621. Be sure to include a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the reply.

Q: What happened to the delightful NBC comedy series For Your Love? Isn't it coming back? –Puzzled via e-mail.

A: Love has moved to The WB Network, where it airs Thursdays.

Q: I need your help. I say a TV movie called Uncommon Valor premiered on TV the same night as The A-Team many years ago. It was about a pyromaniac who set fire to a hospital after he lost his job. My friends say I am crazy and the only movie of that title was a Gene Hackman war movie. –"Am I Nuts?" via e-mail.

A: Relax. Mitchell Ryan, Ben Murphy and Barbara Parkins are among the stars of this CBS movie (a series pilot), which aired Jan. 22, 1983, according to Alvin H. Marill's Movies Made for Television. If Marill has the date right, that was actually one night before NBC unveiled The A-Team.

Q: Is the Cherie Johnson who played Maxine on Family Matters the same Cherie Johnson who played Cherie on Punky Brewster? –Sheila via e-mail.

A: Yes.

Q: Who played the villain in the recent USA Network thriller Every Mother's Worst Fear? I know him, but it's driving me crazy! –C. Montgomery, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

A: That was Ted McGinley (Married ... With Children) in a radically different image mode.

JRL Launch Closed To Boat Trailers

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Jennings Randolph Lake has announced that low water conditions at the lake will necessitate the closing of the Howell Run Boat Launch to boats which require trailers beginning Saturday, Sept. 19. The Corps ramp is still open to all boats that can be hand-carried to the water, and the entire lake is now also accessible to shoreline fishing.

The boat launch operated by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources is still open for use. The Maryland launch is on Mt. Zion Road off Maryland Highway, near the salt shed on Backbone Mountain.

For further information concerning Jennings Randolph Lake interested persons may call 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861 Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 pm. Information on the Maryland DNR launch is available through the Potomac-Garrett State Forest at 301-334-2038 Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Westvaco Unveils Changes To Plants In Other States

Westvaco Corporation has announced changes in its Consumer Packaging Division operations that will affect its plants located in Richmond, Va., and Newark, Del. These changes are described as an expanded commitment on the company's part to provide high-quality packaging via the purchase of new equipment and a consolidation of certain operations.

The centerpiece of the actions is an expansion of division operations in Richmond, Va. There, the company will install a new state-of-the-art offset printing press and create a center for graphic packaging and structural design. These changes are expected to create about 30 new jobs.

"These initiatives will provide improved printing technology and operating efficiencies," said R.G. Johnstone Jr., executive vice president and division manager. "Equally important, our actions will further enhance our ability to provide distinctive, differentiated products and services to our target markets. Our objective is to provide even better support to our customers who compete in very demanding, high-end consumer packaging markets such as those for pharmaceutical, cosmetics, and personal care products," Johnstone said.

The press installation and plant expansion in Richmond will begin immediately and should be completed in December. This consolidation of the division's operations involves a reconfiguration of its activities in Newark. Del. Certain administrative support activities presently performed in Newark will be shifted to the division's Richmond offices, a move made possible by recent system enhancements. In addition, some of the plant's equipment will be relocated to Richmond. The reconfiguration of operations in Newark will begin immediately and is scheduled to be completed over the next three to four months. Over that period of time, it is estimated that the plant's workforce of 270 employees will be reduced between to 60 and 70 employees.

The division has plans in place to meet customer commitments during the transition period in Newark and Richmond. Westvaco personnel will be working closely with the Delaware Department of Labor, other Newark area businesses, as well as an out placement service company, to help Newark employees whose jobs are impacted by this change.

"These actions are part of our overall program to strengthen the Consumer Packaging Division," said Johnstone. "The changes in Richmond and Newark will make the division more efficient while enhancing our printing capabilities and other resources to better serve our customers. We are also expanding our international operations. We recently announced the acquisition of a substantial equity interest in a new consumer packaging plant in Guangzhou, China. Earlier this year, we began a major expansion at our consumer packaging plant in Valinhos, Brazil."

Westvaco's Consumer Packaging Division produces a wide variety of packaging for food, personal care items, pharmaceuticals, tobacco, and many other consumer products. The division operates a total of eight plants: four in Richmond and four others in Newark; Cleveland, Tenn.; Svitavy, Czech Republic: and Valinhos, Brazil. The division employs approximately 2,000 people, about 1,100 of whom work in the Richmond plants.

Westvaco, based in New York, N.Y., is a major producer of paper, envelopes, packaging, and specialty chemicals. The company owns 1.5 million acres of timberlands in the United States and Brazil and has manufacturing facilities in those two countries as well as the Czech Republic. International business accounts for approximately 25 percent of Westvaco's annual sales, and the company has customers in more than 70 countries.

TAKES PART IN INTERNATIONAL SCIENCE FAIR — As the winner of the 1998 Western Maryland Science Expo, Joshua Neubert, a student at Northern High School, took part in the 1998 Intel International Science and Engineering Fair (ISEF), held this spring in Fort Worth, Texas. He was the first Garrett County student to win the regional event and take part in the ISEF. Each year, three to five million students compete in regional fairs, but only about 1,000 move on to the Intel event, in which they compete for over $2 million in scholarships, grants, equipment, and trips. The Intel ISEF is the world's only science project competition for students in the 9th through 12th grades. Rabies Clinics Scheduled By GC Health Dept.

The Garrett County Health Department is sponsoring a series of low cost rabies vaccination clinics for dogs, cats, and ferrets from Monday, Sept. 21, through Saturday, Sept. 26.

The clinics will be offered from 5 to 6 p.m. on the following days at these locations: Monday at Grantsville Elementary School; Tuesday at Swanton Community Center; Wednesday at Crellin Elementary School; Thursday at Kitzmiller Community Center; Friday at Friendsville Elementary School; and from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday at Broad Ford Elementary School in Oakland.

The cost of the vaccination is $5 per animal at the clinics. Dogs should be brought to the clinics on a leash and under the control of a responsible individual. Cats and ferrets should be brought to the clinics in a wire cage or a tightly secured box with air holes. While Maryland law requires dogs and cats over 4 months of age to have the required vaccination against rabies, animals at least 3 months of age may be brought to the clinics and adequately protected by vaccination.

Last year Garrett County experienced 14 laboratory confirmed positive rabies cases. This year the county has experienced nine positive cases of rabies in raccoons and skunks. Due to the wide geographical distribution of documented rabies cases, no dog or cat being kept in Garrett County can be considered safe from exposure to the disease. Pet owners are highly encouraged to check the expiration date on their pet's rabies certificate to determine the need for revaccination at one of the upcoming clinics or at a local veterinarian's office.

Dog licenses will be sold at the Grantsville, Friendsville, and Oakland clinics.

Annual Springs Folk Festival Set October 2-3

The 41st Annual Springs Folk Festival will be held October 2-3, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily on the grounds adjacent to the Springs, Pa., Museum, located on Route 669 north of Grantsville. This traditional festival, held each year during the spectacular fall foliage season, is a celebration of the arts, crafts, and culture of the area.

Craftspersons using natural materials and native skills will offer contemporary handicrafts, from painting and pottery making to wheat weaving and basketmaking, as well as fungus painting and colorful hand quilting. Unique gifts may be purchased at the festival, and live music will be featured, including the music of bluegrass performers, the a cappella singing of a Mennonite choir, and the melodies of a mountain dulcimer. Visitors who stroll the forest trail will see pioneer exhibits including maple sugaring, apple butter boiling, log sawing, and sauerkraut making, as well as wool dyeing, spinning and weaving, broom making, tinsmithing, and cider making. An added attraction will be a pageant of bygone days in the Springs community, presented by local talent Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon.

Pennsylvania Dutch foods will be offered, including sausage burgers, bean soup, homemade baked goods, doughnuts, funnel cakes, and homemade bread. The Springs Historical Museum, located in two large buildings, will be open during the festival. This museum houses a large array of artifacts presenting the history and way of life of the early Springs settlers.

Admission to the festival and museum is $4 for anyone 12 years of age and over, $1 for children 6 to 12 years old, and free for children 5 and under. Admission is $3 per person for pre-registered groups of 20 or more, with ample free parking for cars, buses, and RVs. Q. My father's pressed-glass dish has a molded design of an old-fashioned steam train in the center. It is marked with a mold number, 61281, and the date 1-21-42. Dad worked for a while at the Pleasnis Glass Co. in Mannea, Pa. I have wondered whether the plate was ever sold to the public.

A. That plate commemorates the completion of the transcontinental railroad on May 10, 1869.

There were several early versions of the plate. The 1869-70 version had a train facing to the left. Another version made about 1882 pictured the train facing to the right.

The Phoenix Glass Co. might have made some of the plates in 1942. However, in 1943, about 90 percent of the production turned to glassware for World War II ships and airplanes.

Q. I have an orange-crate label that shows a picture of the Taree Wise Men and has the words "Merry Xmas." I was told it was used in the 1930s, but I thought they first started using the abbreviation "Xmas" for Christmas in the 1950s.

A. The word "Xmas" was used as early as 1551. Beginning in the 19th century, it appeared in advertisements and on trade cards, postcards and greeting cards.

In the 1960s there was a movement to stop using "Xmas" because it was considered a way to "take Christ out of Christmas."

According to the dictionary, "Xmas" evolved from "XP" – the Greek letters chi and rho – which was an abbreviation of the Greek symbol for Christ. When it was coined, "Xmas" was no less religious than any other form of the word.

The Xmas orange-crate label is well-known. It was made in the 1930s.

Home Tips

COOL IT – Two or three days before a beach party or campout, I place two plastic gallon milk cartons 2/3 full of water in the freezer. Before a family barbecue or backyard party, I'll also use one carton in an ice chest. Of course, screw-on lids are necessary if the carton must be put on its side to fit in the freezer.

This beats a stop to buy ice needed to keep perishable food cool. Aileen M., Covina, Calif.

CATALOG USE – Everyone gets catalogs in the mail, especially near the holidays. There are a lot of cute pictures in them. Instead of just placing the books in the garbage, while watching television, I cut pictures of things that relate to each of my friends.

Some like cats, others dogs or flowers, shells or birds. I put them in an envelope with my friends' names and when I'm ready to drop them a note, I create my own paper. Everyone seems to appreciate it since it's made especially for them.

Nowadays, cards can run $2 to $3-plus, so there is a little savings. Lisa M., New Orleans, La.

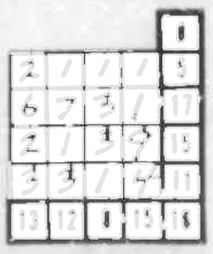
QUARTER KEEPER – When my daughter went off to college this fall, I packed her laundry money, in the form of quarters, stored in clear, snap-lid 35-milliliter film containers.



Each container tightly holds $6.50 and can be put in a pocket for ready use in the dorm washers and dryers. Edna K., Nutley, N.J.

BURN NO MORE – To avoid burns while cooking, when removing a pan from a hot burner, replace it with a teakettle containing water. The hot burner is no longer exposed and, as dry elements, moisture is put into the air. Cheryl W., Bensalem, Pa.

CELINE DION: BIG-EYED WAIF WITH A VOICE FULL OF HEART

Celine Dion has pretty much everything: romantic husband, enviable career, ample money, model-perfect figure and a big, loving family of 13 older brothers and sisters. Yet the one thing Dion desperately wants is a baby.

Can Dion, highlighted in October's Biography magazine, slow down enough to embrace motherhood? Even before her current hit album, which features the "Titanic" megahit, "My Heart Will Go On," sold more than 26 million copies, she worked tirelessly. Among other accomplishments, the stunning five-octave soprano with a gift for musical interpretation had already sold more than 55 million albums worldwide and won an Oscar and Grammy for her duet of "Beauty and the Beast."

The Dions were a French-speaking version of "The Sound of Music's" Von Trapp Family. Dion's parents, now retired, ran a piano bar in Quebec. In 1981, her brother Michel jumpstarted his baby sister's career by helping the 12-year-old cut her first demo and sending it to manager Rene Angelil, who vowed he'd make her a star within five years.

Angelil took full control of Dion, choosing her songs, her clothes, her work schedule. He had her teeth straightened, her hair styled, her look redone. By 18, Dion was a star in Canada and France. But the obsession took its toll. Angelil's wife filed for divorce. Their relationship gradually intensified until Dion admitted her love in the liner notes of her 1993 album, "The Color of My Love." They wed lavishly in 1994. Dion was 26; Angelil, 51.

Sometimes, to protect her voice, Dion has to discipline herself not to speak. When performing, she doesn't talk until 4 p.m. For studio sessions, she observes three days of silence beforehand, with everything in writing. As much for her perfectionism, she's known for her warm heart and her caring personality, which will come in handy when le bebe Angelil finally debuts.

Steve Schlosnagle Is Candidate For Co. Commissioner

Steve Schlosnagle formally announced his candidacy for Garrett County commissioner from his home in Accident this week. David Foster has registered as his campaign treasurer.

In announcing his decision to run as an independent, write-in candidate for District 2 commissioner, Schlosnagle promised to focus on "shared community values" and on environmental and economic development issues in his campaign.

He issued the following statement:

"First, people want to know why I'm running. The answer is simple: I'm running for the same reason that every other candidate is running — to offer myself for public service.

"People want to know my qualifications. In a word, I'm experienced. Not as a politician, but as an individual with deep roots in this community, with sincere appreciation and respect for our shared community values, with broad experience in the nature of human affairs.

"Consider this. I know what it's like to work three jobs simultaneously to make ends meet here. I know what it's like to work full-time and still qualify for public support subsidies.

"In my professional life, I've worked for national and international corporations; at a Veterans Administration hospital; with the developmentally disabled; in cooperation with the Maryland Historical Trust, the Appalachian Regional Commission, and the Maryland State Arts Council; as an adjunct instructor at Garrett Community College and as a substitute teacher in the Garrett County schools; and on several family dairy and tree farms. I've been a construction laborer, painter, condominium cleaner, roofer, licensed real estate agent, sales representative, administrator, clerk-typist, historic restoration director, project manager, author and editor, entertainment coordinator, steamship and cruise operations manager, newspaper columnist, and self-employed as a publisher, gardener, and fencing contractor.

"I've worked with bureaucracies, government agencies, civic organizations, schools, and many private business endeavors. I understand the challenges of being employed, unemployed, and self-employed.

"I grew up on a Garrett County farm. For 16 years I was educated in the public schools at public expense. Twenty-two years ago, I wrote a bicentennial history of Garrett County. For the past three years, I've been privileged to administer the county arts council.

"In my personal life, I've dealt with serious family medical crises with no benefit of public or private health insurance. My wife and I have home schooled our son for the past six years. I've crossed paths, rubbed shoulders, and butted heads with people from all walks and stations of life. I've made many friends and very few enemies. I've been blessed with frequent challenging opportunities for personal growth — and I've tried to learn and benefit from each opportunity.

"My personal philosophy is that complex problems often require simple solutions, frequently overlooked. I try to do my own thinking.

"My experience has taught me something extraordinary. I've come to recognize that all of us who live here share the same basic values. These values guide us daily in conducting our personal, family, and social lives. They're neither 'right' nor 'left,' neither 'conservative' nor 'liberal,' neither Republican nor Democrat, neither affluent nor poor, neither rural nor urban, neither male nor female. They're human values, adopted from our common heritage and shaped by our individual choices to live together in this beautiful county.

"I believe our common, shared values can guide us not only in conducting in our private lives, but also in the way we conduct our public affairs — in the manner by which we develop, implement, and reconsider the public agenda for local government.

"My campaign platform is an independent agenda summary. At the moment, it's mine alone. I invite the participating public to consider making my platform ours when we vote in November.

"Together, we can reconstitute local government."

Puzzley Run To Host Special Day Of Music

A special day-long concert of gospel music will be presented this Sunday, Sept. 20, by Puzzley Run Folklife Center at Bietschehof, Grantsville. The concert will be hosted by and feature Lewis and Garrett. The day will begin with a brief worship service at 10 a.m. and continue with music until evening.

Jeff Lewis and Jerry Garrett have been singing Southern Gospel music together for four years. Lewis hails from Johnstown, W.Va., and Garrett from Clarksburg, W.Va. Their stated goal is to "spread the news of Jesus Christ and bring more souls into the Kingdom." To this end they have recorded two albums, titled Lewis and Garrett Together and Right Here, Right Now. The second one contains three original songs by Jeff Lewis.

Featured also will be The Crossroad Revival from Parsons, W.Va. This group includes B.J. and Tammy Maxwell and Karen Lemley.

Continuing the program will be the Morgan Sisters of Elkins, W.Va.; One Journey, Clarksburg, Morgantown, and Fairmont; Joyful Sound, Clarksburg; Gertie Wilburn and family, Grantsville; Glory Bound, Meyersdale, Pa.; Charlie Scott, Clarksburg; and Julie Wilburn, Bittinger.

The concert is intended to stir interest in ministry through music and promote Christian fellowship, according to a center spokesperson. Plans will be discussed for a possible Christian Getaway weekend in the summer of 1999, which will center around music, recreation, and spiritual renewal.

All people of all faiths are invited to the Sept. 20 program.

The petting zoo animals, including the new Lamar Llama family, will be on hand, and hot sandwiches, homemade baked goods, and snacks will be available.

A free-will offering will be taken.

Bietschehof is located between Grantsville and Keyser's Ridge one mile north of Rt. 40 on Hetrick Rd. off Zehner Rd. Signs will be in place from the top of Negro Mtn. Guests are invited to bring a lawn chair.

Beanie Baby Raffle Benefits ARC Chapter

More than 3,200 area residents participated in a Beanie Baby raffle to benefit the local chapter of tho American Red Cross. An anonymous gift of more than 40 Beanies enabled the ARC to conduct the raffle and offer two baskets and three individual bears as prizes.

The winning names were drawn at the Garrett County Fair, and the winners were: first place, Ronda Staggs of Keyser, W.Va.; second place, Chuck Charpiat, Accident; third place, Letha Hanlin, Oakland; fourth place, Mike Virts, Oakland; and fifth place, Ann McKeown, Fort Ashby, W.Va.

"We extend our heartfelt thanks to the dozens of area businesses who assisted us with this effort," said Bill Crawford, executive director of the ARC's Western Potomac Chapter. "Without their kindness and generosity, we would not have been successful."

Businesses that sold tickets were Hartman's Amoco, Deep Creek Bodyworks Inc., the Book Mark'et, Flowers by Weber, and Reminisce Antique Mall in Garrett County; the Gilt Buggy in McCoole; Linda's Hallmark in Keyser; and the Book Center m Cumberland.

Businesses in Garrett County that contributed to the special auxiliary drawing were: Subway; Bodyworks; Lakeside Creamery; Cutting Chambers; Schoolhouse Earth; Hill Top Fruit Market, Grantsville; Hartman's Amoco; IGA, Accident; Hereford Haven; Farm Credit; Bunny Hop; Funland; Timothy J. Storey Construction; Big A, McHenry; Happyat Hill Horsery; Yough River Hardware; Doerr Construction; Cobblestone Alley; Thrift Store and More; Old Mill Restaurant; Country Pride Meats; Precision Rafting; The Tourist Trap; McHenry Beverage Shop; Country Treasures; Missy Hughes; The Trading Post; Pizzazz Pizzeria; Ruth Lucas, consultant, Party Lite; Little Expressions; Book Mark'et; Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy; Denise Haines, consultant, Pampered Chef; Little Sandy's; Hair n' Phernalia; Shaffer Ford; Denny's; Kathy's Furniture Store; Arrowhead; Cook Brothers Automotive Parts; Danise Paugh, independent contractor, Home Interiors and Gifts; Reminisce Antique Mall; Weber's; and Elizabeth Huxford, consultant, Discovery Toys.

"Our chapter serves nearly 130,000 people in a three-county area, and without the sustaining commitment of these kind and generous businesses, we would not be able to provide the life-saving and family-enriching services we perform each day. Without the support of our community, there would be no Red Cross," said Crawford.

Puma Research Group Seeks Cat Sighting Reports

The Eastern Puma Research Network is seeking the public's assistance as it conducts a research study on the numbers of large wildcats currently living throughout the eastern United States, including the entire tri-state region. The study is designed to collect reports of sightings of Puma concolor couguar, more commonly known as the cougar, mountain lion, puma, panther, or American lion.

The largest unspotted cat in North America, the puma's habitat ranges from sea level beaches and swamps to mountainous terrain, and it can adapt to every type of climate. The feline's color can range from tawny to gray, chocolate, or black. At full maturity, an adult female can weigh 100 pounds, while the male will rarely exceed 150 pounds.

The Eastern Puma Research Network study's goal is to determine if the puma is repopulating regions their ancestors roamed a century ago. Since 1983 over 3,200 sightings have occurred, many documented with evidence, from every state east of the Mississippi River. Researchers hope to determine the distribution and number of surviving native pumas.

Area residents can play a major role in the study, especially hunters, campers, and foresters, as they are usually the first persons to see the cat in its natural environment. Reports substantiated with photographs and/or video footage are of primary interest, but other reports are also acceptable.

Anyone with knowledge of a sighting in any location or wishing to learn more about the study is encouraged to call a 24-hour hotline number at 410-234-2517 or write: John and Linda Lutz, c/o the Eastern Puma Research Network, P.O. Box 3562, Baltimore, MD 21214.

COMPLETES BIBLE STUDY PROGRAM - Bobby Tichinel, currently an inmate at the Garrett County Detention Center, recently completed the Gospel Echoes Bible Study Program in a two-month period, a remarkable achievement considering the program is usually offered at long-term prisons since the course takes considerable time and effort to complete. In recognition of his work, Gospel Echoes presented Tichinel with a large-print Bible, a rare presentation for a local jail, testimony to the unusual effort he made to complete the course in such a short time. Shown from the left are Garrett County Sheriff Dick Sundera, Tichinel, and Tom Glotfelty, the adult basic instructor at the jail. While working with his students on other subjects, Glotfelty said he recognized the need many students expressed for Bible study materials. Since then, he has been presenting Gospel Echoes for over a year and providing Bibles and study materials in addition to the usual coursework toward GED testing.

Asthma Can Be Aggravated As Summer Closes

by Norma Bolding

For most Americans, those last lazy days of summer are filled with plenty of outdoor activities, including picnics, ball games, and swimming. But for the 14.5 million Americans with asthma, the end of summer marks the beginning of weed pollen season and the onset of severe asthma symptoms.

Asthma is a chronic disease in which airflow in and out of the lungs is blocked by muscle squeezing, swelling, and excess mucus. The causes of asthma are still unknown, but scientists believe the disease can be inherited. People with asthma respond to elements in the environment, called "triggers," which do not affect non-asthmatics. Triggers include pollen, mold, animal dander, dust mites, tobacco and wood smoke, and even exercise. In response to a trigger, an asthmatic person's airways become narrowed and swollen, resulting in wheezing or coughing symptoms. Early warning signs of asthma can include feeling tired, itchy throat, runny nose, a feeling of tightness in the chest, and headache.

"Weed pollens, especially ragweed pollen, is a major source of asthma problems in Maryland at this time of year," said Ed Dressman, interim health officer for Garrett County. "When the weather is warm and breezy, tiny pollen grains are easily carried through the air, making it impossible to avoid pollen while outdoors."

For those with asthma symptoms, seeing a doctor is the best plan of action. Diagnosing asthma usually involves a complete patient study, including a thorough history of the illness, family medical history, evaluation of the home and work environments, and allergy testing. Based on the results, asthma can be managed with medications and lifestyle changes that will ease the symptoms.

"Unlike a cold or flu, asthma isn't something that people just 'get over,'" said Dressman. "The key to living with asthma is learning how to manage it successfully to avoid attacks. Recent studies show that patients under the care of a trained allergist have fewer visits to emergency rooms and miss fewer days of work or school. "It makes sense to get good medical advice if you have asthma symptoms," Dressman said.

There are some things you can do to reduce asthma symptoms in late summer and early fall. Keep windows closed at night and use air conditioning to clean, cool, and dry the air. Minimize early morning activity when pollen is usually released (between 5 and 10 a.m.). If your car has air conditioning, keep the windows closed when you travel. Stay indoors on windy days and when the pollen count or humidity is high. Listen to weather forecasts for advance warning of these weather conditions.

Avoid activities that stir up pollens and molds, such as mowing lawns and raking leaves. Don't hang laundry on a clothesline, since pollen and molds can collect on the clothing. If possible, during the height of pollen season, take a vacation to a more pollen-free place, such as a beach.

To learn more about asthma resources in Garrett County, interested persons may call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8133 or 301-895-3112.

GARRETT CO. LIVESTOCK ASSOCIATION SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS - A total of seven 4-H/FFA members were awarded scholarship monies from the Garrett County Livestock Association for the 1998 year. The selection process was based on a completed application, including an essay and a personal interview with the selection committee. Each contestant received a partial scholarship. The recipients and the schools they will be attending include: seated left to right, Lori Evans, Frostburg State University; Bridget Miller, Garrett Community College; Jennifer Barnard, University of Maryland at College Park; and Jody Friend, Garrett Community College. Recipients not pictured: Lisa Hutzal, Frostburg State University; Jennifer Friend, Shenandoah College; and April Enlow, Garrett Community College. Standing in the photo is Keith Cannon, Livestock Scholarship coordinator for the Garrett County Livestock Association. The Livestock Association wishes to extend its appreciation to all 4-H and FFA members and leaders for participating in fund-raising activities for the scholarship fund including after-fair clean-up, food booth at the District Show, and the raffle and additional donations by the North Star 4-H club, Grantsville 4-H Club, and G. Fred Hazelwood; and to the buyers (Bill Farry, Action Towing, Fitzwater Heavy Duty Towing, Buffalo Coal Company, and Doug's Auto & Truck Repairs) who purchased a lamb at the Livestock Association Sale and donated it to the Garrett County Livestock Association Scholarship Fund. Market Animals Sell Well At Md. State Fair Average prices for market hogs were comparable to a year ago at the 4-H/FFA livestock sale on Sept. 2 at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. This ran counter to the fact that livestock prices at nearby Pennsylvania auction markets are considerably lower than 1997 levels—especially for market hogs and lambs.

The grand champion market hog, a 250-lb. Hampshire crossbred gilt, sold for $11 per pound, the highest Maryland State Fair price in recent memory. Not counting the grand champion, 25 gilts averaged $1.64 per pound. This was comparable to an average of $1.52 per pound for 14 barrows and an overall average of $1.60. Last year's overall sale average was $1.63 per pound. The 1996 average was $1.43.

Average sale prices for market lambs at the state fair did follow the downward trend prevailing at nearby markets, while market steer prices were somewhat higher.

The grand champion market lamb, a 125-lb. Suffolk wether, sold for $6 per pound.

The average price for 39 lambs in the sale—excluding the grand champion—was $1.58. This is exactly double the prevailing average price at nearby Pennsylvania auction markets. But it is comparable to a $2.13 state fair average last year. The average price in 1996 was $1.40.

Something unusual happened during the 4-H/FFA market steer sale this year. The average price for three dairy steers—88 cents per pound—was higher than the average price for 14 beef steers—84 cents—not counting the grand champion.

The dairy steer average was skewed by the fact that a 1,275-lb. Milking Shorthorn steer sold, for, $1.07 per pound—the second-highest selling steer in the sale.

The grand champion beef steer, a 1,235-lb. Angus, sold for $2.70 per pound.

The grand champion dairy steer, a 1,340-lb. Holstein sold for $1 per pound, outselling the beef breed champions.

The champion rate-of-gain steer, a 1,285-lb. Angus, sold for 97 cents per pound.

The overall sale average of 85 cents per pound compared favorably with an average price of 60 cents at nearby Pennsylvania auction markets. Last year's state fair average for market steers was 79 cents; it was 86 cents per pound in 1996.

The champion capon this year brought $120—a new state fair record—with the reserve champion capon bringing $105.

The grand champion market goat, a 70-lb. Nubian Boer crossbred wether, sold for $3.90 per pound. This price was down slightly from the previous two years, but was still five times the prevailing price at nearby Pennsylvania markets.

The reserve champion market goat, a 65-lb. Boer crossbred wether, brought $3.10 per pound.

AFBF Leaders Go To D.C. For Final Push

Farm Bureau leaders representing each region of the American Farm Bureau Federation will converge on Capitol Hill this week to urge members of Congress to complete work on a number of issues critical to American agriculture.

Leaders participating in the AFBF legislative fly-in will brief representatives and senators about actions Congress and the administration should take to bolster the nation's farm economy. Fly-in participants also will urge lawmakers to help ensure fair implementation of the Food Quality Protection Act and they will tell Congress that passage of fast-track trade negotiating authority and other critical trade measures is a must.

With the ink on the latest Agriculture Department fall crop report still fresh, members of AFBF's farm economy committee met last week to decide a course of action Congress and the administration should take to help farmers and ranchers. The latest USDA report shows continued low commodity prices with bumper corn, soybean and wheat harvests anticipated. Lower profits, combined with weather-related disasters across the country are causing many producers to feel an economic pinch. Committee members looked at administrative and legislative actions to help address both the short- and long-term problems facing agriculture.

Senate leaders and the Clinton administration last week were poised to act on their own plans to help the farm economy. Sources say President Clinton likely would endorse a $3 billion Senate Democratic plan, which backers say would aid struggling producers while remaining within the framework of the 1996 farm bill. Reports from USDA say Secretary Dan Glickman would likely move forward with an aid plan linked to crop insurance.

Under the international trade umbrella, Farm Bureau will continue to urge Congress and the administration to pass measures critical to pumping up deflated farm export numbers. Passage of fast-track legislation would properly help position U.S. negotiators in upcoming agriculture trade talks, according to Farm Bureau, and is a legislative priority. Fully funding the International Monetary Fund is also necessary to help struggling economies abroad, Farm Bureau contends. The organization's representatives also will urge lawmakers to pass legislation to end • U.S.-imposed trade sanctions that only serve to slash farm exports and farm income.

Fly-in participants will be briefed about the ongoing discussions surrounding FQPA implementation. With the next round of initial risk assessments of organophosphates set for release by the Environmental Protection Agency soon, Farm Bureau has continued to call on Congress to monitor EPA's actions.

Southern Markets Seek Maryland Hay

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Dr. Henry A. Virts is asking Maryland hay producers to consider offering up extra tonnages of hay for sale to drought-ravaged farmers in the Deep South. "Normally, Maryland hay would not find a market in a state such as Louisiana, but the drought of 1998 has really put Louisiana livestock producers at a loss when it comes to hay supplies for this season," Secretary Virts said.

"They are being forced to look nationwide for supplies of hay and have contacted us in Maryland seeking hay listings," reported Virts. Hay producers interested in being listed in Louisiana may call David Foster toll-free at 877-524-2998.

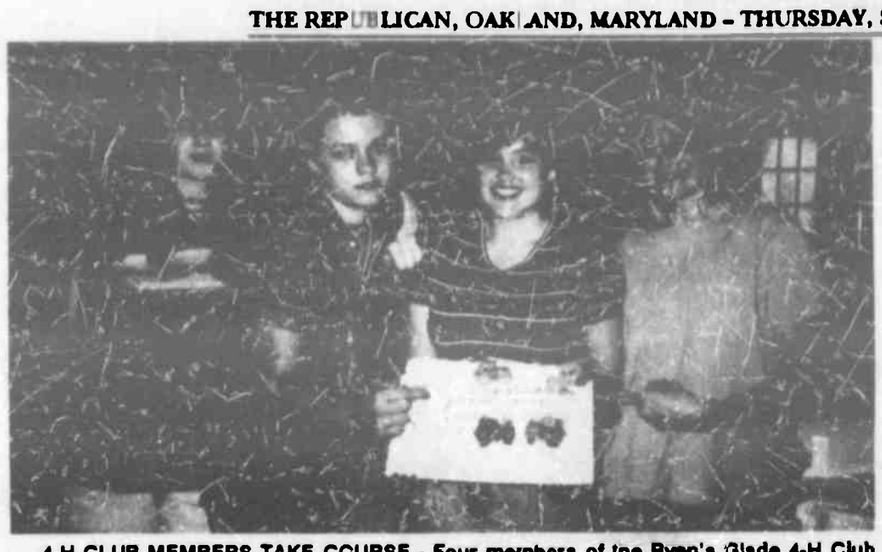
Harvesting Alfalfa



It is very tempting to harvest that nice looking stand of alfalfa; however, that would not be a wise decision. The alfalfa plant is now in the process of storing food for winter survival and to make spring growth. If you cut the alfalfa before dormancy the plant will use that food supply to make late fall growth. As a general rule of thumb, you may harvest the alfalfa after a hard frost.

We Are Close to Corn Silage Time

If you want your cows to milk more, excellent quality corn silage can do the job. Chopping at the right maturity is extremely important in capturing the digestible nutrients. Harvest should start when the kernel's milk line is one-half to two-thirds of the way down the kernel. Many of our hybrids show little denting so it is very important that you monitor your corn very closely. At this stage the corn silage will generally range from 65% to 70% moisture, which will be the peak for digestibility and nutrient content.

The appropriate length of cut is important for good compaction and fermentation. The recommended length of cut is one-quarter to one-half inch, although this can vary based on type of silo. The length of cut promotes good compaction and fermentation. For those of you who may be processing the silage, a three-quarters to an inch cut would be appropriate. There are some good bacterial inoculants available that will help enhance the fermentation process. The bacterial inoculant will assist in dropping the pH of the silage for rapid fermentation.

An acre of good corn silage can provide more pounds of nutrients than any other crop. It seems to fit in with nature's desirable foods for ruminant animals.

Penn State Dairy Housing Plans Second Edition

Good dairy housing provides animals with a clean, dry, and comfortable area for resting, eating, drinking, and exercising. In addition, it is cost-effective to build and maintain, provides safe and efficient working conditions for caretakers, and protects the environment. Penn State Dairy Housing Plans, NRAES-85, offers 29 plans developed by faculty and staff of the Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering at the Pennsylvania State University and Penn State Cooperative Extension. The plans provide information that can help plan a more successful freestall barn, heifer barn, or dry cow and maternity housing facility.

A revision of Penn State Freestall and Heifer Housing Plans (1994), this 106-page publication offers twelve freestall housing plans, six heifer housing plans, four dry cow and maternity housing plans, and seven plans for details and components. For this edition all plans have been revised to incorporate the latest recommendations for freestall design, ventilation, and cow movement. Also, new to this edition are introductory discussions for each section and a list of suggested readings. The freestall section offers plans for various two-row, three-row, four-row, and six-row freestall barns. Included in the heifer section are plans for bedded pack housing, counter-slope housing, single-slope housing, and three types of heifer freestall barns. The section on dry cow and maternity housing contains ideas for housing dry cows in bedded pack groups, multiple pen barns with drive-through feedlug, pre-fresh/maternity pen areas, convalescence areas, and post-fresh housing facilities.

Included in the detail and components section are sidewall curtains/drainage, watering locations, floor surfaces, feed barriers, freestalls, and ventilation openings. The plans are drawn for specific numbers of animals, but in most cases they can be changed to accommodate the numbers of cows or heifers needing housing.

Authors of Penn State Dairy Housing Plans, NRAES-85, are Robert E Graves, professor, Agricultural and Biological Engineering Department, Pennsylvania State University; Dan F. McFarland, Extension agent, Penn State Cooperative Extension, York County; and John T. Tyson, assistant Extension agent, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Erie County.

Penn State Dairy Housing Plans, Second Edition, NRAES-85, is available for $11 per copy (plus shipping and handling). The shipping and handling charge is $3.50 for a single copy within the continental United States.

Be Safe—Be Seen

Agricultural equipment marking/lighting is more important every day. As fewer and fewer of us provide more food and fiber, the rest of the population has little knowledge of agriculture. Fewer of us have any idea of equipment size and relative speed of agricultural equipment on the highway. Equipment size and relative speed become a BIG problem at dusk or night and help to make agriculture the second most dangerous industry in the U.S.A.

To make Maryland's agriculture a little less dangerous, the Maryland Cooperative Extension is offering a "Reflective Materials" kit. The kit includes new SMV tape, six 2"x9" red and two 2"x9" yellow retroreflective tapes, and two 2"x9" red-orange fluorescent tapes with instructions for placement and proper installation. The materials are the new highly reflective materials seen on trailer trucks and have more than five times the visibility of the "old" materials we have been using.

The only charge for the kit is sending your name, mailing address and equipment type of the proposed application: type (tractor wagon, etc.), make, model, and approximate transport width to Dr. Lee Grant, Biological Resources Engineering, University of Maryland, College Park, MD 20742-5711.

Fall Webworms Active In State

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Dr. Henry A. Virts announced that fall webworms are especially active throughout Maryland this summer. Fall webworm caterpillars are slightly more than one inch long and are covered with long, pale gray hairs. The body color ranges from yellow to brown with dusky, mottled areas along the sides. There are two rows of black spots along the back.

There are two generations of webworms each year. The first generation in spring is hardly noticeable, but the second generation in late summer and early fall is much more conspicuous. The caterpillars construct large, untidy webs on the ends of branches. They will feed on more than one hundred species of hardwoods, but seem to prefer black walnut, ash, hickory, and oak. In Maryland, recent infestations have involved black walnut and cherry trees.

Fall webworms are not usually considered an important forest pest since the caterpillars only appear in large numbers in late summer after trees have completed most of their growth and food storage. The unsightly webs can affect the aesthetic value of trees, however, and control may be desirable. Infestations in small trees can be controlled by pruning the webs out of the tree and disposing of them. Since biotic factors usually keep populations in check, chemical spraying is rarely necessary. For more information, those interested may contact Dr. Robert Rabaglia of the Maryland Department of Agriculture at 410-841-5922.

Grain Corn Harvesting Underway

Harvesting of corn for grain was reported at 15% harvested in Maryland for the week which ended Sept. 13. This was a 5 point improvement during the week and puts corn harvesting progress ahead of the previous year and five-year averages. Almost one quarter of the state's soybeans had turned color and 7% of those beans had started to shed their leaves. There were reports on the eastern shore of some bean harvesting activity.

Truck crop and fruit harvest continued to make slight progress for the week with apples showing the largest increase with 28% harvested.

There were 6.3 days suitable for field work for the week. Topsoil moisture condition was 23% very short, 46% short, 30% adequate, and 1% surplus. Subsoil moisture condition was 17% very short, 52% short, 29% adequate, and 2% surplus.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended Sept. 13, listing the item, the percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, follow.

Deep Creek Bodyworks Inc.

Deep Creek Bodyworks Inc., located at Trader's Landing along Rt. 219 at Deep Creek Lake, is now owned by Lisa and Tim Parrack. Lisa, in addition to owning the shop, is a nail tech and employs Hazel Beitzel, stylist; Tisha Shreve, stylist; and Angela Kildow, massage therapist.

The business, which has been at the Trader's Landing location for two years, offers complete family hair care for men, women, and children. The stylists offer all types of hair coloring, perms, and the latest trends in hair cuts, including razor cuts. The nail tech specializes in acrylic and gel nails, as well as complete pedicures and manicures. The massage therapist, Angie, offers half-hour or one-hour massages, using special techniques such as deep tissue and Swedish massage. Angie has her own private and quiet massage room, and all personal information given is kept confidential.

Other services include facials, waxing, and the unique, ever-popular European Bodywrap: "Feel the Experience," a totally relaxing and temporary inch-loss reducer that usually shows improvement in just one session.

Lisa Parrack says she has two Sunvision Wolfe tanning beds for clients to use during business hours or after hours. "Call today about our '2-package' deal," she said.

The shop also carries a large variety of hair, tanning, and nail products, including such brand names as: Australian Gold, Iguana Wanna, Intense Fire Lotion, Swedish Beauty Gel, and Body Drench lotions and moisturizers for tanning; Matrix, Paul Mitchell, Rusk, and Abba for hair care; and O.P.I. and Creative Nails for nail care.

Lisa says Deep Creek Bodyworks offers a full variety of services in one location—centrally located overlooking Deep Creek Lake. "We are hoping to expand our client base, and continue to provide a full range of the latest trends and services. We hope to be able to continue to offer exceptional services at modest prices."

Convicted Child Abusers Given Multi-Year Terms

Two local men convicted on charges of child abuse and assault in separate cases were both sentenced last week to multiple-year jail terms by Judge James Sherbin of the Garrett County Circuit Court.

Brian E. Deem, 31, Oakland, convicted earlier this year, was sent to the Maryland Department of Corrections for a total of 13 years. Sherbin gave Deem eight years for the charge of child abuse and five for second degree assault. For a third charge of perverted sexual practice Deem received five years to run concurrently with the others.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested Deem in January after an investigation revealed that he had struck a 7-year-old child, causing the victim to suffer a black eye. Deem later admitted to having also sexually assaulted the child, and he was then charged accordingly.

Steven A. Elliott, 32, formerly of Accident, was sentenced to eight years in jail for child abuse. Elliott also received a sentence of three years for second degree assault. That term is to run concurrently. Elliott had pleaded guilty to the two charges in a July trial.

According to a report from the state's attorney's [illegible] the defendant, was [illegible] by the Maryland [illegible] police after a child [illegible] that he had [illegible] inappropriate [illegible]

State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch said she was satisfied with the outcomes of these two cases. She also indicated that both of the defendants will have to be registered as sexual offenders with the state and in the communities in which they choose to live upon their release from incarceration.

In other recent circuit court cases, a jury found a Grantsville man not guilty of second degree assault. Jason J. Shingler, 21, had pleaded not guilty to the charge, which was incurred by him following a reported domestic altercation in March of this year.

Rape and assault charges placed against David A. Smith, 32, Oakland, were dismissed in circuit court last week. Smith has been convicted of other charges in the past months and is currently incarcerated in the local jail. Because this al-

SHOULDN'T THEY BE CALLED "FLUTTER-BYS?" They are indeed "fluttering by" these days, butterflies of all colors, as autumn officially arrived yesterday at 1:30 a.m. Any remaining caterpillars need to get on the stick, so to speak, if they want to get their wings and get out of town before the snow flies. In contrast to just a week ago when temperatures were oddly high, Garrett County apparently has entered diligently — and rather suddenly — into fall. The sky has taken on that brilliant blue, the air is crisp, and the sweatshirts are being pulled out of storage. Fly away, little bugs, before it's too late.

Garrett County Enters "Vision To Scale" Partnership With Maryland

A special ceremony held yesterday at the World Trade Center in Baltimore marked the signing of an agreement between the Garrett County Local Management Board (LMB) and the state of Maryland to improve the lives of local children and their families. The signing is the result of months of negotiation between a group of Garrett County citizens and state representatives who wished to develop a new system to address children's needs. Garrett and Caroline are the first counties to successfully negotiate an agreement, according to Bob Stephens, director of the Garrett County Office for Children, Youth, and Families (OCYF).

The agreement is a result of a statewide initiative titled Vision to Scale, a project aimed at improving child and family services through local planning and decision making. Research has apparently demonstrated the benefit of being able to measure progress toward achieving positive results for children and families, rather than merely funding programs on the assumption that they will produce positive results.

The partnership agreement will allow the Garrett County LMB to have more flexibility in designing programs to meet the needs of local children and families, Stephens explained. In exchange for this, the LMB has agreed to be more accountable for meeting a variety of results. The LMB, with the approval of the

State Highway Officials Address Garrett County's Road Needs

Maryland Department of Transportation officials, led by transportation secretary David L. Winstead, were in Oakland last week to present the state's draft transportation plan to the county commissioners, several local state representatives, and interested members of the public. For their turn, Garrett County officials presented the secretary with their latest "wish list" of desired road projects here.

The meeting was part of Winstead's annual tour of each county in Maryland, during which he and his staff highlight the road improvement projects slated for each county as outlined in the state's Consolidated Transportation Program (CTP) draft plan.

In his opening remarks, Winstead addressed the changing transportation funding situation, brought about by Congressional reauthorization of the federal transportation spending package this past spring. In passing the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st century (TEA-21), Winstead said that the federal government had added an additional $70 billion in funding for transportation projects nationwide, a 40 percent increase.

This federal action resulted in an additional $1.3 billion being directed from the federal government to Maryland for its transportation spending, which Winstead said will enable the state to increase its highway spending by 30 percent. Garrett County will receive nearly $21 million over a six-year capital spending program.

Construction Projects

- Rt. 219 Bridge over Bear Creek — The replacement of the bridge will cost $7.1 million, which is already funded, highway officials said. Advertising for construction bids will begin in December, state officials said, and actual construction could begin this coming spring, with a tentative completion date coming late in the summer of 2000.

Rodney Glotfelty Is Appointed As Garrett County Health Officer

After studying nearly 40 applications for the position of Garrett County health officer, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Secretary Martin Wasserman, and a specially appointed local selection committee has selected Rodney B. Glotfelty for the job. The announcement was made officially on Tuesday in the commissioners' meeting room.

A lifelong resident of Garrett County, Glotfelty has been the director of the local solid waste and recycling office since 1993, having also been officially appointed to that position. Before that, he was the assistant director of the Garrett County Health Department's environmental health office for 16 years.

After graduating from Northern High School, Glotfelty earned an undergraduate degree from the University of Maryland and a master's degree in public health from the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health. He has extensive experience in financial management and public health administration and compliance, according to a release from the commissioners.

In a letter to the commissioners, Wasserman said he was pleased with Glotfelty's appointment and that he was "impressed with his vision, his sense of working with communities, and his grasp of public health issues."

The selection committee, appointed by the commissioners, reportedly interviewed six "highly qualified professionals" for the position, and was assigned the task of submitting a recommendation to the commissioners and Wasserman.

"I truly appreciate all the support and the consideration given to me by the committee, the commissioners, and Secretary Wasserman," Glotfelty said Tuesday. "I'm proud of the county's recycling and solid waste improvements — we've accomplished many goals and have become a

GARRETT ENTERS "VISION TO SCALE" PACT — An unprecedented event this week has placed the control of numerous local services for children and families into the hands of local service providers, much to the satisfaction of those who have worked toward this goal for the past 18 months. Garrett County is one of just two jurisdictions achieving Vision to Scale status, and a partnership agreement with the state was signed in Baltimore Wednesday by state and local officials. See story. The Garrett County commissioners signed the document Tuesday, offering their written support of the initiative. The agreement basically will allow local service providers to determine the needs of local children and their families — needs that are unique to Garrett County that require local specialized attention. Pictured left to right at Tuesday's meeting are Commissioner Chairman Wayne Wilt, Commissioner Wayne Johnson, Phyllis Tritsett (a member of the Local Management Board), Bob Stephens (director of the Garrett County Office for Children, Youth, and Families), and Larry Bruch (member of the local Vision to Scale negotiation team).

Oakland Man Held On Rape, Assault Charges

An Oakland man facing charges of rape and assault is being held on a $50,00 bond after his arrest by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Sunday.

Dennis Lee Dalton, 44, Oakland, was charged with second degree rape, attempted rape, second degree assault, and fourth degree sex offense after a short investigation by deputies called to a reported assault that had occurred earlier on Sunday. During the course of the investigation it was learned that Dalton had reportedly raped the same alleged assault victim several days previously.

In other sheriff's news, Roger Lee Bittinger, 32, Laymonville, W.Va., was arrested early Saturday morning by deputies who had observed him staggering on Third Street near the sheriff's office. Bittinger appeared to be intoxicated, and reportedly swore loudly and was uncooperative in speaking to the deputies checking on his welfare. He was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and failing to obey a lawful order, and was subsequently released after posting a $2,000 cash bond.

An alleged domestic assault Sunday evening resulted in the arrest of Eugene Barton Pyles, 50, Mtn. Lake Park. He faces a charge of second degree assault, and was released on his own recognizance.

Deputies are investigating the reported theft of a white 1987 Ford van from the owner's residence on Sugar Lane, Oakland, that occurred at approximately 10 p.m. Monday night. The van bears Maryland tags 14G-023.

A barbecue gas grill was taken over the weekend from the Oakwoods Apart-

Athlete, Actor, Singer, Minister Rosey Grier To Lead Parade

Rev. Rosey Grier, retired professional athlete, successful actor, singer, author, and an ordained minister, will be a guest in Garrett County during the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival, during which he will serve as the parade marshal of the AGF Grand Feature Parade on Saturday, Oct. 10, and as the guest speaker and celebrity host for the Day of Hope Golf Tournament at the Golf Club at Wisp on Friday, Oct. 9. The announcement was made this week by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with the Day of Hope Golf Tournament Committee.

Grier leaped into national prominence as an All-Pro defensive tackle with the New York Giants of the National Football League in 1955. His notoriety as a pro star increased when he was traded to the Los Angeles Rams and became the leader of the "Fearsome Foursome," acclaimed by experts as the best defensive line in professional football history.

After retiring from professional football in 1968, Grier became one of the first professional athletes to make a successful transition to movie and television acting. He has since starred in 10 movies and has guest starred in over 70 television roles. He has toured with Bob Hope and has been a guest performer on several television specials.

An outstanding singer, Grier has performed at Carnegie Hall and other prestigious concert halls and cabarets throughout the country. His album Commuted was released nationally by Word Records. Grier has several books to his credit, including his autobiography, Rosey, The Gentle Giant, as well as All American Heroes and Shooting Star.

Grier is also etched in the memory of America because of his historic role in subduing and disarming Sirhan Sirhan assassin after the assassination of Robert Kennedy. Today as an ordained minister he is committed to bettering the conditions of the inner cities of the country. Over the past decade he has developed a series of prototypical educational and spiritual programs, which have trained and benefitted young people in the inner cities.

Grier was elected to the Foundations of the Mikva Family's and CAP CURE's board of directors in 1993. The Foundations of the Mikva Family's focus is on education, and community

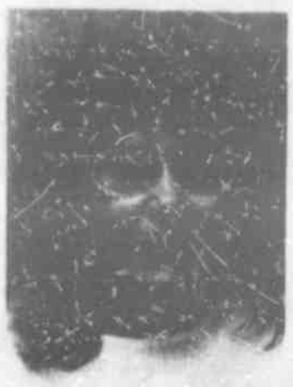
US 219 North Study Results To Be Presented



The Grantsville Mayor and Town Council, the Greater Grantsville Business Association, the Garrett County Development Corporation, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will host representatives from the Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA) for an informational meeting at the Grantsville School next Wednesday, Sept. 30, at 6 p.m. to display and discuss possible U.S. Route 219 routes from Interstate 68 to the Pennsylvania state line.

The results of an SHA feasibility study on four possible alternatives involving a possible relocation of U.S. Route 219 north of Interstate 68 to the Pennsylvania state line will be explained and displayed by SHA representatives.

The study also reviewed accident statistics from 1995 through 1997, which showed this existing section of U.S. Route 219 had an accident rate that was double the Maryland state average for a similar roadway. The study stated, "Rear-end, side-swipe and left-turn collisions occurred at rates that were at least double their respective statewide averages." There were no high accident sections or intersections.

The public is invited to provide input to the SHA representatives.

New Director Of Dove Center Charts Course

Education and expansion of services top the list of objectives set by Linda Spassil, the new executive director of the Dove Center, Garrett County's Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Resource Center. Having accepted the responsibility of directing the agency just about two months ago, she is already progressing toward these accomplishments.

Spassil brought to her new position almost 18 years of prior experience in human service, working with victims of domestic violence and sexual abuse. She was employed by the Family Crisis Resource Center, Cumberland, from 1982 until coming to Garrett County in July.

As program coordinator for Allegany County's resource center, Spassil expanded services in the area through the successful preparation of grant proposals.

She established a cooperative relationship with other county agencies to develop community partnerships. "I served on Allegany County's Family Violence Coordinating Council and was a member of the School Health Council through the Allegany County Board of Education," she said.

Providing more than 100 speaking engagements during a year, Spassil was able to reach church groups, civic organizations, schools, and community gatherings with her educational message on prevention of violence and abuse. She said she believes education is the key to breaking the cycle of violence within the family.

In order to succeed in getting her information out to those who need it, the backing of the local residents is essential to Spassil. "Community education programs are vital in obtaining local support," she said.

Accessing program funding was also part of the new director's previous work experience. "I have worked closely with many of the funding sources, and I am aware of the fiscal and statistical responsibilities," Spassil noted.

The new position she has assumed at the Dove Center offers her a new challenge, she said. "I fully support the services provided by Garrett County's Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Resource Center and I am eager to assist in the agency's growth and development," she concluded.

For information on the Dove Center and its services persons may call 301-334-9000.

TIME REMAINS TO DONATE TO GLOTFELTY FUND — Persons who wish to contribute to the Roger P. Glotfelty Memorial Fund have until the end of September to do so, according to Joan B. Crawford, member of the ad hoc committee planning the memorial. Committee members Bea Oroseo, M. Sue Shockey, and Crawford plan to plant a tree at the courthouse plaza and place a commemorative plaque honoring the late commissioner for his outstanding service to the community. Although a definite planting date has not been set, the women hope to have it accomplished just before the Autumn Glory Festival. Names of the contributors to the fund will be listed as "Friends of Roger P. Glotfelty" on a plaque in the courthouse, Crawford said. Persons may send donations to the Roger P. Glotfelty Memorial Fund, First United Bank & Trust, P.O. Box 9, Oakland, MD 21550. Pictured are the three current county commissioners (left to right: Wayne Johnson, Wayne Wilt, and Gary Fratz) as they place Glotfelty's picture on the meeting room wall in the courthouse. He died on Dec. 11, 1997, after serving as a commissioner for nearly three years.

Top Students Honored, Offered Md. Scholarships

Students from Northern and Southern high schools will be among those recognized by the Maryland Higher Education Commission State Scholarship Administration, through the Distinguished Scholar Program, along with other high school seniors on Saturday, Oct. 3, at the University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC).

Each year, the Maryland Higher Education Commission honors students who have met the stringent requirements of the Distinguished Scholar scholarship, which offers $3,000 a year for four years to the state's top high school students as an incentive to go to college in Maryland.

"This program encourages Maryland's best and brightest high school students to go to college in Maryland," said Patricia S. Florestano, the secretary of higher education.

"Because so many graduates remain in the state where they went to college, this program has the effect of keeping talented Marylanders in our state and able to contribute to the economic prosperity of the state when they begin work," Dr. Florestano said. Under the $4.2 million program, 350 new scholarships are awarded annually. The money can be used for any college-related expense.

Students qualify for Distinguished Scholar grants on the basis of academic achievement or artistic talent. National Merit and National Achievement semi-finalists are automatically eligible for the scholarship.

Applicants in the achievement category, who must have an unweighted grade point average of at least 3.7, are ranked on the basis of GPA and SAT scores. Students nominated in the talent category (vocal and instrumental music, dance, drama, and visual arts) must submit portfolios or audition before a panel of professionals.

Students apply when they are juniors, and the grants are offered during their senior year. Because not all students decide to attend college in Maryland, grants are over-awarded each year. This year, scholarships were offered to 359 achievement finalists and to 80 talent finalists.

Competition for the grants is intense. In 1998, 3,461 students applied in the achievement category and 654 were nominated in the talent category. In the achievement category, the average GPA of finalists was 3.95 and their average combined SAT score was 1481.

During Distinguished Scholars Recognition Day, financial aid workshops will be offered, representatives of Maryland colleges and universities will meet with students, and student artists will display their work and give performances.

A recognition ceremony will be held in the UMBC field house at 3 p.m.

The following Garrett County students were named in the achievement and talent categories.

Finalists were Joshua Neubert, NHS, and John Andrews, SHS. Daniel M. Shafer, SHS, was a semi-finalist.

Talent Status

Honorable mention was given to Julia D. Geisler, dance, Jessica R. Nixon, visual art, and Renae N. Sines, drama, all from NHS; and Michelle T. Goralski, visual art, Rilene L. Lloyd, visual art, and Amy E. Snyder, instrumental music, all from SHS.

Bloodmobile To Visit Friendsville

The American Red Cross has slated a bloodmobile at the Friendsville fire hall on Friday, Oct. 2, from noon to 6 p.m. Because of continuing low blood collections, the Johnstown Region, Red Cross Blood Services, has issued a critical appeal for blood donations. The Johnstown Region serves hospitals, patients, and donors in a 66-county area including Garrett County and the surrounding region.

To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Normally individuals can donate blood every 56 days. Persons with eligibility questions may call the Red Cross at 1-800-542-5663.

African Children's Choir Schedules MLP Performance

The African Children's Choir will appear in concert at the Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 30. A free will offering, 80 percent of which will be channeled directly to children's relief efforts, will be taken during free concert.

The 5-12-year-old members of the African Children's Choir perform a wide variety of songs, including African tunes accompanied by drums and ethnic instrumentation, and well-known children's songs, gospel melodies, and spirituals. Many of the children have lost one or both parents, and some of the childreu in the choir program are the children of Christiau pastors or lay leaders martyred for their faith.

The choir was founded by Raymond R. Barnett, president of Friends in the West, the choir's sponsoring organization, which had worked on human rights issues with persecuted Christians in Uganda during Idi Amin's reign of terror during the 1970s. Since 1984 the choir has performed in more than 1,500 churches, and the Friends in the West organization brought the choir to America in September of 1994.

The choir has appeared in civic auditoriums across the country, and on radio broadcasts and television programs including CBS This Morning, Good Morning America, and Focus on the Family. The group has also been featured on recordings with Michael W. Smith and Sandi Patti, and has opened for the Dove Awards ceremony.

The current American tour is designed to raise awareness of the needs of destitute and orphaned children in East Africa and to raise funds for the continued development of the African Outreach Academy/African Children's Choir program. The African Outreach Academy, one of the beneficiaries of the fund-raising concert, is a school program specifically developed for the children in the choir. The international education endeavor provides unique training for the children designed to enable them to return to their homeland with the tools necessary to better their future.

Guests for the concert are encouraged to come early because there is no admission charge and no reserved seating will be available. For more information interested persons may call Faith Evangelical Free Church at 301-334-4172.

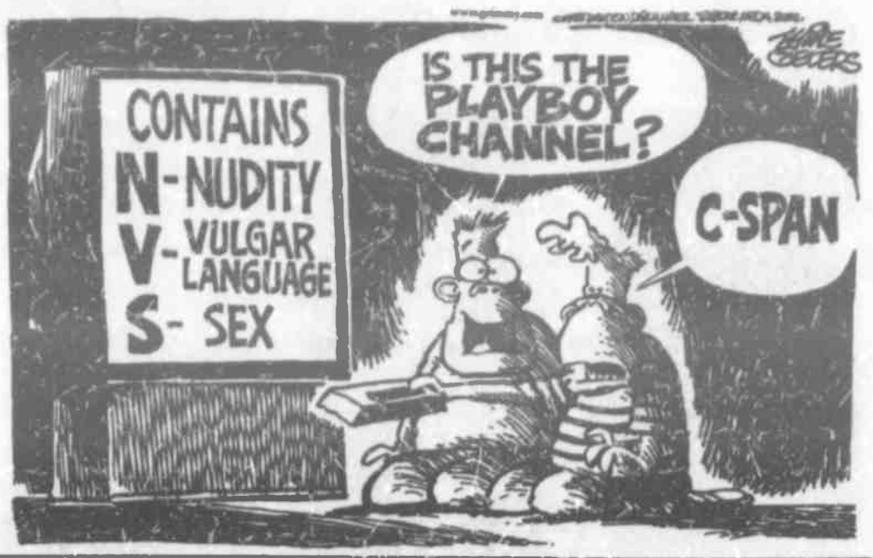
Does Character Matter?

This has been among the questions that come to mind when pondering the entire sordid affair involving our president, an affair which has completely displaced almost every other issue in our nation, many of which are serious and need attention. President Clinton has failed miserably in his personal life, but his record as our nation's leader includes a number of success stories, which is part of the reason the general public is both confused and divided as to how Congress should respond to his seamy behavior.

Some say that the relationship between him and Monica Lewinsky (and any number of other women) is his private business and should have no bearing on his status as our president. In other words, the quality of his personal character as a man, as a human being, has nothing to do with his performance in his job. Recent polls have shown that a majority of Americans feel this way, although the numbers have been waning in recent days.



Others, including this writer, believe that the quality of one's character is tightly interwoven with one's every-day behavior, both on and off the job. It is next to impossible to separate the two. One who is an egomaniac, a liar, and a cheat in his private life is extremely likely to exhibit those same behaviors, that same philosophy, in his professional life. The president has deceived even his closest friends, colleagues, and fanuly members. How, then, might he treat the rest of the world's people in certain situations?

It is distressing that the majority of our society does not rate character and morality as all that important. Yet, it is no wonder that our young people have such a fuzzy picture of individual morality. Sexual immorality is rampant, and simply accepted as a normal way of life, in the great majority of our television shows and movies. The most vulgar of language in that same medium is likewise routine. So many of our "idol" athletes are allowed to spit on people, choke their coaches, father numerous children out of wedlock, and yes, even murder their wives, with relatively few negative consequences. No wonder it is difficult, particularly for our younger citizens, to understand the importance of one's morality, character, and personal behavior.

President Clinton did not simply "make a mistake." His promiscuity and deceit is a way of life for him. He needs intense counseling, and certainly he needs forgiveness. But he also must pay a price for his actions, part of which should be his stepping down as our president.

If character doesn't matter, then it should be all right for a man to have extramarital affairs with other women and be untruthful to his wife, as long as he is providing for his family and generally being "a good dad" for his children. It should be all right for a business owner to cheat on his taxes and engage in other fraudulent behavior, as long as he is providing secure jobs for his employees and turning out a good product. It should be all right to steal something from a wealthy neighbor since the neighbor can easily afford to replace it or has two of everything anyway.

Character matters.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I want to publicly and personally thank all the people of Garrett County who voted for me in the primary election. There were 1,060 of you who voted for me and I am very grateful.

Those of you who were unable to vote for me in the primary, I am looking forward to your vote in the general on November 3. Remember that your vote does add up.

Thank you,
William "Walt" Walters
Candidate for Garrett
County Treasurer

To the Editor:

Two months ago, candidate Mr. Ernie Gregg's campaign rhetoric convinced me he was one of the superhighway's strongest supporters.

This week, Ernie told the Cumberland News (Tuesday):

"I found our in the course of the campaign that there is probably less support (for a new highway) than I thought and the same is true for the Oakland bypass. People are unsure about a grandiose plan."

I believe these remarks may hint of potentially the open, responsive and honest government we've been seeking. (Lord, send us more pharmacist-candidates for the next election.)

Please prove me correct, Ernie. Money talks; thanks for hearing and heeding the small taxpayers' talk, demonstrating true backbone.

And special thanks to those residents who are taking the time to take command of county concerns...proving that many Garrett Countians still CARE.

R.C. Speicher
Grantsville

To the Editor:

I am writing in concern of our legal systems today. The court systems today are not fair. When citizens go to court they are not treated fairly. They are told we need to give you a tough sentence because we need to make an example out of you for our community.

The first place they need to start making an example for our community is with their own children. Citizens see their children doing wrong and walking away with not being arrested or put into court, so why should we? I feel the court system and law officers need to sweep their own doorstep before they sweep anyone else's.

During elections why should one person get a longer sentence for something than when it is not election year? When doing wrong, you should be punished, but not punished differently because it is election year, or your last name is the "wrong" name. We are all humans and we tend to make mistakes. We all breathe and bleed the same and should be treated fairly when taken into the court systems.

Sincerely,
Traci Sliger

To the Editor:

The words "thank you" do not seem adequate to express the deep gratitude I wish to extend. The time spent, the support given, and the work done by family members and by established friends who believed in me was overwhelming. These are acts which cannot ever be repaid, because they were given from the heart. Thank you!

I also wish to thank the acquaintances I met, whom, after long hours of working together, I consider newly found friends. You invited me into your homes, to your family picnics, and introduced me to your friends. Thank you!

For those of you who displayed signs, made financial contributions, and voted for me, Thank you!

The opportunity of meeting and listening to the citizens of Allegany and Garrett counties has been a deeply rewarding experience. I may have lost an election, but I have not lost my desire to make our two counties heard. Please know I will keep involved in my capacity as a business executive to strengthen economic development, to further explore regional interaction, and to make Maryland a more business friendly state. Thank you!

To the Editor:

To me there is nothing cooler than going to a live soccer game; nothing except personally knowing someone on the field. I am not talking about a player on the field. I am referring to the very talented and caring man whom I watched walk onto the D.C. United field to accept an award as Maryland's Youth Soccer Coach of the Year.

Mel Menker has lived in Garrett County for only two years, yet he has made such an impact on the young people of this town. On Saturday, September 19, around 7:00 p.m., Mel walked out to center field of R.F.K. stadium and received a plaque, warm-up jacket that had Coach of the Year embroidered on it, and a mini soccer ball signed by everyone on the D.C. United team. It was so neat to say I know him.

Mel has made a big impact in my life by improving my soccer skills and helping get a girls' soccer team at Southern High School. Without him, his wife Cathy, and the help of many others, I might be a bench warmer on Southern's JV boys' team. Mel has also started an off-season club, Arsenal Football, which is an indoor/outdoor soccer club for boys and girls held in the winter and spring. Without Mel, none of this may have happened.

Watching him stand on that field Saturday was thrilling. It made me think that some day I want to be just like Mel Menker. I want to make a difference. Thanks, Mel.

To the Editor:

The primary election contest for the Republican nomination for Garrett County commissioner, District III, was a very good example of how well our political process was formulated by the framers of our democratic system. A very orderly process narrowed the field of many contenders.

The conduct of all the candidates throughout the campaign was commendable. The candidates stuck to the issues and refrained from personal attacks on other candidates. Character does count.

The primary election provided me with the greatest number of votes in the District III contest, and I am extremely grateful to all of the voters and people on Team Beitzel who assisted in achieving this victory. The votes were split between a large field of contenders; however, in looking ahead to November, I still seek the support and votes of everyone who favored other candidates for commissioner in last week's election.

We owe a special debt of gratitude to the other candidates for their strong desire and belief that they can make a difference. It takes courage, energy, and a huge commitment of time and money to seek to become one of your elected officials. Your government can only be as good as the people who come forward to serve. In this primary election, the Republican party produced many good people from which to choose.

I am honored to be the Republican representative in the general election for Commissioner District III, and I look forward to another victory in November to continue my service to the citizens of Garrett County in a new capacity.

Sincerely yours,
Wendell R. Beitzel
Republican Candidate
Garrett County
Commissioner

View From My Window

"Goldie's Gone"
by Jeffrey Wilson

My memory is foggy on this point, and I don't think I ever wrote it down. When I first came to this place on August 1, 1994, I believe I brought GoMie here as a kitten. He may have come from Mom's, but more likely from the dairy farm which lies between this place and Mom's farm. That's what I think, but I'm not sure.

Whether during those first few months or later on, Goldie has been here with me from near the beginning. He has seen me through the vicissitudes of my life. In fairness, I have seen Goldie through a few a vicissitudes, too. He was a tomcat, after all.

There have been other cats here, too, over the years. None, however, had the status of Goldie with me. Our co-terminus residency here created a special bond between us. Goldie was my cat in a way that no other cat has been, and now, it seems, Goldie is gone.

Goldie became the dominant cat on the farm in fairly short order. The other cats gave him a wide berth. Even the dogs showed him respect by keeping their distance. At the same time, Goldie was shy around people. For years, whenever I had company, Goldie disappeared. Someone might make a sighting of him on the periphery, but he was only checking to see if the visitors had left yet.

Until my family moved down to the farm five years ago, Goldie was strictly an outdoor cat, a barn cat, even though there was no barn per se. I had had dogs in the house. Even that was against my upbringing, but cats were definitely for outside.

A curious thing happened when I got a family. Goldie and another old cat, Blanche — who just wandered in here one day years and years ago, and decided to stay — turned themselves into indoor cats. I had experimented with Goldie as an indoor cat, but he had rewarded me by pooping under all the beds in the house. That had re-inforced the conviction that cats belong outdoors.

It is hard to delineate the process by which the two cats showed they were ready to become indoor cats. It was not merely a willingness to be brought indoors. That had happened before. There was some shift in their cat brains which enabled the transition. After that they came indoors, and became trained, self-trained really, to tell us when they needed to go outside. The old saying is that you can't teach an old dog new tricks, but evidently that piece of folk wisdom does not apply to cats.

As I said, Goldie was a tomcat. Each spring he went tomcatting around. This past spring he came home after an especially prolonged trip in bad shape, very bad shape. I took him to the vet, who worked on him, but who did not offer much hope.

Goldie demonstrated that he had not yet exhausted his proverbial nine lives, and bounced back rather remarkably, reasserting his old dominance among the cats. When his strength was fully regathered, I took him to the vet again, to have done what I should have had done years ago. I had his bags unpacked.

Again Goldie came through it well and was back to his old, affectionately crotchety self in short order. I thought I had purchased a new leaf for Goldie's life.

So it might have been had I not gone away for five weeks in the middle of the summer. Not only did Goldie not like company, he would not stay here if I went away for more than a few days. The last sighting of Goldie on the periphery was around the third week of July.

I hoped that Goldie would turn up, as he always had before. I hoped that in a week or two after my return Goldie would check in, and seeing that I was back, he would amble up to the house and ask to be fed. It was not to be. Nearly seven weeks have come and gone since my return, without a sign of Goldie. Two months have passed since anyone has seen him. I can only conclude that Goldie is gone.

How these fellow creatures get inside us! Perhaps it is a remnant relationship from Eden when man knew all the animals by name. Goldie was my friend. Goldie is gone. I am sad in my missing han.

Guest Commentary . . . Interstate Highways: False Economic Growth

by Craig Speicher

For the very few still undecided about the consequences of a superhighway in Garrett County, words not my own in this reflection should banish all lingering doubts.

Following are brief excerpts from the Sept. 6 Pittsburgh Post-Gazette ("Smart Growth For Our Town"; Larry J. Schweiger). Boldface emphasis is mine. [Bracketing indicates inserted comments.]

"The greater Pittsburgh area is not growing. It's spreading. [Creating the infamous ugly urban sprawl.] A pattern of leapfrog development has consumed 48 percent more land in the past 50 years. At the same time, our total population is shrinking.

"This regional expansion has destroyed more than half of our food-producing farmland and it's fragmented our forest lands into thousands of isolated, unmanaged woodlots.... Is this smart growth?

"So much of what passes here in Western Pennsylvania for economic growth is an illusion.... They hold out tax breaks and other massive infrastructure subsidies (water, roads and sewerage, etc.) to attract the next mall or shuffle existing jobs to a new location in the region.

"And our state and Federal governments often subsidize this lunacy by funding more access roads, lanes and interstate highways into undeveloped areas. These arteries often lead to economic dislocation and congestion in new places, not to real sustainable economic growth."

[Consider: The Rt. 219 intersection at Rt. 40 Alt. and Chestnut Ridge Road, the first necessary stoplight in Grantsville history; Grantsville Plaza, where a pool hall and a pet store recently expired to no one's surprise; and the Holiday Inn's usual quasi-empty parking lot.]

"We, the taxpayers, are the ultimate victims.

"Here's why: Investments that shift commerce outward from the region's core communities create several layers of illusion of progress. First, the development itself consumes massive amounts of agricultural and forest lands. Second, residents in the outlying areas waste travel time and energy. Third, local tax burdens increase for both the core and outlying communities.

"This false economic growth simply shifts existing commerce from one municipality to another within the region [e.g. from Grantsville and Cumberland to LaVale] while it eliminates the economic returns [irrevocably] from the displaced forest and agricultural industry.

"We have a chance to turn away from this practice of a net-loss.. strategy....

"The leaders in...[flourishing] regions understand that they must protect their natural and cultural amenities to sustain the region for the long term." [E.g., Farms, forests, waters, rural beauty/culture, etc.] (End of quotes.)

These are harsh and hard won words of wisdom. So, do we really want to surrender permanently our children's share of America the Beautiful while also leaving them to pick up the fiscal tab (remember to factor in our 5.5 trillion dollar national debt)? For a superhighway with no guarantee of net economic gain and the real possibility of further loss? (How long will NAFTA take to claim the Flushing Shirt Factory—as it did Bausch and Lomb—if a superhighway hits Grantsville?) A superhighway that actually ensures increased drug trafficking (ask any narcotics officer) and air, ground and water pollution; that constitutes essentially colossal corporate welfare for a microscopic handful of local businesses with bona fide international trade; that will bend the taxpayers' backs even further?

Think about it before saying yes; please. Illusions that become delusions become destructive. (Just ask Monica Lewinsky.) How much nicer if we earn the renowned reputation of one brave county that just said no.

County Schools Getting "Wired" On Net Weekend

The newly installed computer laboratory in Swan Meadow School will be the center of operations for the volunteers assisting with the Net Weekend '98 wiring project. This will be the third year for this statewide event, geared to upgrade all schools to meet current and future technological standards by installing the necessary wires and electrical panels to link classrooms to the Internet.

The cables will be installed by Garrett County Board of Education administrators, teachers, staff members, and community volunteers. Among the volunteers who worked on last year's Net Weekend project at Accident Elementary School were the Pioneers, a group of Bell Atlantic retirees. "The Bell Atlantic retirees will be back again this year to work with us. We will also have teachers and members of the community helping us," said Dr. Wendell Teets, school superintendent.

Five other elementary schools in Garrett County, which were among those named recently to receive state funds through the Maryland Net Weekend '98 grant program, will also be included in wiring projects this year. The local schools awarded funding for this third Internet wiring event are Bloomington, Crellin, Dennett Road, Kitzmiller, and Route 40 elementary schools.

Representatives from each of these schools will be involved in the Swan Meadow wiring project this weekend. It will serve as a training session that will enable them to work more efficiently on the wiring ventures within their schools during the year, Dr. Teets explained.

In addition to the elementary schools named, Northern and Southern middle and high schools will benefit from similar wiring projects this year, he noted.

Net Weekend '98, a component of Gov. Parris Glendening's "Maryland Connected For Learning" initiative, is financed by the State Information Technology Fund, which was created by the governor and the General Assembly, and is co-sponsored by GTE Communications Corporation and NEC America. Some funding to purchase wiring was also supplied by the county government.

SUPPORTING AWARENESS OF LAWSUIT ABUSE, Oakland's mayor Asa M. McCain Jr. and the town council last week signed a proclamation acknowledging Sept. 20-26 as Lawsuit Abuse Awareness Week. Initiated by Western Maryland Citizens Against Lawsuit Abuse, the focus of the week is public education on the problems caused by frivolous litigation, which results in increased costs of goods and services and clogs the courts, preventing citizens with legitimate claims from being compensated in a more timely fashion. In the photo above, Jenna Naylor of Western Maryland Citizens Against Lawsuit Abuse watches McCain sign the proclamation.

She plans to become a teacher in early childhood or elementary education. Oester received the Ann Dilgard Scholarship designated for students entering the teaching profession. In high school she participated in mock trial, softball, and the School to Career program, and she is a member of Pandora's Box Teen Health Theatre. She enjoys swimming, softball, and volleyball.

She has been awarded the Charles L. Briner Memorial Scholarship and the Railey Realty Scholarship. In high school she was a member of the girls' basketball team, was named Student Athlete of the Month in January 1998, and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students in 1994 and 1995. Her hobbies are basketball, art, and camping, and she is a member of the Shepherds 4-H Club.

The class, described as highly interactive, will cover topics such as: putting together a presentation with confidence, being persuasive, communication skills, building credibility and trust, and delivery techniques and evaluation.

In Loving Memory of
Sally Duckworth Coddington
9/25/44 - 11/26/87
who went home to be with her Lord Thanksgiving Day, November 26, 1987
Because of her faith and trust in the Lord Jesus Christ, she now spends eternity in Heaven.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore.
As time goes by, we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

We cherish the memories of her smile and laughter, and the contentment she had in life. Each time we see your picture, you seem to smile and say, "Don't cry; I'm only sleeping. We'll meet again someday."

Loving and remembering her,
The Family

Southern Girls Up Record To 3-1 With 3-0 Win Over Alco

The girls' soccer team of Southern High School upped its record to 3-1 Tuesday evening by shutting out visiting Beall, 3-0, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League match.

Sarah Teets, who scored three goals in the Rams' previous match, made it four in a row when she put the ball in the net against the Mountaineers off an assist by Gina Reeves at the 34:11 mark of the first half.

Megan Burner scored the first of her two unassisted goals for the evening with 10:14 remaining in the first half to give the Rams a 2-0 advantage at halftime.

Burner put an insurance goal on the board with 11:09 remaining in the match.

No other details of the match were received. The Rams will play again this evening at Northern and will travel to Fort Hill next Tuesday.

Northern Girls Blank Westmar And Allegany On Soccer Field

A pair of Western Maryland Interscholastic League shutouts by the Northern High School girls' soccer team over the past week lifted the Huskies' overall record to 3-1, a mark which they will put on the line tonight against cross-county rival Southern, a team which is also sporting a 3-1 record.

As was reported last week, without details of the match, the Huskies defeated host Westmar last Wednesday night, 5-0, and then recorded a 2-0 defeat of Allegany in Cumberland Tuesday evening.

Ashley Wernick recorded a hat trick for the Huskies in the win over Westmar, as she scored the first three goals of the match. Teammate Kara Kenner then sealed the victory with two more insurance goals.

Warnick's first strike, which was unassisted, came just one minute into the match. She scored again off an assist by Brooke Butler, and recorded her third goal of the night unassisted to give the Huskies a 3-0 lead.

Kenner's first goal came just before halftime and was unassisted. She scored the only goal of the match in the second half, and it was also unassisted.

The Huskies dominated in shots on goal by a 20-6 margin and also in corner kicks, 9-1.

Ashley Warnick had four saves for the Huskies in goal, and Ashley McCutcheon and Stephanie MacDonald recorded eight and seven, respectively.

Butler and Kenner each scored unassisted goals for the Huskies in Tuesday night's win over the Allegany Campers at Greenway Stadium. Butler's came at the 7:42 mark of the first half and Kenner's was scored at the 38:16 mark of the second half.

The Campers led in shots on goal by a 20-12 margin, but Emily Rawe turned away 13 shots in goal for the Huskies, while Brooke Payne was credited with 14 saves for Allegany. Each team had three corner kicks.

The loss dropped the Campers to 1-3.

After Coach Katie Kane and the Huskies host the Southern Rams in another WMIL match this evening, they will entertain Westmar next Tuesday.

Ram Booters Nip Mountaineers Before Being Upset By Allegany

It was a .500 week on the road for the Southern High School boys' varsity soccer team, which edged host Beall in overtime last Thursday evening in Frostburg, 2-1, and then fell to Allegany Monday night at Greenway Stadium in Cumberland, 5-3. The results left the Rams with a 2-2-1 record overall and a 2-1-1 mark in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League standings.

It was a successful penalty kick by John Andrews in the overtime period last Thursday that gave the Rams their sudden-death victory over the Mountaineers.

After a scoreless first half, Beall took a 1-0 lead with just 7:28 remaining in the second half when Nathan Pusey scored on a penalty kick, and Southern's Andrew Grant knotted the score less than a minute later when he put the ball in the net off an assist by Dustin Slider.

The Rams were outgunned by a 15-6 margin in shots on goal, but finished with an 8-2 advantage in corner kicks. Jonathan Price had 10 saves for Southern and Daniel Miller was credited with five for Beall.

The Southern junior varsity was nipped in the first match, 1-0, with Beall's Greg Russ recording the only goal.

One of few highlights for the Rams in their match at Allegany on Monday was their three-goal rally after allowing the Campers to build a 4-0 lead. However, after cutting Alco's advantage to 4-3, Nathan Twigg put an insurance goal on the board for Allegany with less than seven minutes remaining in the match.

Scoring the first Allegany goal was Andy Farrell, unassisted, at the 29:51 mark of the first half. Teammate Jimmy Small followed with a second goal just a minute later off a feed by Joel Metheny. Brian Harrig then made it 3-0, again about a minute later, when he scored off an assist by Small to give the Campers a 3-0 halftime lead.

The home team went up 4-0 when Small scored his second goal of the night, this time on a direct kick less than two minutes into the second half.

D.R. Parsons finally broke the ice for the Rams when he scored an unassisted goal about eight and one-half minutes into the second half. John Andrews followed with an unassisted goal at the 64:30 mark, and later fed Uwe Dietzel, who scored with 11 minutes remaining in the match.

Twigg's final goal for Allegany was scored on a direct kick with six and one-half minutes left in the match.

The Rams held a 14-13 edge in shots on goal, and also led in corner kicks, 8-2. Price was credited with 11 saves in goal for the Rams, while Rob Stansbury and Carl Hodges combined for eight saves for the Campers.

The victory was the first of the season for Allegany (1-3-1).

The Southern junior varsity was defeated in the preliminary match, 4-2. Aaron Clark scored twice for the Allegany jayvees, and Aaron MacGray and Shane Ritter each scored once. Recording goals for the Rams were T.J. Nine and Chad Panther.

The Rams will play again this Saturday night at home against Calvary Christian Academy. The match will kick off at 7:30 p.m. They will get another shot at the Allegany Campers the following Saturday night, also at home.

Huskies Hammered By Sentinels Before Being Edged By Allegany

After being hammered by host Fort Hill, 14-0, last Thursday night in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League match, the young Northern High School boys' varsity soccer team returned to Cumberland Tuesday evening and played very well, but were edged by Allegany in another WMIL contest, 1-0.

The Huskies, who are still working to record their first victory of the season, will try to get into the win column next Tuesday night when they host Westmar.

The Sentinels of Fort Hill dominated the Huskies for all but about the first 10 minutes of the match last Thursday, as Adam Fletcher finished with five goals for Fort Hill, Steve Brett recorded three, and Eric Dudley netted two.

Fort Hill built an 8-0 lead in the first half on four goals by Fletcher, all three of Brett's scores, and one more by Mitchell Reid. Dudley netted his pair in the second half, while Fletcher, Jared Alam, John Veronick, and Peter Daley each scored one. Assists were dished out by Matt McDonald, Drew Griffin, Dudley, Brett, and Alam. Three of Fort Hill's goals were recorded on penalty kicks.

Fort Hill finished with a commanding lead in shots on goal (48-10) and a 5-3 advantage in corner kicks. Alam had nine saves for the Sentinels, who upped their record to 4-0-1.

The only goal scored against the Huskies Tuesday night by Allegany was an unassisted shot by Jimmy Small at the 27:00 mark of the second half, but that's all the Campers needed to record their second win in six matches (2-3-1). It was the second win in a row for Alco, which upset Southern High School Saturday night.

Small's goal was scored on a direct kick.

The Northern junior varsity was topped in the preliminary match, 4-1. Scoring for the Allegany Jayvees were Aaron Clark with two, Aaa Simmons, and James Smith.

Husky Netters Crush Westmar; Narrowly Defeated By Fort Hill

A split over the past week's action leaves Northern High School's volleyball team with a 3-2 record heading into road matches at Bishop Walsh on Monday and Beall on Wednesday.

The Huskies tore into the Wildcats for a 3-0 sweep Monday at Lonaconing on game scores of 15-3, 15-8, and 15-4. They were led by Rebecca Hinebaugh's 13 service points, while Janelle Ferrens's six service points led Westmar, which dropped to a 2-2 record.

Westmar's junior varsity downed the Huskies jayvee in three games as Northern took the opener, 15-11, and the Wildcats took the next pair, 15-5, and 15-12. Bridget Frazee had 11 points for Northern, while Brittany Martin had an equal amount of point production for the Wildcats.

The Huskies went up against a tough Fort Hill team in Accident last night and fell in a hard fought contest, 3-2. Northern dropped the first match, 16-14, won the next two, 15-9 and 15-8, then were overtaken by the Sentinels' depth for the final two matches, which the visitors won, 15-2 and 15-5.

Jackie Brenneman's 12 service points led the Huskies, and Hinebaugh contributed 11 service points and six kills. Fort Hill's Kristie Stone had 16 service points and 13 kills, Bekah Dillon had 15 service points and 15 assists, and Carrie Liller had 15 kills.

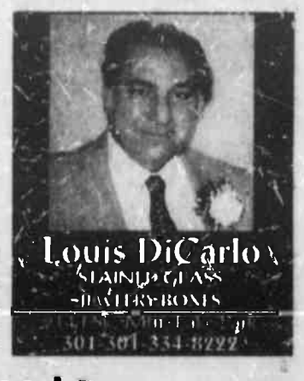
In A Rut, Ram Netters Looking For First Win

While an 0-5 overall record, and an 0-4 mark in Western Maryland Interscholastic League play, may appear dismal on the surface, the Southern High School volleyball team knows that long-term triumph is often the product of adversity. The Rams were swept by 3-0 margins by powerful Fort Hill and Mt. Savage squads this past week in WMIL play.

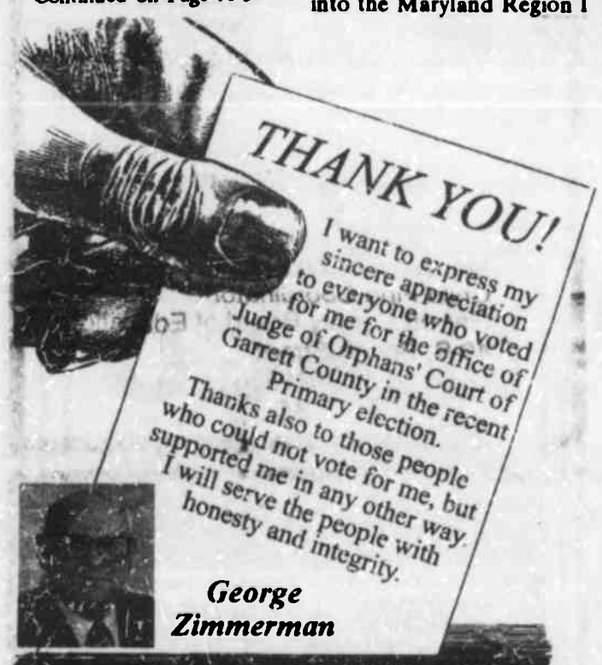
"The kids are coming out with a good effort," first-year coach Sue Newton commented after the Mt. Savage game. "They are learning a totally new offense this year which is more complicated, more intricate, and requires a lot of thinking to run correctly."

Fort Hill took Monday's match in Oakland in a three-game sweep, 15-6, 15-7, and 15-7. Jennifer Teagarden led the Rams with four points and four assists, while Jessica Saturday tallied four kills. The Sentinels, who upped their record to 4-1, were led by Kristie Stone's 10 service points and nine kills.



Southern swept the junior varsity match 15-9 and 15-3, as Heather Boyce served for nine points.

The Rams were blanked at home again last night by undefeated Mt. Savage (now 5-0), 15-8, 15-1, and 15-2. Saturday's four kills and Keri Niner's four service points led Southern's effort. No information was available on the Indians' statistics.



The Rams jayvees swept another match, downing the visitors junior varsity 15-11, 15-5. Laura Johnson had 10 service points for Southern and Aimee Parrack added seven points.

"It will take time and a great deal of hard work in practice and under game conditions, but learning this new offensive scheme will hopefully make us more competitive in the not-too-distant future against schools we may be seeing in the regional playoffs," Newton said. "A sign that we're on the right track is that other teams are starting to comment on our improvements, especially getting our setters into their new positions, which is taking a great deal of work and effort."

The Rams take on Beall at home this coming Monday night, then travel to Lonaconing for a match up with the Westmar Wildcats on Wedesday evening. Junior varisty play begins at 6 p.m., while the varsity contests begin at 7 p.m.

Huskies Fail To Tame Tucker's Mountain Lions; Fall By 23 Pts.

There's no substitute for experience, which proved the difference in Northern High School varsity's 47-24 football loss to visiting Tucker County, W.Va., this past Friday night. Although Tucker was admittedly bigger and faster, it was the experience of players who have been playing football longer, and working longer together as a team, that downed the Huskies more than anything, said Northern head coach Phil Carr as he analyzed his 2-1 team's first defeat of the year.

There were some bright spots on the night, the coach said. "Our defense showed what it was capable of when we stopped Tucker on their first two possessions," said Carr. On the first possession junior defensive end Nathan Resh stopped a Mountain Lion runner cold in the backfield on fourth and one, which forced a punt. Tucker picked up one first down on their second possession, but on third and six a host of Husky tacklers ganged up on Mountain Lion quarterback Jason Hedrick in a sack that forced another punt.

A clipping penalty on that punt proved damaging to the Huskies, as the 15-yard infraction put the ball inside Northern's 20 yard line. The Huskies' offense stalled, and when it was Northern's turn to punt the snap went over the punter's head. Tucker recovered on the 12 yard line, and scored two plays later on a nine yard strike from Hedrick to split end Derek Simmons, one of the best receivers in the area. Tailback Wes Lambert ran for the two-point conversion, and the visitors were up, 8-0, which is where the score stood as the first quarter ended.

The Huskies' defense continued to stymie Tucker's running game in the second quarter, and the Mountain Lions went increasingly to the air to move into scoring position as they roared to a 27-0 lead on three second-quarter touchdowns. Simmons rushed for a four-yard score, which Brandon Corcoran followed with an extra-point kick. Speedy John Nash then broke through the Huskies line and secondary for a 45-yard scoring run, followed by a missed PAT kick attempt. Simmons then hauled in a 25-yard pass from Hedrick to score his third touchdown of the half, which was followed by another missed PAT attempt.

Tucker opened the scoring in the third quarter on a 20 yard run by Lambert, and a Corcoran kick made it 34-0. Down but not out, the Huskies then went on the prowl to score a pair of unanswered touchdowns in response. Huskies halfback Rob Dozier scored on a run from three yards out and followed up on the effort by scoring the two-point conversion as well.

Northern fullback Ryan Brenneman rushed for a 12-yard touchdown and quarterback Adam Brenneman added the two-point conversion in the fourth quarter to make the score 34-16. Tucker countered with a one-yard dive for a touchdown by Jared Milliron, (the conversion run attempt failed) and a 20-yard run by Lambert, which was followed by Corcoran's successful PAT kick. Dozier brought the home crowd to its feet with a 56-yard run for a touchdown, and Ryan Brenneman brought the night's scoring to a close with a two-point conversion run.

First Quarter

TC - Derek Simmons 9 pass from Jason Hedrick (Wes Lambert run).

Second Quarter

TC - Simmons 4 run (Brandon Corcoran kick).

TC - John Nash 45 run (kick failed).

TC - Simmons 25 pass from Hedrick (kick failed).

Third Quarter

TC - Lambert 20 run (Corcoran kick).

N - Rob Dozier 3 run (Dozier run).

Fourth Quarter

N - Ryan Brennaman 12 run (A. Brennaman run).

TC - Jarad Milliron 1 run (run failed).

TC - Lambert 20 run (Corcoran kick).

N - Dozier 56 run (R. Brennaman run).

Dozier turned in an outstanding game as he racked up 102 yards on 16 carries, leading all rushers. Lambert gained 71 yards for Tucker on 11 carries.

"We knew we had an uphill battle in this one," Carr commented afterwards. "We made it even harder for ourselves when the score got to 15-0 early in the second quarter, and some of our guys seemed to drop their all-out efforts a little. I wasn't happy that some of them seemed to throw in the towel, and told the team that I was disappointed in that aspect of our attitude.

"I also told them, in all truthfulness, that Tucker's team, one of the best in the state of West Virginia, is very similar to what we could have in the very near future. They started 21 returning seniors and only one junior, which is unbelievable, but next year we'll have 14 returning seniors. Still, we have a good team right now that's capable of going a heck of a long way this season."

Looking ahead, the Huskies next contest is at Hancock tomorrow night. Although the lowland team started out the year with two consecutive losses, they speared the Spartans of Bishop Walsh last week, 33-0.

In scouting the opposition Carr said that Hancock, which runs a wing-T offensive scheme, is led by 1-2 punch ground attack. "Sam Hess, who rushed for over 100 yards in their first two games, is a punishing fullback at 6-2, 225 lbs. Behind him is a freshman halfback, Tommy Wagner, who is only 5-8, 130 lbs., but he is pretty fast. The quarterback, Mike Hixon, can throw if he's given the time, and can run if he gets outside.

"We have a lot of confidence against the run, our defensive line and linebackers have really done a good job so far this season. We had trouble stopping the pass last week, so we're spending a lot of time in practice this week working on our coverage.

"Our kids are anxious to get back on the field after the Tucker loss," Carr concluded. "That's always a good sign."

Kickoff time at Hancock is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow night.

Ram Gridders Finally Score, Record 6-0 Win At Preston

Offensive production has been a problem so far this season for the Southern High School varsity football team, and even though it generated only six points last Friday night, another outstanding effort by the Ram defensive unit led to a 6-0 victory over host Preston County. It was the first win in three starts this season for the Rams, who were shut out in their first two games.

The only points of the evening were recorded at the 8:57 mark of the second quarter when Southern quarterback Justin Lillier connected with Jason Rohrbaugh on a 37-yard touchdown pass. The run for the extra two points failed.

The game also featured a goal-line stand late in the second quarter when the Knights had the ball on the Rams' one-yard line with a first down, but were unable to score.

Leading the Rams' defensive attack were Billy Stoner, who recorded 11 tackles, and Nick Dolan with nine.

5-37	Penalties-Yards	5-47
5-1	Fumbles-Lost	1-0
125	Total Offense	158

The Knights (2-2) finished with a 158-125 edge in total yardage, with Johnny Hull gaining 99 yards on 14 carries. Pacing the Rams' ground game was Josh Bosley, who recorded 70 yards on 19 carries.

Several of the Rams' drives were hampered by fumbles, although they maintained posaession of four out of five drops.

"We were pleased to get the win, but we're still frustrated with our offense," stated Coach Tom Woods. "We made some personnel changes this week that we hope will help. When we do get a drive going, we keep stopping ourselves with a penalty or a fumble or some other kind of miscue.

"But we knew going into Friday night that out kids were still drained emotionally from the Musselman game," he said. "We expected that, and our play at Preston was emotionally flat. It's almost impossible to put so much energy into a game one week and then be able to come back with that same level of energy the next week."

Woods said that his team is healthy, however, and "in good spirits" as they prepare for a new opponent this Friday night in Grafton High School.

"Grafton has a good program with a lot of parallels to our history at Southern," Woods said. "I know their coach very well and he's done an excellent job. They were real strong for three straight years, and this year they are in a rebuilding mode. They're very young, with only two seniors on the team."

Grafton is currently 1-3 on the season, but Woods was quick to point out that they were "in every game."

"They lost to South Harrison, 23-14, to Liberty, 27-21, and to Phillip Barbour, 22-21, after leading by two touchdowns in the fourth quarter," he said. "Their win was over R.C. Byrd, 20-13."

The Southern secondary players will have their work cut out for them, as Grafton runs a wide-open, I-formation offense that features passing about 50 percent of the time. They are led of fensively by their junior quarterback Jeff Lambert (6-3, 155), who was named the Central West Virginia Player of the Week last week after a 14-for-29, 269-yard, three-touchdown performance against R.C. Byrd.

Lambert's primary target is junior tailback Seth Kelley (6-0, 175), and the Grafton line is anchored by junior tight end Ben Grogg (6-3, 200), who is also a target of Lambert'a, and the team's only starting senior, Tim Knotts (6-0, 255) at tackle.

Grafton's 5-2 defense is paced by junior linebacker Mike Snider (5-11, 170), and at the tackle positions, junior Chad Royce (6-0, 195) and sophomore Travis Garrett (6-4, 230).

"Their future looks very bright, but they are pretty young this year," Woods said. "We believe that if we can continue to improve offensively and maintain the level of play on our defense, we will have a very good chance of winning this game."

Woods described the two teams as "distinctly different" from each other, and said that considerable time is being spent this week in practice working with the Ram secondary. "We are going to have to change our coverages throughout the game because Lambert is very good at reading defenses," he said.

The kickoff at McKinney Field in Grafton is set for 7:30 p.m. Friday. Persons traveling from Garrett County to the game should follow U.S. Rt. 50 to Grafton, stay on Rt. 50 until crossing the bridge, then take the first left and follow that road to the field.

Youth Football League Results Are Announced

The Oakland Raiders defeated the Oakland Ravens, 18-6, and the Parsons Vikings topped the Oakland Jets, 20-7, in NFL Division games played in the Oakland Youth Football League on Saturday. The results left the Vikings as the only undefeated team in the league (5-0), while the Raiders improved to 4-1, the Jets are currently 1-4, and the Ravens are winless at 0-5.

The Jets will meet the Ravens this Saturday, Sept. 26, in a noon clash, and the Vikings will take on the Raiders in the 2 p.m. contest.

In the NCAA Division of the league (flag football), the Gonder Insurance Tigers rolled over the First United Buckeyes, 60-39; the Rinker Construction Nittany Lions topped the Buckeyes, 61-45; the FOP Fighting Irish defeated the Team One Terps, 40-13; and the Gregg's Pharmacy Mountaineers stopped the Tigers, 48-32.

Standings in the division are as follows: Mountaineers, 6-0; Lions and Irish, 4-2; Tigers, 4-3; Terps, 1-5; and Buckeyes, 0-7.

The schedule for this Saturday, Sept. 26, is: Buckeyes vs. Terps and Lions vs. Irish, both at 9 a.m.; and Irish vs. Mountaineers and Tigers vs. Lions, both at 10 a.m.

Huskies Jayvee, Frosh On Trail Of First Win

The younger members of Northern High School's football program may be seeking their first win, but they are picking up some valuable lessons as they take on more experienced opponents without flinching. The Huskies 0-4 mark doesn't reveal the strides the team has made as they continue to work hard and improve, although slowly, and it should be noted that several players are playing their rookie season of organized football.

The freshmen blues hosted the ninth-grade squad of Berkeley Springs, W.Va., Friday night, and were narrowly defeated by a score of 6-0.

The two well-matched defensive units shut down both offenses until the third quarter, when a Berkeley Springs fullback broke free for a 65-yard scoring run. Not to be discouraged, the Northern defense dusted off and went right back to work, holding the gold team scoreless for the rest of the evening.

The sophombres rejoined the team the following Monday evening for a road game against Tucker County's junior varsity in which the Huskies fell, 28-0.

The size, speed, and strength of the hosts proved to be Northern's undoing, yet several Huskies turned in fine defensive performances with aggressive tackling and hustling play, especially away from the ball to get into tackling position. Sophomore middle linebacker Bill Rodeheaver, and freshman outside linebacker Trey Brenneman are anchoring a linebacking corps that could mature into a fearsome crew over the next couple of seasons.

The Huskies junior varsity, coached by Bob Moranduzzo, will take the Northern field this coming Monday night against Timber Ridge, Pa.'s, jayvees. Kickoff is scheduled for 7 p.m.

She plans to attend a four-year university and would like to major in sports medicine.

Andrea will be accompanied throughout the Autumn Glory Festival by Princesses Crystal Hinnant of Southern High School and Dana Braskey of Northern High School. The queen and princesses will participate in the Fireman's Parade Thursday evening, Saturday's Grand Feature Parade and numerous other festival activities, and will award trophies to the winners of the Official Maryland State Banjo and Fiddle championships Saturday evening.

Partnership

Garrett County commissioners, chose to pursue the partnership agreement because the county strengths, as well as needs, are "drastically different" from those of the rest of the state.

In the months that the LMB met, they came to the conclusion that a high priority in Garrett County is economics. Stephens said the members are now focusing on the goal of "stable and economically self-sufficient families." This is reportedly a unique goal and is not shared by other Maryland counties.

The partnership will allow the LMB to develop programs based on a five-year agreement with the state, rather than an annual one; it will allow the LMB to set the county's own priorities for children and families based on local input and need, and base funding decisions on those priorities; and it will allow the group to make funding decisions based on the results locally desired.

The partnership will also let the LMB use "deep end funds" for prevention efforts, as long as results can be demonstrated. Finally, it will bring more money into Garrett County to be used in prevention efforts.

As a result of the negotiations, the state allotted $334,000 in 1998 to the county to start up the Vision to Scale programs. That money was used to fund Health Families Garrett County, Garrett Works, a Community Building Summit to be held Oct. 21-22, the individual development account program, the alternative high school program, and the Child Care Recruitment Strategy.

None of these programs is funded entirely with Vision to Scale money, but nearly all would be unable to function without the funds, Stephens indicated.

With the 1999 funds, the LMB wishes to establish an information and technology strategy, "wrap-around" case management, and community based systems coordination.

"This is a watershed event in Maryland," Stephens told the commissioners Tuesday. He expressed gratitude for their support in the project.

Garrett Countians attending yesterday's Baltimore ceremony were Lucia Ayers, Henry Brown, Earleen Beckman, Crystal Shaffer, and Stephens. Brown, director of the local Social Services office, is the LMB chairman. He and Special Secretary Linda Thompson of the Governor's OCYF signed the agreement. The county commissioners signed the agreement on Tuesday at their regular public meeting (see photo).

ments complex on A Street in Mtn. Lake Park. The community grill for the tenants, it is described as a black Thermos brand grill with wooden side racks, a glass front on its lid, and a white gas tank, and is valued at $180.

The coin boxes at the Chestnut Ridge Amoco station car wash were tampered with this past Thursday night, with damages of $300 to each box. The sides of the boxes were pried open, although no money was taken in the incident.

A theft last Wednesday, Sept. 16, from a car parked on N Street in Mtn. Lake Park, resulted in the loss of two CD carriers containing 55 CDs. The loss was estimated at $950. That same night, a theft from a car parked on Shennandoah Avenue in Oakland resulted in the loss of a $200 14-karat gold ring mounted with approximately six diamonds.

Democrat for Garrett County Commissioner

I would like to thank my many Democratic friends for supporting me as their candidate in the September 15th election.

As we move forward to the November 3rd General Election, I am asking all citizens, Republicans and Democrats, to retain me as your County Commissioner for District 2.

While currently serving as a commissioner, I have acquired valuable experience, which I feel is necessary for the position. This will enable me to do well in this leadership role in the future.

Please put your trust in me, a lifetime resident of this area, to continue to handle the business of Garrett County. Thank you.

Runnin' Rams Place First In Meet With Westmar, University

The boys' and girls' cross country teams of Southern High School both posted victories in a tri-meet held Tuesday afternoon on the Rams' Broadford Park course. The Southern boys finished with 26 points to defeat Westmar with 48 and University with 51, while the Southern girls recorded 22 points, compared to Westmar with 38 and University with an incomplete score.

Crossing the finish line first in the boys' race was Westmar's Zach Bittinger, who is undefeated so far this season. Bittinger recorded a time of 17 minutes, 24 seconds to edge out Southern's Casey McBee by nine seconds (17:33). Steven Heer led University by placing third with a time of 17:37.

Other Runnin' Rams who finished among the top 15 were: Ted Wolf, Rusty Strubin, and Beau Gibson in fourth, fifth, and sixth places, respectively, Dan Shafer in ninth, Pete Porcaro in 13th, and Jared Fike in 15th.

Southern's Amy Snyder was the top female runner of the day, as she finished with a time of 21:42. Twenty seconds behind her was Westmar's Ashley Kitzmiller (22:02), and Giti Farandi of University was third in 22:24. Beth Sauder of Southern finished fourth in 22:38.

Other top finishers for Southern were: Katelyne McBee in sixth, Faryn Shaffer in seventh, Katie Moomau in ninth, Angie Sincell in 10th, and Keri Strubin, Erin Lucas, and Laura Hollingsworth in 12th, 13th, and 14th places, respectively.

Road Needs

The present bridge has been deemed "structurally deficient and requires replacement," the state officials said.

The new bridge will be located just west of the present span, and will carry a single lane in each direction, a highway official said after the meeting.

Road closings of Route 219 are expected to be held to a minimum during the construction process, as the new bridge span will be constructed next to the present span which will continue to be utilized until the new span is ready for traffic. Some closings of Fish Hatchery Road beneath the construction area will be necessary, however, and state officials will be discussing these closings and other bridge construction-related issues during a public meeting at Northern Middle School tentatively scheduled for Monday, Oct. 19. Details of the meeting will be presented in The Republican as they are received.

- Backbone Mountain runaway truck ramp - Officials acknowledged that the $1.7 million emergency ramp construction project on Route 135 between Swanton and Bloomington was completed earlier this year, and went smoothly.
- Oakland Bypass - Describing this 2.4 mile project as being in the development and evaluation stage with project planning underway, officials stressed that the proposed Oakland Bypass has not been approved for actual construction, nor has a location been selected. Partial funding has been received through the Appalachian Regional Commission, with a total of nearly $500,000 being used to study the proposal. Officials said it will be at least eight months before the study is completed.

"Next summer we will have a public hearing in Garrett County that will present the alternatives that come out of the environmental study," district engineer Fred Crozier said, "including the 'no-build' alternative, which is always an option. We guarantee that this meeting will be held in the evening at a time convenient to the greatest number of citizens interested in attending and providing their comments."

County Requests

Garrett County planning officials then presented their request list to the state highway officials. Among the major requests listed were:

"Prioritization of the entire Route 219 corridor, particularly project planning for the rights-of-way for the Oakland and Accident bypasses, and continuing to emphasize planning for improvements to the existing corridor throughout the entire county."

Officials responded to this request by repeating that it will be eight months before the Oakland Bypass study is completed, and adding that nothing is being planned at this point regarding the Accident Bypass proposal.

In regards to the wording of the "entire Route 219 corridor," Delegate George Edwards took the opportunity toward the conclusion of the meeting to emphasize that this refers to the plan that originated in the 1970s to incrementally upgrade Route 219 from Keyser's Ridge to Oakland to connect the county seat with the northern end of the county.

"That 30-year-old plan does not carry Route 219 as a four-lane highway south of Oakland," Edwards said, "nor do I support that concept. What Senator John Hafer and I do fully support is the study of an interstate highway on the border of Garrett and Allegany counties that would eventually cross the Potomac River in the vicinity of McCoole. We know there will never be two interstate highways built in western Maryland, one in Garrett County and one in Allegany County, so we want to maximize our chances of getting one by working together for a highway that will benefit the region as a whole. Promoting a Route 219 route would only put us into competition with Allegany County's Route 220 proposal, and be self-defeating."

Regarding traffic control at the intersection of Route 219 and Mosser Road, state officials said a flashing light will be installed at this increasingly-used intersection by next fall, and that they would continue to study the need for full signal control, meaning a stoplight. They added that if the need was determined, the flashing signal could easily be converted to a stoplight in the future.

County officials also pointed out their desire for a right angle intersection at Route 135 and Oakland Drive. State officials said they have determined that this is an appropriate solution to traffic congestion on Route 135 between Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park, and will begin construction of the right angle intersection next spring.

State officials told the gathering that property has been acquired for an upgrade to the Oak and Third streets intersection, and the widening of the turning radius should be completed by late next summer.

State officials also commented that they agree with the county that a sidewalk is needed along Oakland Drive between Southern High School and Mountain Lake Park, but that the location is yet to be determined. Officials said the best location appears to be on the north side of the road, but it remains to be determined if that private property can be acquired for the $350,000 project.

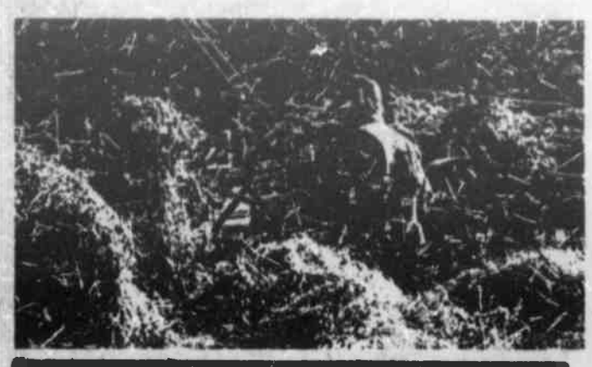
MARYLAND

SPRINGS FOLK FESTIVAL,

FRIDAY & SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2 & 3

The highest village in Pennsylvania, alive with the splash of fall's vivid colors and surrounded by the clip clop of the local Amish traveling the highways, invites you and your family to experience how our forefathers worked and played by stepping back in time to a celebration of their arts and skills. Ongoing demonstrations will make the two days, Friday and Saturday, October 2 and 3, a unique adventure.



Stand aside and observe how the women labored, preparing their daily bread and clothing for the family. Witness how the men toiled splitting rails for fences, boiled down sugar water to make the sweet maple syrup, and hand-flailed the grain. Listen to the sounds of the old steam engine as it gives off its lyrical toot and the beat of the engines of the old time hay balers and steam-powered shingle maker. Hear the laughter of the children as they ride the hay wagon through the nature trail.

Solve the problem of what to buy that person who has everything by shopping among the beautiful display of handcrafted items available for sale at the juried craft show.

To tickle your palate, fresh-baked bread, warm from the stone outdoor bake oven, piled high with homemade butter and fresh apple butter, doughnuts that will melt in your mouth, and funnel cakes to tempt young and old alike are prepared on site. If you feel like a light lunch, sandwiches and bean soup are waiting for you. For the heartier appetites our traditional Pennsylvania Dutch meal of Yoder's country sausage, fried potatoes, corn, and all of the trimmings are yours for the asking, served cafeteria style or family all-you-can-eat fashion.

Don't miss the continual performances of the banjo and fiddle, hammered dulcimer and the a cappella voices of local Mennonites and barbershoppers located in the music building, along with an original pageant depicting life in the area in the 1800s and early 1900s. Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. a special pageant performance will be provided free of charge.

ONE TRUE THING

Rated R - Running time: 2:07

Over the years, Meryl Streep has built a list of awards and nominations as long as your arm. Her mantelpiece is surely sagging by this time, and her performance in Cari Franklin's One True Thing will do nothing to help its condition. But perhaps the dark horse of this movie is Renée Zellweger. Although her role doesn't call for the same kind of power needed from Streep, Zellweger, who gave us an inkling of her talent in Jerry Maguire, proves she can hold her own in the same room with the reigning queen of contemporary drama. The subtlety of her transition is nicely executed.

The setting is the small town of Langhorn, New York, where George Gulden (William Hurt) is chair of the English department at a small college. His daughter Ellen (Zellweger) is a hard-shelled NYC news writer. She travels home to attend a birthday party for her dad, politely declining her mother Kate's (Streep) request that all attendees dress as their favorite literary character. Ellen idolizes her father and respects his critical commentaries on her work, but cannot comprehend why Kate is so infatuated with being a homemaker.

When the family learns that Kate has cancer, George asks Ellen to move back home for a while to help take care of her. Though Ellen is reluctant to give up her job, he convinces her that she can work from home. Also, he strokes her ego by asking her to write an introduction to be included in his upcoming book. This is such an honor for her that she accepts the mom-sitting job.

But Ellen is soon in over her head. Kate is involved with a ladies' club called the "Minnies," a group of women who regularly decorate the town for holidays. Since Halloween is right around the corner, Kate has a full schedule for the upcoming months, right through Christmas. Ellen's list of duties quickly grows to include donning a witch costume, roasting a turkey, and making ornamental cardinals for the Christmas tree, all while struggling to continue her career as best she can and keep her relationship going with her boyfriend. She is even made an honorary "Minnie," which one sees as a dubious distinction. But everything changes when she discovers an unsettling secret about her dad.

Based on the best-selling novel by former New York Times columnist Anna Quindlen, Karen Croner's screenplay shows the kind of torsion exerted on a family when a member is diagnosed with a life-threatening illness. Though Streep is saddled with playing the victim, she does it without making Kate a pathetic whiner or an unbelievably courageous heroine. But Zellweger's task may be even a bit more difficult than Streep's, since the entire film is seen though her eyes. She must come to many revelations about her mother, her father, and herself, and each one changes her a little. This is a tricky journey Zellweger must make, and director Franklin must share the credit for helping her through it.

Hurt is beginning to become somewhat stagnant in his characterizations of late. His Gadge is phoned in, as was his John Robinson in last spring's Lost In Space. But he is talented enough to make it plausible even in the absence of energy, and he has a few moments. And Tom Everett Scott (Dead Man On Campus, An American Werewolf In Paris) also turns in a nice supporting performance as Ellen's brother Brian.

One True Thing is a tear-jerker, no doubt. But with this script and this calibre of actors, its quality shows through. And Streep's performance will probably secure her another Oscar nomination. ★★★★½

KNOCK OFF

Rated R - Running time: 1:33

Jean-Claude Van Damme has done some pretty bad films in his day. I mean, let's face it, the man's not Olivier. But Hong Kong director Hark Tsui's Knock Off could not be much worse if it tried to be. It's one of those films that's so bad it's good: Its entertainment lies in the fertile ground for ridicule it provides. Written by Steven E. De Souza (Die Hard), Knock Off gives a few nods toward the pretense of a plot, but is mostly made up of many long chases and fight sequences, people yelling and shooting at each other, and stuff blowing up into ridiculously huge green flames.

Rob Schneider (Men Behaving Badly) is supposed to add the comic element and Paul Sorvino is supposed to be a bad guy, but both fail. One can't really blame them, considering the script and direction they're getting, but the question is why get involved in the first place? Did their agents actually think this would be a good thing on their resumés?

The story involves the vast proliferation of counterfeit merchandise produced in Hong Kong for sale on the world market. Cheaply made goods are passed off as the real thing--fake brand-name toys, fake running shoes, fake designer label clothing, etc. The V-Six blue jeans company has recently discovered that their label is being pirated and used on inferior jeans made in HK. So CIA agent Tommy Hendricks (Schneider) is assigned to investigate, posing as a friend to retired knock-off artist Marcus Ray (Van Damme) in order to get information. The woman who pretends to be from the V-Six company is Karan Leigh (Lela Rochon), who at first thinks that Hendricks and Ray are the perpetrators. But she turns out to be another CIA agent, and they all soon learn that Harry Johannson (Sorvino) is behind it all--and with much more sinister motives than selling bogus jeans.

The badness of this movie belongs in some sort of Hall of Fame. The entire soundtrack seems to have been overdubbed, even for the American actors, so no one's lips move in synch with his words, like those old Godzilla movies. What's more, the Asians sound like Americans and the Americans sound like Asians. There are sections where an actor's mouth is intentionally obscured by the camera angle, so as to minimize the obvious sound discrepancy. The acting is so much like the old Speed Racer cartoons that I expected everyone in the room to blink at the same time. Apparently, the filming was done with the intention of overdubbing Chinese, and then overdubbed back into English as an afterthought. Or something.

The acting is cartoon, the action scenes are cartoon, the effects are cartoon. And cartoons are okay, if they're done by people who know how to do them. But that's not the case here. Even as a cartoon, Knock Off is a knock-off. ★

RUSH HOUR

Rated PG-13 - Running time: 1:35

In the old days of Bruce Lee, martial arts movies could be counted on to deliver lots of kicks and punches, but if you wanted humor, forget it. Even later, with the Billy Jack movies and Chuck Norris, being funny was definitely not those guys' jobs. But in Rush Hour, Jackie Chan and Chris Tucker have brought the martial arts/action genre into the realm of tongue-in-cheek comedy, and done fairly well under the direction of Brett Ratner. Though longtime Hong Kong movie star Chan is not much more than a straight man in this film, he obviously has a better understanding of the concept than most of his predecessors. And Chris Tucker, clearly patterning himself after Eddie Murphy in 48 Hours, provides plenty of laughs. Unfortunately, laughs ain't enough.

Though amusing and reasonably exciting, Rush Hour feels borrowed. It is patterned most obviously after the Lethal Weapon series, featuring two unlikely partners whose personalities clash more with each other than the criminals they're pursuing. But it also has elements previously seen in such a variety of films as Running Scared, the aforementioned 48 Hours, and The Big Hit. As a result, this film cannot really exceed the slightly-above-average level in the script department. One has to wonder, can't Ross LaManna (story) and Jim Kouf (screenplay) come up with anything new? But Tucker and Chan work almost as well together as Gibson and Glover, and the story is plausible enough for a lighthearted kick-and shoot fest.

A young Asian girl is abducted just before a grand gala is to take place in L.A., celebrating the end of British rule in Hong Kong and the re-release of millions of dollars worth of ancient Chinese artworks that had been owned by Brit investors. The girl is Soo Yung (Julia Hsu), the daughter of Consul Han (Tzi Ma), a diplomat for the Hong Kong government. The kidnapper wants $50 million or the girl gets it. Thomas Griffin (The Full Monty's Tom Wilkinson), the outgoing British governor, is also on hand and appears distraught over the incident. Or is he?

Consul Han requests that Detective Inspector Lee (Chan), one of his best investigators, be used on the case. But the FBI is already working on it and doesn't want any meddlesome Chinese guy gumming up the works, so they hire Detective James Carter (Tucker) a mouthy LAPD cop, to be Lee's "partner"--basically, to show him the sights and keep him away from the case. But Carter wants to be in on the action as much as Lee does, and neither man wants a partner. So they must find a way to overcome their differences and the language barrier to help each other solve the case.

The movie is fun and funny, with plenty of action and very well-choreographed fights. Included at the end is a series of out-takes that are perhaps the funniest part of the show. Rush Hour would be a lot more valuable if it were not so heavily based on other successful films, but if you're looking for mindless entertainment, you could do worse. ★★★

HOSPITALIZED

DEATH

Word has been received of the death of Herbert Brenneman, Bocnsboro, a former resident of Bittinger and son of the late Ed and Agnes Brenneman.

BIRTHDAY

Pam Poholsky, Murrysville, Pa., helped celebrate her father Lenny Poholsky's birthday, with a visit with Lenny and family over the weekend. Other guests included Ferne Beechy, Chris and Sara Stanton, and Nancy Beachy. David and son Brian are in Colorado trying to bag a big elk.

On Saturday a new mailbox complex was built for Lesa Whittemore and her neighbor, the Poholsky household. It was designed by Sherry Frantz, and labor was by Lloyd Sussman and Sherry's husband Glenn. Sherry, Lesa, and Glenn put the finishing touches on it on Saturday. Lloyd and I dropped in to check it out on Sunday and spent the afternoon on Lesa's porch, gossiping and watching the season start to change. I think fall is pretty much here. Anyway, we watched a big flock of barn swallows gathering in preparation for their annual migration to South America. They seemed to have a lot to talk about, chattering and re-grouping. I guess they were trying to decide who will lead and when it is time.

A minor thunderstorm came out from the west. I believe that the thunderstorm activity here in Garrett County is often related with the hurricanes in the Caribbean. I don't know whether the birds know when to leave, but the whole migrating process is unbelievable. I love to think of my dear barn swallows off to a vacation in South America. What are their lives like there? We also saw a good size flock of Canada geese passing overhead and heading back to the Peat Bog Lake where they have spent the year. Also, a few trees have started to color up.

The Sussman girls and Claire's friend, Kerri McKeever, took a walk in our woods after their soccer game Saturday and they reported they saw a snake. The way they described it, it sounded like a copperhead to me. I panicked and called Kevin Dodge, and he said it was more likely a northern water snake. That was a big relief for me. Our field guide book has been temporarily misplaced and I had to again call on our friend Kevin, since Claire also needs some help in identifying trees for her leaf collection for school. We were lost without our guide to help complete the collection: wildflowers, birds, insects, amphibians, and reptiles.

This year we had quite a few little frogs (gray tree frogs) on our windows. I saw a few in the past, but not this many. I wonder what it means! Is it a bad winter coming up? I read about an alarming decline of the frog population; however, not according to the many ones on our windows. Also we had plenty of toads. Almost every day my girls catch at least one. They love their toads, but since they are hard to keep alive in captivity, we force the girls to set them free.

REUNION

Since 1947, the cousins who were the descendants of the late Flavius Josephus Glotfelty and wife Elizabeth Specher Glotfelty and their children, Orval, Elwood, Kernut, Lucy, Nell, Mary and Myrtle, get together each year at Fort Frederick near Hagerstown for a picnic and reunion. "The Cousin Picnic" was one of the highlights of my summer when I was a child. It was great to see my cousins, aunts, and uncles, and my second cousins from down east. This year those from Bittinger who made the trip were Dale Glotfelty, Jimmy Glotfelty and grandchildren, Ada and Amanda Platter, Ruth DiPaolo, the Rodney Glotfelty family, Carol Bass and family, Harriett and Kea Buckel, and Caitlin and Meredith Sussman. Claire had a conflict with a soccer game, and I dislike the long trip in the car these days.

For several years they have gathered old photographs and other interesting family documents, and this year my Aunt Betty Hummel, Olympia, Wash., made copies of them and forwarded them to Ruth Glotfelty, Carlisle, Pa., and she put together three booklets. My booklets were brought home from the picnic. It is a wonderful record, including a family tree and old photographs from early in the century.

Especially nice was an old picture of the original home of the Glotfelty's in this area, pictures of very old grave stones, pictures of the World War I soldiers, and letters from my grandfather Orval and his brother Rob, who was killed in France during the war. Their letters told how much they missed the farm and Bittinger, and hoped to be home soon. A letter from Orval described his visit to his brother's grave in France. It is extremely moving to read these letters. When I was in school, I always felt a real link to WWI through my Great-Uncle Rob. Even though I did not know many of the original cousins, with the more recent photos I hear their stories and learn more of their lives and families.

Especially touching to me was the photograph of a young beautiful laughing girl, the former Mary Edith Glotfelty, who like me was stricken by a brain aneurysm, which has left her much more serious than I, as she is pretty much bed-ridden and is a patient at Goodwill Nursing Home.

My aunts, Helen and Betty, when they are in Garrett County, make their first priority a visit to Mary.

There are a lot of wedding pictures and a good picture of my generation of cousins at one of the early 1950s picnics. My daughters do the same thing that we used to do at the picnic: hike on the paths in the State Park, visit the stone fort dating back to the French and Indian War, play softball games, and play on the playground equipment, especially the brown horse swings, the see saws, etc. They get to know their distant cousins.

We were always especially close to our cousins on the Eastern Shore, the Walsh family. One of the Walsh family, Sue, and her friend and her two kids, Brittany and Paxton, spent the weekend with the Rodney Glotfelty family and attended the picnic with them.

This is about all the news from Bittinger. We do not listen to all the scandal in Washington. I feel these things are personal problems. Is every tiny dirty detail news? I think not. No further comment, other than one's personal life is no one's business to anyone but the persons concerned.

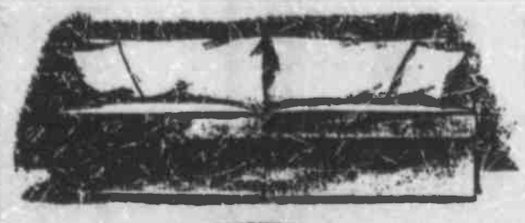
PERIODONTAL DISEASE LINKED TO HEART DISEASE

Several recent studies have shown a strong relationship between periodontal disease and cardiovascular disease.

Periodontal disease is a chronic infection of the supporting tissues of the tooth. This chronic infection of the tooth root, ligament attachment, and bone has been shown to cause the same response as other chronic infections with systemic inflammation.



Reports have varied, placing the increased risk of coronary heart disease associated with periodontitis from 20% to 180%.

Regular visits to your dentist and proper home care are the key to preventing penodontal disease.

Forest Landowner Workshop Set At 4-H Center

Absentee and resident forest landowners in western Maryland can find answers to forest stewardship questions at a full-day forest landowner workshop at the Western Maryland 4-H Center near Bittinger on Saturday, Oct. 17. Sponsored by Maryland Cooperative Extension with financial assistance from Wood Products Inc., and in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Forest Service and Wildlife Division, this educational workshop will address many forest landowner concerns through a half-day classroom session and a half-day field session.

Registration for the workshop will start at 8:30 a.m. at the 4-H center located about 10 miles south of Grantsville along Bittinger Road. The morning session will start with a session on landowner liability for accidents, trespassing, and other issues. This will be followed by presentations on getting started in forestry and options for reducing property taxes; using forest stewardship practices to improve wildlife habitat; managing for quality hardwoods in emerging and changing markets; and understanding a timber sale.

The afternoon session will take place at a nearby private forest property. Participants will learn how to work with a private consultant forester and experience forest stewardship practices such as hardwood and pine thinning, regeneration harvesting, forest buffers and best management practices, estimating future value of trees, and more. This session is intended to be hands-on and practical.

Mail-in registration is due by Oct. 12 at $10 per person or $16 per couple and includes lunch and reference materials. Checks may be made payable to Garrett County FAC and mailed to: Forest Landowner Workshop, Garrett County Cooperative Extension, 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite A, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550. For a copy of the program brochure or more information, persons may call the Garrett County Cooperative Extension office 301-334-6960, ext. 1.

Funds Allocated For Low-Income Family Needs

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development has announced its draft plan for the distribution of approximately $6.7 million in federal funds under the Community Services Block Grant (CSBG) Program for fiscal year 1999. The funds, originally authorized under the Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981, will be distributed to local agencies to finance numerous programs for people with low incomes.

About 95 percent of the CSBG money will be distributed to local community action agencies and other limited purpose agencies throughout Maryland. Funds allocated for Garrett County will be handled by the Garrett County Community Action Committee.

Originally part of the nation's "war on poverty," the community action agencies have used federal funds since 1964 to develop programs designed to ease the causes of poverty in local areas. In Maryland, community programs have included Head Start educational centers for pre-school children; health, employment, housing and weatherization programs for adults; and other special programs for young and elderly residents.

Persons who wish to comment on the plan should write to: Ronald Waters, Deputy Secretary, Division of Neighborhood Revitalization, Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, MD 21032.

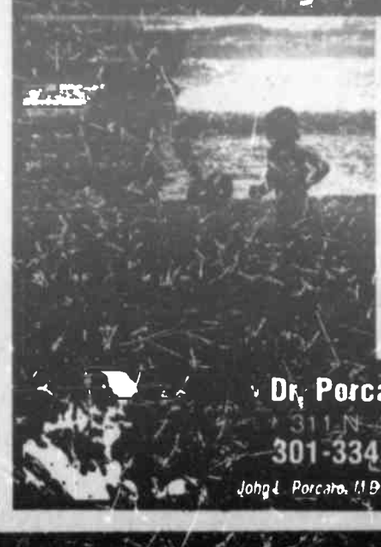
Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville

Because of continuing low blood collections, the American Red Cross Blood Services serving the local area has issued a critical appeal to the public to give blood and has scheduled a bloodmobile at the Grantsville fire hall for Monday, Sept. 28, from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m.

"The calendar may say it's not summer anymore, but our blood collections have not yet rebounded from summertime lows. We ended August with more than 500 fewer blood donations than expected, and are already more than 600 units behind in collections in September," explained David C. Mair, chief medical officer, Johnstown Region, Red Cross Blood Services.

"Currently, inventory levels match the lowest levels we've experienced this summer. We have less than a two-day's supply of type O, A, and B blood, with just a one day's supply in types O negative, A negative and B negative. We should maintain at least a three day's supply of all blood types to be well prepared to respond to any and all patient emergencies," Dr. Mair stated. "Low blood supplies impact our ability to meet all hospital requests."



To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Normally individuals can give blood every 56 days. Individuals with specific eligibility questions should contact the Red Cross at 1 800 542-5663.

The regional Red Cross must collect at least 750-800 units of blood a day to meet patient need.

Local residents and patients are among those served through Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region. The Johnstown Region directly serves hospitals, patients and donors in a 66-county area in Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia, and also supports blood needs experienced by patients elsewhere in hospitals served through Red Cross Blood Services.

As youngsters we learn to say many three to five letter words that we will use all of our lives...work, love, hope, child, pain, joy, life, and death. Though simple to spell and easy to say, these are the words that will take a lifetime to learn the true meaning...the meaning that we cannot look up in the dictionary. We must live them. We must experience them many times to truly grasp the importance of each one.

Walt Whitman said in Song of the Open Road. "Wisdom is not finally tested in the schools...wisdom is of the soul, is not susceptible of proof, is its own proof."

Each day we live, we must use the words of the soul, the Bible, to help us as we try to understand the true meaning of our life. Worship in your local church or synagogue, where you will find teachers who will further help you find the answers. Begin this week. Learning takes a lifetime.

TWELVE STONES
September 27, 1998

Background Scripture:
Joshua 4:1-3, 8, 10,11, 20-24
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 78:1-8

In my youth, it seemed to me that the church I attended spent an inordinate amount of time in the past. As a congregation, I thought we were constantly remembering a lot of things that had happened a long time ago. I wasn't against memorials and remembrances per se, but I was living in the here and now and wanted help with the present.

In those days I was rather disdainful of anything old: architecture, art, music, habits, customs, and so forth. I rather imagine that my attitude then was not unique and my complaint has been raised by countless others. In reflection, I believe that I was wrong in thinking that we dwelt too much in the past. If my church erred, it was not in memorializing the past, but in failing to help its youth understand the value of the past for the present and future.

My dictionary gives three definitions for the word "memorial" and the first, "something designed to preserve the memory of a person or event," is the one most applicable in Joshua 4:7. God intends for the twelve stones from the Jordan River to be a "sign" to preserve the memory of that great event when the people of Israel were enabled by God to cross the Jordan River, an event that should not be forgotten. So, "... when your children ask in time to come, 'What do these stones mean to you?' Then you shall tell them that the waters of the Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the Lord..." (4:6,7).

A PRESENT POWER

The purpose of remembering, however, is not just to celebrate the past, but to rekindle its power for the present the faith the past inspired. Dr. David McClelland of the Harvard Medical School found that, in his own experience, he could abort colds by thinking about two things: past moments when he felt deeply loved and cared for by someone else, and a time when he loved another person. The remembrance of past love received and given was able to mobilize his immune system to fight off the threatening cold. He was also able to successfully teach this technique to his students.

In a similar manner, the remembrance of a past encounter with God can empower us for meeting current and future challenges. So, nothing is a true memorial that points only to the past. Remembering some great event of time gone by, we must be inspired for the present and fit for the future. A memorial keeps our present and future in touch with the past.

THE POWER OF REMEMBERING

The Jews celebrate Passover as a memorial, not simply to remember the past, but to tap its power for the challenges of today. We celebrate the Last Supper for the same reason and the power of this memorial for us is to be found, not alone in that night when Jesus shared this Passover meal with his disciples, but that he is present in our lives now. A memorial window or pew in our churches celebrates not only a person of the past, but the faith of that person that is still an inspiration for us today.

The twelve stones set up by Joshua and his followers were still visible in the day when this book was written. He tells us: "...and they are there to this day" (4:9). Sometime between the time of Joshua and Jesus, they disappeared. We do not know what happened to them, but, because the Book of Joshua speaks of them, they continue as a memorial to another of God's saving acts in the history of his people.

It is important for us to remember what God has done so that we may continue to look to see what he is doing now and live in the faith that he will continue to act redemptively in the future. That is what these twelve stones and all memorials remind us.

AGF To Host State Banjo Contest, Beaver Creek Band

The official Maryland State Banjo Championship and concerts by the Beaver Creek Band will be held Friday, Oct. 9, in the Southern High School gymnasium, just outside Oakland. Entertainment will begin at 7 p.m. with a concert and will be followed by the Banjo Championship at 8 p.m. and another concert immediately after the contest. The championship features competitions between top banjo players from a five-state area, and trophies and prize money will be awarded to the top four contestants, with a special award for the best "old-time" banjo player and special awards for youth contestants.

The Beaver Creek Band started entertaining audiences in 1980 with a style planted firmly in traditional bluegrass, but with a strong sense of establishing its own sound. The group has developed a reputation as the premier bluegrass band in Western Pennsylvania, with a repertoire that covers bluegrass, gospel, original songs, country ballads, and a large variety of dance tunes. The band includes Mary Kissel and Randy Ord on guitar, lead and harmony vocals, Richard Ord on bass and harmony vocals; Don Shean on banjo, fiddle, guitar, lead and harmony vocals; and Scott Pearson on mandolin, fiddle, and guitar. The band has several recordings, including its most recent project "Having a Wonderful Time," and performs at numerous festivals and events primarily in the eastern United States.

The Banjo Championship is sponsored by American Trust Bank. Refreshments will be available and doors open at 6:15 p.m. Admission is $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12, and tickets are available at the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce office, the Route 219 Information Booth at Deep Creek Lake, and at the door. Gospel Music Concert Set At Fairview Brethren

The Jubilators Gospel Quartet will perform a free concert of southern gospel music at the Fairview Church of the Brethren on Sunday, Oct. 4, beginning at 7 p.m.

The Jubilators are based out of Cumberland, and baritone Delford Crowe is a resident of Grantsville. The quartet began singing over three decades ago. Members say they feel called to spread the gospel in song, and the group fills halls at churches, civic organization meetings, and fairs during approximately 100 appearances a year. The wives of the quartet's members travel with them as much as possible, as they annually tour 10,000 miles or more.

The Fairview Church of the Brethren is located east of Red House on Table Rock Road at George Washington Highway. For further information interested persons may call pastor David C. Moon at 301-334-4297.

Red Mass Set At St. Peter's Catholic Church

A traditional "Red Mass," marking the opening of the fall judicial session, is slated for Wednesday, Oct. 7, at noon at St. Peter the Apostle Roman Catholic Church in Oakland. The public is invited to attend.

St. Peter's pastor, Rev. F. Richard Spencer, will preside at the Red Mass, and Rev. William "Chip" Lee, vicar of St. Matthew's and St. John's Episcopal churches, will be the homilist.

"The Red Mass is an old Christian custom that has come down to us through the centuries, as part of the English legal legacy, for jurists and the Bar to gather before the altar of God at Holy Mass to ask for the light and the strength which only God's love can give them to fulfill their high public responsibility," said Spencer.

"This high public responsibility manifests itself in the jurists' and the lawyers' role in forming and enforcing the structure required for the continuation of organized civilization and the resolution of disputes without violence," he added.

St. Peter's is located at 208 South Fourth Street in Oakland. For further information interested persons may call 301-334-2202.

Women's Hall Of Fame Open To New Members

The Maryland Commission for Women and the Women Legislators of Maryland are seeking recommendations of outstanding Maryland women from the state for induction into the Maryland Women's Hall of Fame.

Established in 1985 by the Maryland Commission for Women and the Women Legislators of Maryland, the purpose of the Hall of Fame honors Maryland women who have made unique and lasting contributions to the economic, political, cultural, and social life of the state, and who can serve as role models for tomorrow's female leaders.

Organizations and individuals are invited to nominate women for this honor. An independent committee representing a cross section of citizens will review the nominations and make the final recommendations, who will then be honored by the governor at a special ceremony in March 1999. Up to five historical and contemporary women are inducted annually. Among those honored are legislators, political and social activists, scientists, educators, writers, and spiritual and community leaders. They represent women who have shaped Maryland, the United States, and the world. Their induction to the Maryland Hall of Fame enhances the visibility of their contribution to their work, communities, and to the status of women, according to a commission spokesperson.

Women nominated for the Hall of Fame must have made a contribution that extends beyond the community level. The contribution may be in a particular discipline or to the people of the state of Maryland in general. In addition, nominees must be native-born Marylanders, have resided in the state a significant time, or are currently living in the state. If deceased, nominees must be native-born Marylanders or have lived a significant portion of their lives in the state.

Current members of the Maryland General Assembly and the Maryland Commission for Women are ineligible for nomination.

The Maryland Commission for Women must receive all nominations by October 19. Persons may call the commission office at 410.767.7137 for nomination forms and for more information.

State Parks To Be Focus Of Special Week

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), State Forest and Park Service will be celebrating its third annual Maryland State Parks Week from Saturday, Oct. 3, through Sunday, Oct. 11. "Maryland State Parks — A Healthy Habit" is the theme for this week of recognition of what state parks have to offer the citizens of Maryland. There is a state park or forest within a 40-minute drive of any location in Maryland, and these public facilities offer diverse natural and historic sites and healthy recreation opportunities to all ages.

A "Healthy Habit Challenge" contest is available at each state park and forest, with prizes on the local level and in a statewide drawing. The challenge involves completing a simple survey, a crossword puzzle, and the entry form. Completed challenge forms may be mailed to Annapolis headquarters or delivered to any state park office for eligible entry in both the local and statewide drawings. All entries must be received by Oct. 3.

Prizes vary at each park, and drawings will occur at various times over the course of the weekend of Oct 3. Local prizes may include: weekend camping packages, canoe or boat rental, park admission, raft trips, or a mountain bike. Statewide prizes include a basket of gifts for the Healthy Habit park visitor, filled with a 1999 summer fun pass, a two-night stay in a cabin at Herriugton Manor State Park, a guided canoe trip in southern Maryland, dinner for four at the Elk Ridge Furnace Inn, and a $100 gift certificate from Holabird's sporting goods store in Baltimore.

Maryland State Parks Week is also a time to recognize the valuable contribution park volunteers make to DNR. Volunteerism is increasingly important in keeping state parks open, clean, and safe and to enhance what the park staff provides. Volunteers staff special events, provide information, work to keep trails clean and maintained, renovate walkways and paths, and provide support on large team projects.

Maryland State Forest and Park Service offers something for everyone, whether one is interested in volunteering, being an active outdoors person, a spectator, or just seeking the beauty and serenity of natural areas.

COVER STORY

To Have & to Hold vows to be romantic ever after

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Jason Baghe

There has been an explosion of shows about big Irish-American families on TV this fall, but To Have & to Hold is surely the most romantic.

Debuting Wednesday, Sept. 30, on CBS, Have stars Jason Beghe and Moira Kelly as a couple about to begin the rest of their lives together in the most romantic way: by getting married.

"It seems like, on television, if you're married, sex stops, romance stops," executive producer Scott Shepherd observes. "And what we're trying to say is that, basically, marriage is a very romantic thing."

In the pilot episode, public defender Annie Cornell (Kelly) is putting the last touches on her plans to marry Boston police detective Sean McGrail (Beghe), whom she has known since childhood. In fact, Annie's older sister, Carolyn (Colleen Flynn), already is married to Patrick McGrail (Stephen Lee), one of Sean's brothers.

Since the couple will remain in the neighborhood where they grew up, their romance has a communal side as well as a private one. They know everyone on their block, and everyone knows them.

The driving force behind Have is writer Joanne Waters, a daughter of the Irish working-class neighborhood where the show is set.

"I only write about what I know about," Waters says. "I'm not going to write about a farm family in Iowa."

After writing The Doyles, a family drama that almost made it onto CBS' schedule last season, Waters hit pay dirt when she reworked the concept to focus on romance.

"It's not the type of show where (you wonder,) 'Are they going to get married, or are they not going to get married?' It's sort of how two people join together and try to get to the same goal.

"And then we have the couple who has children and who are dealing with all those kind of issues," Waters says.

In the tradition of "women's movies" of decades gone by, Have promises never to turn into a cop show. It isn't about an exclusively Irish experience, either, Shepherd explains.

"We see it as a relationship show about a marriage and this couple and their family. The themes that go through it should be universal.

"We try to start with something that's going on between the two of them in their relationship," he continues. "And then we try to find the cop-and-lawyer story that will give us the playground, basically, to explore those themes. (Sean and Annie will) talk about the case, which is a way for them to work out what's going on between them."

Sean and Annie's relationship is definitely a passionate one, both when they're enjoying marital bliss and when they're butting heads in disagreement. It all seems completely natural to Waters, who grew up in a community where even the girls were involved in fistfights.

In the end, though, love will conquer all. Romance, as Shepherd defines it, is "what couples do for each other when they love each other. And that's what we're trying to (show) every week."

TV-PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: Matt Frewer of Psi Factor: Chronicles of the Paranormal looks so familiar. Where have I seen him before? –Gayle Morris via e-mail.

A: Most people know Frewer from two major TV roles: Max Headroom in the ABC cult fantasy of that name, and wacky Dr. Mike Stratford in the hilarious CBS sitcom Doctor, Doctor. In the TV adaptation of Stephen King's The Stand, Frewer played the demented Trashcan Man.

Q: What else has Heather Medway of Viper done? She looks like a model. –J. Comp, Manchester, N.H.

A: Your instincts are right on target. Medway was a Star Search spokesmodel back in 1989 and had her first series role as Stephanie on Fox's Models Inc.

Her movie credits include Vibrations, Serpent's Lair and The Fear.

Q: With The Avengers in movie theaters, is there any chance of seeing the old series with Diana Rigg again on TV? –Diana Aycock, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A: Not likely. The Avengers movie was one of the summer's biggest bombs.

The good news is A&E Home Video recently released several of the TV episodes starring Rigg and Patrick Macnee on videocassette.

Q: My mother and I are having an argument. I say that James L. Brooks is/was the executive producer of The Simpsons, Rhoda and The Mary Tyler Moore Show. She says I am confusing him with his brother. Who is right? –French Wildcat, Muskogee, Okla.

Matt Frewer

A: You are correct. Brooks, 58, is one of the most gifted artists in Hollywood. He won Emmys as an executive producer of both The Simpsons and The Mary Tyler Moore Show, and held the same position on two other award-winning TV sitcoms, Rhoda and Taxi (three more Emmys), as well as the critically acclaimed Lou Grant.

Brooks won a triple Oscar for writing, producing and directing Terms of Endearment, and was nominated for his work on Broadcast News, Jerry Maguire and As Good As It Gets.

Q: Regarding a recent husband and wife argument about whether Tallulah Bankhead or Bette Davis had done that famous episode of The Lucy-Desi Comedy Hour: According to The I Love Lucy Book by Bert Andrews, Davis originally signed to do the episode but hurt her back. Bankhead was hired to replace her. –Fred Causey via e-mail.

A: Very interesting! Thanks for writing, Fred.

Four Awarded Westvaco Scholarships

ANDREA BARRICK

HOLLY WILSON

ALBERT FLEMING

ERICA JOHNSON

Four students have been awarded the Westvaco scholarship to attend Garrett Community College this year, according to Bretta Reinhard, advancement officer for the GCC Foundation.

Andrea Barrick, daughter of Howard and Karen Barrick, Keyser, W.Va., and a 1997 graduate of Keyser High School, is enrolled in the Social and Behavioral Sciences program and plans to become a social worker. In high school she was captain of the volleyball team and a member of the basketball team. She was also a member of the Hi-Y, Science Club, National Honor Society, and Mu Alpha Theta.

Holly Wilson, daughter of David and Mary Louise Wilson, Swanton, is enrolled in the Math Sciences transfer program at GCC. A 1997 graduate of Southern High School, she plans a career in the allied health profession as a massage therapist. In high school she was a member of the Honor and All-County Chorus, a junior advisor in FFA, co-manager of the greenhouse, and a member of the ecology class that developed the SHS wetlands. She has participated in musicals and plays at the United Methodist Church, in church child care, and has been a junior advisor and treasurer of the youth group. She was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for four years and was selected to participate in the Western Maryland Health Careers Opportunity Program at Frostburg State University.

Albert Fleming, son of Albert and Linda Fleming, Swanton, and 1997 graduate of Southern High School, is majoring in business administration and plans to open his own sports shop for hunting, fishing, and camping equipment, pursuing his hobby of fly-fishing and fly-tying. In high school he was a member of the fly-tying club in 10th and 11th grades and helped co-instruct the course in his senior year. He was named top youth entrepreneur in the state of Maryland in 1996 and '97 for the art of fly-tying.

Erica Johnson, daughter of Harriet and Ken Johnson, Kitzmiller, is enrolled in the Allied Health program at GCC, with plans to become a radiologist. She is a graduate of Southern High School, where she was a member of the softball team for four years. Each year she volunteers to help the Kitzmiller Lions Club raise money at the Garrett County Agricultural Fair. Her hobby is collecting frogs.

CASINO NIGHT BENEFITS PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES - The Maryland Association of Community Services (MACS) and Maryland Developmental Disabilities Administration kicked off their annual statewide conference last week with a special Casino Night at the Wisp Resort. As over 150 management staffers from non-profit organizations from throughout the state placed their "wagers," the event raised proceeds for the MACS Consumer and Direct Support Staff Scholarship Fund, which helps people with disabilities and staff members in the field to further their education. Throughout the evening, actors from Garrett County's own Our Town Theatre mingled with the guests, portraying such Las Vegas-style characters as Elvis, a down-and-out gambler, a lounge singer, an assortment of showgirls, and a talent agent scouting for the next Wayne Newton. Shown above, OTT's Judy Finkel, left, places her "bet" at the roulette wheel. The rest of the three-day conference was devoted to a wide range of topics, concentrating on improving business procedures in order to enhance services to people with disabilities and their families.

Jobless Rates Continue To Fall In July

For the fifth consecutive month, the number of employed Marylanders grew, causing the state's unemployment rate to drop from 4.8 percent in June to 4.6 percent in July. The number of people holding jobs rose during July as employers continued to hire workers to fill temporary summer positions. July's employment increase helped to lower the unemployment rate, and was strong enough to accommodate the continuing influx of job seekers into the labor market.

Meanwhile, Garrett County's jobless rate dropped just over one percentage point, from 9.7 percent in June to 8.6 percent in July. The July 1997 rate was 12.4 percent.

"This is good and timely news as we have just observed the Labor Day holiday, which positively reflects the strength of our economy," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "Not only has employment in Maryland continued increasing over the past several months, but the unemployment rate is lower than a year ago and lower than the national unemployment rate. The unemployment rate in several localities is significantly lower than the statewide average."

Nationally, the unemployment rate remained unchanged over the month, holding at 4.7 percent. Locally, 14 jurisdictions reported unemployment rates below the statewide average, with the lowest levels reported at 2.2 percent in Montgomery County, 2.6 percent in Howard and Frederick counties, 2.9 percent in Talbot County, and 3.3 percent in Charles County.

Nearly 36,800 Marylanders found jobs in July, pushing the monthly employment level above the 2.7 million mark. Driven by this gain, the number of unemployed people fell by just over 4,800 people to 131,047. This decline contributed to the unemployment rate reaching its lowest level for the month of July since 1990.

During July, seasonal hiring raised employment in construction, amusements, business services, and membership organizations.

SS Registration Can Be Verified Via The Internet

For the first time, the Internet can be used to find out if a man is registered with the Selective Service System (SSS). "This will make registration verification easier for men in millions of computer households," said Gil Coronado, director of the Selective Service System in Arlington, Va., the government agency responsible for conducting a draft in a national emergency. "It will also make it easy for officials dispensing federal and state benefits or privileges linked to registration to check and see if a young man is registered before he is deemed eligible for the benefit," Coronado said, noting that the Selective Service System celebrates its 58th anniversary during September. The agency was formally created on Sept. 16, 1940.

There are many federal and state benefits linked to the registration requirement. These include federal student assistance (Pell grants and college loans), job training under the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA), and eligibility for jobs in the Executive Branch of government, including jobs with the U.S. Postal Service. Eligibility for citizenship may also be affected if a young man were required to register, but failed to do so. Additionally, half of all the states have legislation supporting Selective Service. Several states deny enrollment in state colleges and universities to young men who are required to register, but have not done so. Many states refuse state employment to those young men not registered with Selective Service.

Anyone using a computer connected to the Internet can go to the Selective Service web site at http://www.sss.gov, and will find a link to "Check a Registration." By entering a man's last name, social security number, and date of birth, the SSS computer will research the data base and display on the screen the man's Selective Service number and effective date of registration.

"This new verification service will be enormously helpful to men who must provide their Selective Service numbers to obtain student loans or federal jobs," noted Coronado.

Young men must register within 30 days of turning 18 in accordance with federal law. More than 38 million men have registered since 1980; however, none has been drafted. The last draft ended in 1973. By having the names and addresses of men ages 18 through 25 on file in the Selective Service System data base, "America remains ready to face any future threat," Coronado said.

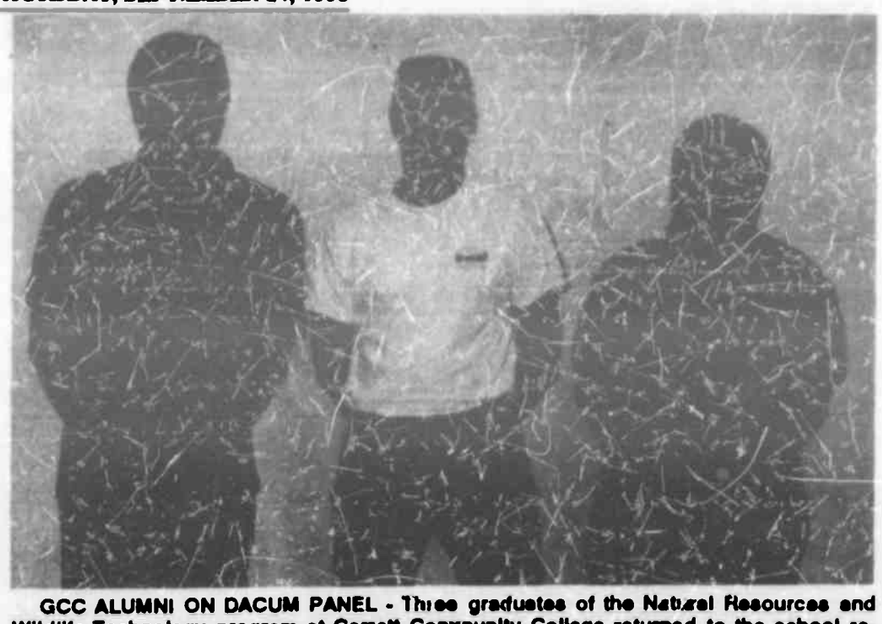
Three Graduates Of GCC's Wildlife Management Participate In DACUM

A one-day "DACUM" (developing a curriculum) was held recently at Garrett Community College to update the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology program. The purpose of the DACUM was to assure that the academic program is providing the education and skills needed for employment in the 21st century.

A panel of six persons currently working in environmental areas convened with program director Kevin Dodge and facilitator Tom Kierstead to review the skills and knowledge required in their jobs. Three of these persons were GCC graduates in the wildlife management program, who are now pursuing careers that began with their community college experience.



Matt Radcliffe, who came to GCC from Westminster in 1982, graduated with an A.A. in wildlife management, then transferred to Frostburg State University, where he received a B.S. and later an M.S. in wildlife management. He worked as a contractual biologist for the Wildlife Division of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Since 1989 he has been employed as an environmental specialist for non-tidal wetlands. He now lives in Frostburg.

Albert McCullough, originally from Ellicott City, attended GCC from 1976 to 1978, graduating with an A.A. in wildlife management. He began working as a volunteer with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department and continued his education at the University of Maryland College Park and Johns Hopkins University, where he earned a B.S. in civil engineering with a concentration in water resources. He was employed with Herbston Associates before moving to Hawaii in 1994, where he worked in utility management. Since 1996 he has been employed with Environmental Concern Inc. in St. Michaels, where his career focuses on the wetlands.

Joe Pfeiffer, a 1986 graduate of GCC, began his career with Gascoyne Laboratories in the field sampling department. Following his two years at GCC, he attended Towson State University, where he earned a B.S. in natural science and an M.S. in physical geography and environmental planning. Employed by KCI Technologies Inc. since 1988, he has been involved in wetland delineation and environmental support, mitigation design, and environmental restoration. He was recently promoted and has taken a position in environmental restoration at KCI facility in Raleigh, N.C.

All three men now credit the GCC programs with giving them the skills and knowledge they needed to transfer and earn advanced degrees and begin their careers in environmental conservation.

GCC ALUMNI ON DACUM PANEL - Three graduates of the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology program at Garrett Community College returned to the school recently to participate in a "DACUM" (Developing A Curriculum) process. Shown above, from the left, are Albert McCullough, Joe Pfeiffer, and Matt Radcliffe, each of whom is currently employed in the environmental management and preservation field. The three men participated in a DACUM panel that reviewed the skills and knowledge their jobs require, as GCC faculty continue to assure that their academic program prepares students for employment.

Infatuation

The die is cast
As I fling myself headlong
Into the velvet pillow of Infatuation,
Where truth and fantasy converge.
Preserving the good,
Rationalizing the bad,
Spinning the coveted myth with
Specifics supplied by the imagination.
But how must it end —
When rationale no longer
Hides the pain of disillusion, and fantasy impales itself
Upon the barbs of truth,
And the wonder is gone.

Q. I have a sterling silver "pitcher." There is a cork in the lid and a strainer in the spout. My friends say it is a cocktail shaker. How was it used?

A. Your shaker held the ingredients for a cocktail – liquor, mixer and ice. You would put the ingredients in the shaker, then cork it and shake the mixture vigorously. The drink then would be poured through the strainer spout.

The earliest printed reference to a mixed drink cocktail in the United States appeared in 1806. Martinis were invented in 1860. James Bond, you might recall, preferred his martinis shaken, not stirred.

Most cocktail shakers seen today date from the 1920s and '30s. The cocktail was so popular in those years, the shaker has become one of the symbols of art deco design.

Drinks that call for a cocktail shaker have enjoyed renewed popularity in recent years. You can buy new cocktail shakers at home-furnishing stores.

Q. My grandmother left me an oak dresser that dates from around 1916. She told me my grandfather ordered it from a company in Michigan and put it together himself. I never liked it much. It's plain and heavy. There are no marks or labels on it, but I think it looks like the furniture Gustav Stickley made.

A. The furniture business was booming in Michigan at the time your dresser was made. Manufacturers were making mission-style oak furniture, rectilinear pieces like those designed by Stickley.

Shoppers who lived in rural areas could order disassembled furniture by mail.

The Brooks Manufacturing Co. of Saginaw, Mich., sold mission-style furniture by mail, advertising that pieces could be assembled with just a screwdriver. Your dresser might have been made by Brooks. Even unmarked pieces of mission furniture are rising in price.

Home Tips

BEAUTY TIPS – You can use old (or regular) tubes of lip balm to rub around your cuticles. It really works! I had so many old ones that I keep one on my nightstand and use it regularly. There's no oily mess.

Hair creme rinses are good for shaving legs and underarms. Again, I had so many little samples, odds and ends, I decided to give it a try. It works well and leaves legs smooth, too! Mary A., Hopewell Junction, N.Y.

LIPSTICK SAVER – I was going through my makeup case one night and, to my surprise, I pulled out 19 tubes of lipstick. I was horrified, as not one of those colors suited my mood or the outfit I had on.

I went to a department store and bought one of those cheap pill cases with eight compartments in it and a lip brush with retractable bristles. I sorted the lipsticks by color, then cut off the tops and smashed them into separate compartments of the pill box.

Using the retractable lip brush, I can now mix and match the right color to wear and I never wear just one color at a time. The best part is, I've only bought one tube of lipstick in over six years. Carrie T., Morgansville, N.J.

HARRY HOUDINI: MORE THAN SLEIGHT OF HAND

The world had never seen anyone like Harry Houdini. He was locked in prisons, buried alive, dragged by a motorcycle. He jumped handcuffed off bridges – yet he freed himself every time. Others have been killed trying to duplicate his feats. Houdini himself was occasionally mangled, bloodied, even broken (especially wrists and ankles). His foot was nearly amputated; his arms, nearly paralyzed in another near miss.

As described in October's Biography magazine, Houdini made his assistants sign loyalty oaths. He claimed nobody knew the complete solution to any one stunt, and took his best secrets to the grave. While answers to some tricks are known and some tools for opening locks survived, nobody knows for sure where he hid them during performances. Ridiculous rumors claim he stored keys under a dental plate or inside a "skin pocket" in his knee.

Born Ehrich Weiss in 1874, he immigrated to America with his family in 1878. At 19, influenced by Eugene Robert-Houdin, the founder of modern magic, he Anglicized his first name, changed his last name to Houdini and performed at Chicago's World Columbian Exposition, teaming up with a friend. When Houdini married, his wife Bess became his assistant.

The Houdinis barely eked out a living. Their big break came when theater tycoon Martin Beck offered him a job performing daring escapes in theaters across the country. He eventually left Beck, becoming an international star on his own.

When not on the road, he and Bess shared a Connecticut farm and Manhattan brownstone. The couple never had children. Some speculate Houdini had no desire to compete with his wife's unflagging attention.

In 1926, a college student challenged Houdini's assertion that he could resist any blow to the abdomen. The student began punching before Houdini could brace himself and ruptured Houdini's appendix. He died on Halloween.

School-To-Career Academy Prepares Students For Real World Of Work

SCHOOL-TO-CAREER ACADEMY UNDER WAY - Student participants and their parents attended an orientation program recently to learn the benefits and expectations associated with this fall's Garrett County School-To-Career Academy, which is currently under way. The students, sponsored by different employers according to their career paths, are receiving training in customer service and on-the-job experience as part of their school day. Shown above, from left in the front row, are Belinda Mayle, Yvonna and Erika Kahl, Shawnda Mayta, Kanya and Kria Knox, and Karri Brantner. In the back row are Randy Mayle, marine technology instructor Joida Sherwood of Quality Marina, and Matthew Kauffman and Troy Buckal, two of the students who are training in marine engine repair under Sherwood's guidance.

The Garrett County School-To-Career Academy program is under way for the second year, as students from Northern and Southern high schools have once again been placed with local employers on a part-time basis in positions that match their current career paths. The program is designed to give students active work experiences before leaving school and a real world test of their career choices, and students earn grades and credit while training on the job during part of their normal school day.

One of the offerings this fall is a new training program in marine technology designed to increase student awareness of the marine industry and to improve technical skills in the repair of outboard and inboard motors. Joida Sherwood of Quality Marine in McHenry is serving as the marine technology instructor.

One of the student participants at another of the Academy's worksites is Erika Kahl, who is learning the kitchen skills at Will O' the Wisp that a chef must have to succeed. "I'm really excited to have this opportunity," Kahl said, "the chance to try something I've always wanted to do." Last year's Will O' the Wisp-sponsored trainee, Steve Shifflet, is now successfully enrolled in culinary school.

During the Academy's recent orientation session, the group of students and parents were addressed by Jo Ann Vent, supervisor of Career and Technology Education with the board of education, program instructor Sandi Flockhart, school resource person Kent Huber, marine technology instructor Sherwood, and Academy program coordinator Sandy Major, who is also a counselor with the Small Business Administration at Garrett Community College. "Work experience puts the students a step ahead and helps make learning relevant. It lets the students know in an immediate way why they need to know math and how to speak correct English," said Vent.

Flockhart's remarks emphasized customer service. "Customers count," she told the students. "Every business situation has a customer, whether it is your immediate supervisor in the marine repair shop or the retail buyer standing at your counter." The program involves vigorous training in the area of people skills, communication, work attitude, and manners. Areas that will be covered this semester include the business of doing business, work readiness skills, business communication skills, and customer service.

Flockhart was also very enthusiastic about the potential of each of her students and the benefits of the program. "We're going to work hard," she said, "and we're going to grow into the hero each of us is meant to be."

Sherwood explained the marine technology training program, which is designed to be basic but thorough. The students will tear down engines and receive hands-on mechanical repair experience. After completing this program the students will have the equivalent of the first level of training required of marine engine repair mechanics schooled for the job. "There is a market here in Garrett County for marine mechanics," Sherwood said. "It's a big opportunity for these young people, and also a big responsibility."

Since 1994, when Congress passed the School-To-Work Opportunities Act, over 1,000 localities across the U.S. have created partnerships between schools and employers, employees, parents, and other interested groups. Each program is committed to the same goal of preparing young people for successful careers in a fastly changing global economy. In Garrett County the program is funded by a grant from the state of Maryland to Partners in Valuable Ongoing Training (PIVOT) and is administered in partnership with the Board of Education and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

"The grant was written to get this type of training started in Garrett County," said Major, who also serves as grant administrator for the program. "Our emphasis is to start small and grow into an educational initiative sustainable at the local community level. Our purpose is to help students gain skills in the workplace before they graduate."

In addition to providing employers with eager, energetic, potential employees, the School-To-Career Academy has other benefits for businesses in the area. Employers who sponsor these young people are eligible to send their managers or supervisors to GCC for free training in areas that include developing a job description, interviewing techniques, communication, employee evaluations, and problem solving.

The Career and Technology Education office at the board of education is the source of information for the School-To-Careers Academy. Employers interested in sponsoring a high school senior or receiving training and sponsoring a young person in the future are asked to contact Vent or Huber at 301-334-8900.

Grant Awarded To GCC For Computer Classroom Equip.

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) recently awarded a $58,400 grant to assist Garrett Community College with the purchase of a 21-station computer classroom. The classroom will primarily serve continuing education students seeking to improve their job prospects by acquiring or upgrading marketable computer skills. GCC students will also use the classroom to receive training in the application of Information and Computer Technology.

"Along with the educational benefits of this program, the use of Information and Computer Technology will enable the region's businesses to remain competitive and will help attract new businesses to Garrett County," said Ronald M. Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning.

Information and Computer Technology training will enable the area workforce to expand their skills in an application that has been identified as the single largest need of businesses. GCC has identified several businesses in the area that are interested in employing trainees.

The ARC program in Maryland is directed through the office of Governor Parris N. Glendening and is coordinated by the Maryland Office of Planning.

National Homemakers' Week was celebrated Sept. 13-19 by members displaying blue and gold ribbons on their mailboxes. The club is selling tickets for the car to be given away at the Buckwheat Festival, and members will be in the festival booth on Sept. 26. A trip to Grove City, Pa., outlets on Oct. 23 is planned by the county homemakers.

Following the business session, a work meeting was dedicated to the making of folded star covers for cookie tins.

The Aurora Homemakers' traveling Bible is now in possession of Fern Jamison, who is the eldest lady in the Aurora community. A book was purchased by the club to be placed in the Aurora School library in memory of Ernestine Sisler.

Flower bulbs were to be planted the following weekend at Trotter Park by the flower committee members. Members also signed up to serve buckwheat cakes for the Friday 5:45-9 p.m. shift at the Buckwheat Festival. A lamb dressing team was named for that contest. All exhibits for display at the Buckwheat Festival were to be taken to Mrs. Fint by Sept. 22.

TOWN NEWS

The Friendsville Mayor and Town Council remind citizens of the importance of not mowing their lawns onto the streets and sidewalks. The recent downpours are reportedly washing the lawn clippings into the storm drains, causing clogged drains and a potential for flooding.

CHIEF RAINCROW REMEMBERED

Joseph Raincrow Neale died Saturday, Sept. 12, at Sibley Memorial Hospital at the age of 73. He was a retired international exchange director at American University and chief of the Youghiogheny River Band of Shawnee Indians.

Chief Raincrow was principal chief of the Eagle clan, serving as a spiritual leader of a band of several hundred members living in Maryland, West Virginia, and Ohio.

The chief was invited to Friendsville in 1984 when Friendsville celebrated Maryland's 350th birthday by hosting representatives of the tribes of Native Americans whose land is now Maryland. The Shawnee led the parade.

Following the parade, Neale spoke to the large crowd gathered at the Friendsville Elementary School. One elderly man was heard to say, "I've been waiting all my life to see these people and to hear sometning like that."

In 1985, after the Friendsville Day celebration, which included a re-enactment of the trade of "land use for an iron pot" and the opening of the Friend Family Association's National Heritage Museum and Genealogical Library, Jim Ross, great-great-great-grandson of John Friend, gave Chief Raincrow and his people a piece of his farm that overlooks Friendsville.

This land became the ceremonial home of The Youghiogheny Band of Shawnee Indians, who hold five traditional tribal gatherings a year. It was also on this land that a memorial service was held over the weekend, inviting the public to join in paying their last respects.

Ina Hicks, librarian at the Friend Family Museum and Library, commented, "Over the past 14 years, Chief Raincrow became a familiar and admired presence in the community on his many visits. From the children to the elderly, he will be missed and remembered for a long time, just as his nameless ancestors have been remembered by those who live here."

Neale was born in Rush Run, Ohio, and served in the U.S. Navy in the Pacific during World War II. He attended Bethany College and was a graduate of American University, where he also studied toward a doctorate in education. He received a divinity degree from Wesley Theological Seminary.

From 1961 to 1988, he was director of the international student and faculty exchange at AU and also served as dean of men and American Indian counselor.

Chief Raincrow was a founder of the Coalition for Eastern Native Americans, chairman of a state department study commission of foreign students, a member of the board of the National Association of Foreign Students, a consultant to organizations that included universities and the Baltimore American Indian Studies Center, and also a member of the Maryland State Commission on Indian Affairs.

Residing in Bethesda, he was also an ordained Methodist minister, and a consultant and training specialist on American Indian life and history for the Montgomery County Schools.

He was preceded in death by his wife Marian in 1986, and is survived by a son Joseph Crow Neale of Bethesda, and one brother.

Southwestern Fare, History Await The Farm Bureau In Albuquerque

Picturesqua sunsets, historic sites, a diverse culture and plenty of Southwestern cuisine will greet Farm Bureau leaders and members January 10-14, 1999, as the American Farm Bureau Federation will hold its 80th convention and annual meeting in Albuquerque, N.M.

Albuquerque, with a history dating back more than 300 years, offers a blend of old and new. It's a modern city that incorporates the feel and influence of generations past. The American Indian culture's influence on the area can't be missed. And art lovers will feel as though they are in heaven, as Albuquerque and nearby Santa Fe provide a haven for some of the area's most renowned artists.

And members should plan on coming to the annual meeting with a healthy appetite, as Albuquerque restaurants are known to serve up some of the finest Southwestern dishes around.

"Farm Bureau members should be prepared to experience one of the most unique cities in the country," said Rolland Hayenga, AFBF's annual meeting coordinator. "Albuquerque provides a venue that will be educational, entertaining and enjoyable for Farm Bureau members."

Herman Cain, who helped turn a struggling Godfather's Pizza chain into one of the nation's top pizza chains, will head this year's lineup of annual meeting speakers. Cain started working for the Pillsbury Company in 1977 following a stint in the Navy. He quickly rose to vice president of corporate systems and services in just three years, and later led a groups to purchase the Godfather's Pizza subsidiary from Pillsbury.

Cain is chairman of the board for the organization, and he also serves as chief executive officer and president of the National Restaurant Association. Cain also was a member of the Economic Growth and Tax Reform Commission in 1996. The conunission, chaired by former congressman and HUD secretary Jack Kemp, also included AFBF president Dean Kleckner.

"Mr. Cain serves as an inspiration to many people in this country," said Kleckner. "A self-made man, Herman is a man who wasn't afraid to take risks in his career to learn how to become one of the nation's most successful businessmen.

"His record in the business world is impressive. Here's a person who worked his way to the top, and had the fortitude to turn a struggling business into a flourishing and well-known restaurant chain. He understands the value of hard work. And I'm sure Farm Bureau members will appreciate his unique insight."

A member of several corporation boards, Cain also has received honorary doctorate degrees from several colleges and universities across America, including his alma mater, Morehouse College. He received the prestigious Horatio Alger Award in 1996, and was the recipient of the International Foodservice Manufacturers Association's Operator of the Year/Cold Plate Award in 1991.

Farm Bureau members also will be treated to the music of Michael Martin Murphy, considered one of America's greatest cowboy singers. Murphy's heartwarming songs appear on 21 albums and CDs, dating back to 1972. Fans of Top 40 radio will remember his 1970s hit, "Wildfire."

Murphy was recognized by the Academy of Country Music as Best Male Vocalist in 1983.

January's agenda is still being finalized, but this year's tentative slate includes the annual Young Farmer and Rancher contests, set for Sunday, Jan. 10. Some of the top young farmers in the nation will participate in the YF&R Discussion Meet and the final rounds of the YF&R Achievement Awards.

The Farm Bureau Women's Conference, regional caucuses, and luncheon also will be held on Sunday.

Monday and Tuesday's sessions will be highlighted by President Kleckner's annual address, issue and commodity conferences, and the 1999 Farm Bureau Showcase, which will run through Tuesday afternoon. The popular Farmer Idea Exchange also will be held throughout the week.

The 1999 AFBF annual meeting will round out the week with state Farm Bureau delegates discussing and voting on AFBF policies that will guide the organization in 1999.

Marketbasket Prices Increase In 3rd Quarter

Consumers paid slightly more at the grocery store checkout line during the third quarter of 1998, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation's Maketbasket Survey. The average price of selected grocery items increased 22 cents from the year's second quarter.

The 16 selected items on the survey cost $32.40, up from the second quarter's $32.18 average. It marks the second consecutive increase in the average price. It also reflects a third-quarter trend. Since AFBF began the Marketbasket Survey in 1989, increases have been the norm during the third quarter in all but two surveys. The last third-quarter decrease came in 1993, when the average dropped 30 cents from that year's second quarter.

"The overall price increase is pretty much in line with the rate of inflation, which is around 2.5 to 3 percent," said Terry Francl, a senior economist with the American Farm Bureau Federation. "And that rate remains very low."

A one-pound package of bacon increased 17 cents to $2.30, representing the largest increase on the survey. Francl says the retail bacon figures certainly don't reflect the price hog producers are receiving for their product. He said, however, that the increase in price could reflect a seasonal demand for bacon, which tends to increase during the summer months. Americans enjoy bacon on such items as hamburgers and bacon-lettuce-and-tomato sandwiches.

"That (bacon) demand is certainly reflected in the prices at the supermarket," added Francl.

Of the 16 items on the survey, eight increased in price. In addition to the bacon prices, a 32-ounce jar of mayonnaise increased 15 cent to $2.64. Other increases included corn oil, $2.60 per 32-ounce jar, up 8 cents; sirloin tip, $2.69 per pound, up 5 cents; eggs, 96 cents per dozen, up 4 cents; potatoes, $1.58 per 5-pound bag, up 3 cents; whole fryers, 98 cents per pound, up 2 cents; and ground chuck, $1.66 per pound, up 1 cent.

While half of the items on the survey increased in price, Francl wonders why the retail numbers aren't consistent with prices farmers and ranchers are receiving for their products. "The real question is whether or not these price signals, as reflected in low farm prices, are going to reach the consumers, or whether the processors and retailers are simply going to extract a higher margin," said Francl.

Six items on the survey decreased in price, with a 5-pound bag of flour and a pound of pork chops representing the largest decreases. The price of flour dropped 9 cents to $1.38 while pork chops fell 9 cents to $2.94. Other decreases included white bread, $1.17 per 20-ounce loaf, down 4 cents; whole milk, $2.52 per gallon, down 3 cents; cheddar cheese, $3.06 per pound, down 3 cents; and apples, 94 cents per pound, down 2 cents.

A 32-ounce jar of vegetable oil ($2.25) and a 20-ounce box of cereal ($2.74) remained unchanged.

AFBF, the nation's largest general farm organization with more than 4.78 million members, conducts its informal quarterly Market Basket Survey to help track retail food prices to ensure they are in line with prices received by the nation's farmers and ranchers. While many grocery prices have increased during the past year, the farmers' and ranchers' share remains fairly steady. The farm value of each food dollar spent in the United States is approximately 23 cents. Labor, at 37 cents, is the largest component of the consumers' food dollar.

Volunteer shoppers from 35 states participated in this latest survey in early September. The average total price of this quarter is only $3.90 higher than the $28.50 average price of the inaugural survey conducted during the first quarter of 1989. That averages into just a 40-cent increase in prices per year over a nine-year span.

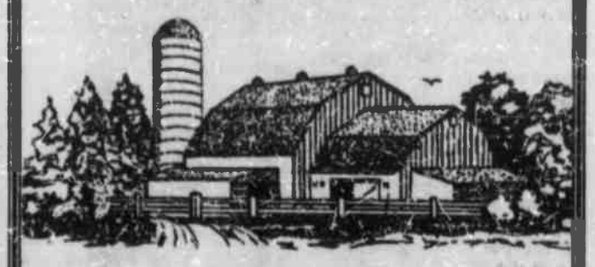
Hidden Dollars on Your Farm!

It is very easy to overlook the value of timber in a farm woodlot. At the present, standing timber is bringing a very good price. Unfortunately, I have seen instances where people have sold their timber resources considerably below the market value. On October 17, we are having a Forest Landowners Workshop at the Western MD 4-H Center, Bittinger, Md. Look for the separate article in today's paper.



Private Pesticide Applicator's Licenses — Dates to Mark on the Calendar

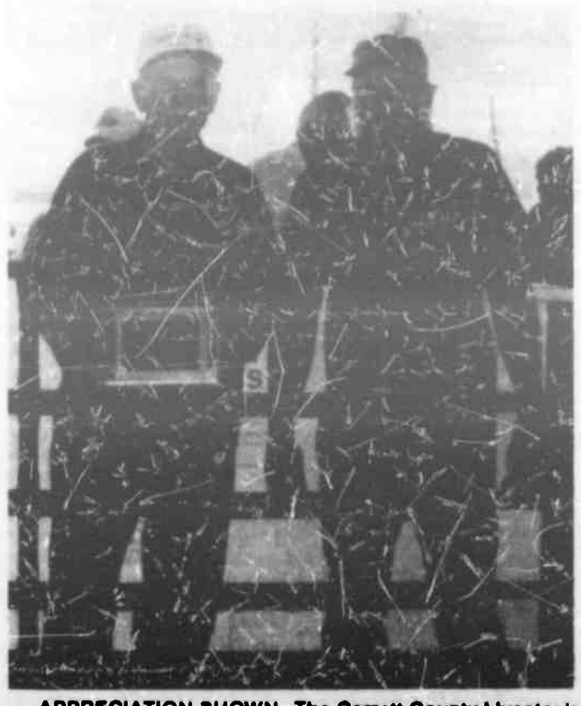
Corn Harvest Very Active Across Maryland

Harvesting of corn for grain made quite an advance as it improved by 20 points from last week's report. It continued to be another dry week as the number of consecutive days that farmers could work in the field was almost seven. Early reports commented on the lack of moisture in the harvested corn. Some parts of western Maryland and eastern parts of the Eastern Shore received some rain. Silage harvesting mimicked that of the grain corn and advanced by 20 points.

The continued dry weather seemed to negatively impact the soybean condition as 64% of the soybeans were rated as very poor and poor. Last week's report had soybeans at 42% very poor and poor.



Over half the sorghum fields were reported to have reached its turning stage. Sorghum harvesting also started this week, as 10% was reported as such.

Topsoil moisture condition was 39% very short, 42% short, and 19% adequate. Subsoil moisture condition was 36% very short, 47% short and 17% adequate.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended Sept. 20, listing the item, and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, follows:

Development: field corn, dent 89, 80, 90, 94, mature 64, 51, 39, 60; soybeans, turning 34, 24, 32, 42, shedding leaves 17, 7, 12, 19; sorghum, turning color 52, 50, 56, 62, mature 10, 0, 4, 20.

Harvesting progress: apples 36, 28, 31, 38; corn, grain 35, 15, 8, 19, silage 65, 45, 45, 61; lima beans 65, 55, 46, 59; snap beans 94, 92, 90, 94; sorghum 10, –, 2, 4; other hay, 3rd cutting 93, 82, 68, 72, 4th cutting 55, 40, 15, 31; alfalfa hay, 4th cutting 70, 59, 57, 67.

Maryland Poultry Exports Plummet

State officials reported last week that Maryland's poultry exports have plummeted recently because of the Russian financial crisis.

"Maryland poultry sales to Russia are off about 50 percent in recent weeks," said Errol Small, head of the state Agricultural Department's international marketing efforts.

On a national level, there have been reports of refrigerated shipments of chicken destined for Russia being turned back at sea or diverted to other destinations because of concern over the value of the ruble.

Russian exports dropped when the value of the ruble went from 6.2 to the dollar in mid-August to 20 rubles to the dollar last week, said Richard L. Lobb, a spokesman for the National Broiler Council.

The value of poultry exports from Maryland was $90 million last year, Small said.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION

Notice of Applications Received for State Permits and Opportunity for Hearing

Issue Date: September 24, 1998 in The Republican.

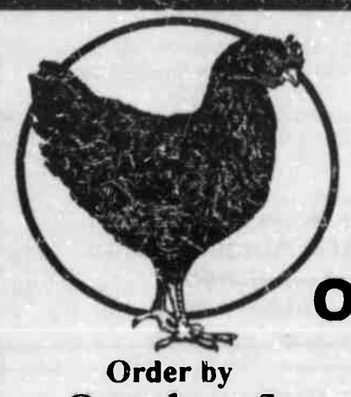
The Water Management Administration is reviewing the applications for the State Permits listed below. The applications and related information are on file at the Administration; arrangements may be made for inspection and copying. Opportunity is afforded individuals to provide written comments, request a public informational hearing, or be placed on an interested persons list for any listed application. Any further notices about actions on an application will be provided only by mail to those individuals on a mailing list of interested persons. Comments or requests for an informational hearing must be received in writing by the Administration on or before October 8, 1998. All inquiries and requests should include your name, address and telephone number, and should be addressed to the Chief, Water Rights Division, Water Management Administration, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224. Telephone: 410-631-3591.

GARRETT COUNTY



GA77G005/5 - The Mettiki Coal Corporation, 293 Table Rock Road, Oakland, MD 21550, has applied to increase an existing appropriation from an annual average of 10,060,000 gallons per day (gpd) of ground water and 14,440,000 gpd during the month of maximum use to an annual average of 20,000,000 gpd and 28,800,000 gpd during the month of maximum use. The water is to be used for mine dewatering, and taken from sumps, in the Conemaugh Formation, in the Mettiki A, B, C, and D mines, located about ten miles south of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland.

There will be no actual change in the applicant's mining operations. The requested use is to account for a mine inflow rate that was higher than previously estimated due primarily to captured recharge, stream infiltration and water injected into the mine for treatment. Impacts to the resource and nearby users were evaluated using data from geological reports and investigations available to the Water Management Administration. In 1988, the Administration anticipated that a significant number of domestic and other wells would be unreasonably impacted by the applicant's mining activity. To date, the applicant has been required to replace 17 wells and 4 springs. The replacement of domestic wells impacted by this appropriation will be required as a condition of the permit.

Thank You

On behalf of Jackie and myself, I want to thank everyone who helped in any way in my campaign for election as Commissioner in District 3.

Although we didn't enjoy the outcome, we did enjoy being out and meeting with the people of Garrett Co.

I'm sorry I won't be able to help the citizens of Garrett Co. into the next century. I have truly liked what I have been doing, helping the citizens of Garrett Co., and I will continue doing that until I am succeeded, and even after that I hope to be working with the citizens of Garrett Co. This is all I have ever done and wanted to do.

THANK YOU, AGAIN!

First Storytellers Showcase Set In Western Maryland

Western Maryland Public Libraries, in cooperation with the public schools and public libraries of Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties, are presenting a forum of storytelling talent. The educational and entertaining event will be held Wednesday, Sept. 30, 2-7 p.m., at Beall Elementary School in Frostburg.

The event is planned to benefit organizations interested in encouraging storytelling and literature for the children of western Maryland. Individuals from the community wishing to attend for personal interest are also invited.

The schedule for the forum includes eight storytellers each exemplifying a different tradition and a different approach to the craft.

At 2 p.m. Jon Spelman will tell American folktales, myths, and legends, world folktales, and multi-cultural stories.

At 2:30 p.m. Isaac Olaleye will tell tales from Nigeria, his homeland.

At 3 p.m. Gail Herman will use mime, improvisation, and percussion instruments from around the world to tell stories with audience participation.

At 3:30 p.m. Beth Vaughn will assume the style of an ancient teller to share a collection of tales from the oral tradition.

At 5 p.m. Jeanne Walton will offer participatory animal tales and dramatize multi-cultural and contemporary stories.

At 5:30 p.m. Katie and Otto Ross will narrate Appalachian and Hispanic stories to musical accompaniment.

At 6 p.m. the "Spider Lady," Patricia Mack-Preston, will spin west African tales about Anansi, the spider.

At 6:30 p.m. Slim Harrison will conclude the showcase with "Sugar Tree Music." He will introduce traditional American folk instruments and invite the audience to sing along.

For further information persons may call Dusty Stanton at 301-334-8910.

Advertising For Vacation Guide Being Accepted

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce Inc. is now accepting applications for advertising in the 1999-2000 Garrett County-Deep Creek Lake Vacation Guide. Full membership in the chamber is required in order to advertise in the guide, and membership is open to any individual or organization having a physical place of business in Garrett County. Members of the chamber receive benefits that includeg a referral service, chamber representation before appropriate governmental or legislative bodies, and a variety of other services.

The Vacation Guide is the only comprehensive publication for Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County and offers complete listings of accommodations, restaurants, historic sites, attractions, events, and other information. Because of an ever-increasing number of requests for information annually, 200,000 copies of the new guide will be printed. Vacation Guides are distributed through the 12 Maryland State Travel Information centers, AAA offices, consumer travel shows, bus group leader shows, through information packets mailed from the Chamber office and Garrett County's Maryland 800 number in response to advertising and press releases, and through local businesses. The guide will be in the 8 1/8" x 10 1/2" fullcolor format. The deadline for advertising in the Vacation Guide is November 10, 1998.

Anyone interested in joining the Chamber of Commerce and/or advertising in the new guide should contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce Inc., 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone 301-334-1948.

Workshops To Offer Help To Grant Applicants

The Maryland State Arts Council (MSAC), in conjunction with the Maryland Humanities Council and the Maryland Historical Trust, has scheduled a series of workshops during October for organizations interested in receiving grant funding.

The grants workshops will provide an overview of all three organizations' granting programs and will give potential applicants the opportunity to talk with program directors and ask questions about the application procedures.

The closest meeting for Garrett Countians will be held in Hagerstown at the Frostburg State University meeting room on Oct. 14, 1-4 p.m.

The workshops are free, open to the public, and will be accessible to persons with disabilities. While registration is not required, interested persons are encouraged to call 410-625-4830 or TDD/ITY 333-4519 to register for a specific session.

For more information, persons may call the MSAC at 410-767-6555.

Tall Tale Tellers Invited To Participate In Annual Festival

Fishermen and fisherwomen, coal miners, farmers, business people, sports lovers, jokesters, and storytellers are invited to participate as tellers or listeners in the annual Tall Tale Story Festival, slated for the morning of Oct. 10 at St. Paul's Fellowship Hall, 316 Oak Street, Oakland. Adults will tell their tales at 10:30 a.m., but persons are urged to come a little early to get a good seat.

Each story need only be between 2 to 10 minutes long, according to Dr. Gail Herman, professional storyteller and organizer of the festival, who urges people to volunteer to tell a story or nominate a fellow co-worker, relative, or friend who enjoys telling stories. Herman said that the event is all for charity and the preservation of an old-time Appalachian art form. Out-of-town storytellers are also welcome to participate. Persons should call 301-387-9199 and leave name and phone number. Registration and/or admission for adults is $4.

Prizes by local businesses and organizations are awarded to tellers at the festival. Among them is a $50 U.S. Savings Bond donated by the American Association of University Women, Garrett Branch, a flower basket donated by Jan Florist, and a mint coin set donated by the First United Bank and Trust. Other prizes will be announced later.

Students from elementary and middle schools are also welcome to tell stories from 9 to 10:15 a.m. They should also call 301-387-9199 to register to tell a story from a book or an original tale.

Help on learning one's story is also available by telephone, as Dr. Herman will be willing to help a registered student from a Garrett County school if a time can be arranged during or after school. "Storytelling helps students to become comfortable in front of audiences and to use appropriate and effective communication and nonverbal communication skills. These skills are important in both business and school studies," Dr. Herman said.

Registration is $3 for students, who may also attend as listeners ($3 admission fee at the door). One admission fee allows one to attend for the entire festival (9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.). The Garrett AAUW Scholarship Fund sponsors the event.

TELLING TALL TALES will again be a part of the annual Autumn Glory Festival, as tale tellers of all ages and from all over are expected to participate in the Tall Tale Festival, held in conjunction with the AGF. The event is slated for Saturday, Oct. 10, in the fellowship hall of St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland, beginning at 9 a.m. and concluding in time for the festival's Grand Feature Parade at 1 p.m. These photos are from Tall Tale Festivals of the past. Annual Fall Frolic Slated In Deer Park

Planning is under way for Deer Park's third annual Fall Frolic, which will be held at the town center and community building on Saturday, Oct. 3, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Local veterans' groups will open the event with a ceremony saluting Garrett County's Korean War dead and all Korean War veterans at the town's Korean War Memorial.

Following the commemorative ceremony the Fall Frolic entertainment activities will begin, including country and gospel music performances, a display of antique vehicles, the sale of ticket chances, food, and craft items, and a wooden board town populated by the "pumpkin people," made of pumpkins, straw, and clothing.

There is no admission charge for any of the day's events. Persons or organizations interested in additional information, or wishing to sell items or help sponsor the Fall Frolic, may call 301-334-3122.

Public TV Slated To Film Segment On AVS Program

Garrett County and Garrett Community College's Adventure Sports program will once again be the focus of national and international television attention as Public Broadcasting System (PBS) will be on location here early next month to video a segment for its Trailside outdoor adventure series, said Mike Logsdon, Adventure Sports program director.

Trailside, which is carried by over 230 PBS stations to a potential audience of approximately one million viewers, will produce a 30-minute program focusing on whitewater inflatable kayaking on the North Branch of the Potomac River and mountain biking in New Germany State Park.

GCC Adventure Sports professors Steve Tomb and Steve Storck will work with the PBS producer and director to create an introductory level program, focusing on proper equipment, good judgment, and the management of risks associated with participation in inflatable kayaking and mountain biking.

The PBS film crew visit has been coordinated by Maryland's Office of Tourism Development as part of its ongoing effort to promote tourism in western Maryland. The office has worked on a number of projects with GCC's Adventure Sports program, including a half-hour adventure segment for European NBC's Five Star Adventure, which was aired to a potential audience of over 55 million viewers in Europe earlier this summer.

The five-day taping of the Trailside program will begin Friday, Oct. 2. The program is scheduled to air on PBS stations across the country during the week of Dec. 21-26.

Tri-Co. Council Receives $228,566 Grant From ARC

The Appalachian Regional Commission has approved a $228,566 grant to the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland. According to a release from Congressman Roscoe G. Bartlett, the money is to be used for the continuation of a program designed to assist small and medium-sized companies in developing international markets for the goods and services they produce.

"This is a continuation of a great project which enhances economic development in Western Maryland," Bartlett said.

The project will reportedly bring together federal, state, and local export assistance providers to introduce the companies to the international markets while continuing to provide hands-on assistance to a number of companies already involved in exporting.

Staff training and planning of international trade events such as the hosting of foreign delegations, local luncheons, and workshops will be included in the sponsored activities.

People Living With Cancer: The Key Word Is "Living"

"Most cancer victims reach a point where they say, 'Enough, cancer, I can never give you enough to appease you. Therefore, I refuse to give you that part of me that makes me uniquely me. I keep for that for myself and those I choose to share it with.'

"That is when one begins to live with cancer. . . .

— Vickie Evans' journal September 1997

by David Foster

Everyone reading these words is at risk for cancer by virtue of simply being alive. Everyone reading these words likely knows of someone, a loved one, a friend, a neighbor, who is suffering, has suffered, or will eventually suffer from the disease, which can, but far from always, mean death for the patient, and pain and suffering for everyone who cares for that person.

The reality that cancer will touch every American, whether by striking you or someone you know or love, is the wellspring for this Saturday's "The March, Coming Together to Cure Cancer" in Washington, D.C.

Three Garrett County residents who will be on hand for The March recently shared their experiences with The Republican of what it has been like for them to live with cancer: the sorrows of facing the possibility of one's own death, yes, but also the joy that comes with a new, hard-earned appreciation of what simply being alive has to offer those who are willing to embrace life.

Ralph Burnett

In his judge's chamber recently, Ralph Burnett spoke of the realities of living with prostate cancer in the same straightforward manner which he exudes from the bench in Garrett County's District Court.

"I was diagnosed with prostate cancer in March of 1996," Burnett said, "with no symptoms, no warning, no idea ahead of time that I had cancer. Two months later [redacted] Johns Hopkins University Hospital.

"My diagnosis, which came as a total surprise, shows how insidious prostate cancer can be; you can have it for years and not know it. There really isn't any cure for it either; there are treatments which can slow its growth, but eventually it will kill you. Prostate cancer is the mirror image of women's breast cancer in that it is genetically and hormonally driven," the Oakland resident said.

"There are new vaccines, chemotherapies, immunotherapies, anti-angio genetic therapies, and other methods being developed to fight the disease at major cancer research centers across the country. I'm on the board of the National Prostate Cancer Coalition, the major prostate cancer research lobbying group, which along with CAP CURE (Cancer of the Prostate Cure) the major prostate cancer research organization, founded by survivor Michael Milken, is leading the efforts for prostate cancer research.

"CAP CURE has funded some major prostate cancer research studies, and has made it possible for the first time for chemotherapy, which up until now has not been amenable in the treatment of the disease, to be used with success.

"There are two main points I'd like every man to be aware of," Burnett emphasized. "First, starting at age 40, all men need to have a PSA test every year, which is covered by insurance and is easily available here in Garrett County; second, men are traditionally self-conscious about this disease — that has to end. Men need to talk to one another about it, and men who have it need to go out to speak about it in order to promote the finding of a cure.

"There is no line between cancer patient and cancer survivor," Burnett said. "Every cancer survivor knows that it can come back and kill them. People need to understand how serious this is, and get on with the job of finally controlling and eradicating the disease, just like the national effort we mounted with funding and research to attack polio and smallpox, both of which used to strike people down at will."

Burnett ended by asking for local support for this weekend's March. "Everyone needs to remember that cancer kills hundreds of thousands of people a year; we're going to Washington to raise everyone's awareness and raise hell with Congress for research funding. We need everyone's help to do it."

Cindy Kutchman

"It's something you never think will happen to you," Cindy Kutchman, a nurse at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the mother of Robbie, 13, and Elizabeth, 9. "Especially if you've always been healthy, like I had been.

"I had no indications of cancer, no history of it in my family background, and always had regular checkups. Then out of the blue one day while lying down, I felt a lump the size of a small egg in my lower abdomen, but absolutely no pain whatsoever. I knew it wasn't normal, so I got to the doctor as soon as I could. After tests revealed ovarian cancer in both ovaries, I underwent general surgery to remove all the cancer.

"Robbie was in fifth grade at the time, and Elizabeth was in the first grade; my biggest concern was for them. We all cried together a lot when my husband Rick and I first learned of the cancer — that's the first stage for anyone, after the disbelief wears off — but I've been very honest with the kids, telling them what we would all be going through and answering all their questions.

NOT JUST SURVIVORS - These three local residents are playing a vital part in their families and their community while continuing to live full lives even though they've been struck with cancer. Above, Vickie Evans is shown with two of her grandchildren, Adam (left) and Lauren Evans, brothers who were both born after her diagnosis and surgery for breast cancer in 1996. Below, Robbie, left, and Elizabeth Kutchman, right, are two of their mother Cindy's most important supporters three years after her surgery for ovarian cancer. Above right, Ralph Burnett is shown in his Garrett County District Court judge's chambers. In the course of surviving with prostate cancer for three years, Burnett has become a leading advocate on the national scene for prostate cancer research, and a founder of "Us Too!", the local prostate cancer survivors support group. These Garrett Countians are among the 8.1 million Americans who live with cancer, while knowing it has not defeated them.

Cancer is a double-edged sword, as Kutchman pointed out, because almost as frightening as the disease itself can be the fear of the treatments the patient must undergo to help fight it. "When I first started chemo," she said, "I thought I'd be going to a horrible place where everyone would be vomiting constantly. The fear was much greater than the reality, thank goodness. After the first bout of treatments, when I was sick after each treatment, the doctors began giving me medicine to take at home that relieved the nausea very well. The doctors worked with me to find out what worked best, and that was a good feeling in itself.

"Having cancer and undergoing the treatment is such a humbling experience in many ways — the way you look, for instance. I never cried when my hair fell out, but at the same time I was very self-conscious, and for the first month or so of baldness I tried to hide it from the kids because I thought they'd be traumatized by their mother being bald.

"Then one day when it just got to be too uncomfortable to keep my head covered constantly, I left it uncovered when the kids came home from school. They both looked at me, got big smiles on their faces, and Elizabeth blurted out, 'Neato!' That was great, and all that needed to be said. When I finally got over my fear of rejection and let myself be seen again, it was like a big weight being lifted off my shoulders — a weight that had been put there totally by me.

"Cancer is also humbling in the way it requires you to let other people help you. People get so busy and wrapped up in their lives that they don't realize how much they need other people. When you're ill you need others for physical and emotional support, and I think the loved ones and friends need to be able to do that for you as much as you need it from them. It's important to let as many people into your life as you can to give you that support, their love and their prayers, whether you have cancer or not.

"Given that strength from others," Kutchman said, "I really try to set a good example for my kids, who also

Cancer Support Group To Meet Next Tuesday

The Garrett County Cancer Support Group will meet Tuesday, Sept. 29, at 7 p.m. in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board Room. The speaker for the meeting will be Rev. Roger Harrison of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Oakland, whose topic will be "Faith" and how it relates to illness.

All who are interested are welcome to attend. Members are encouraged to come and bring someone with them, a friend, relative, neighbor, or spouse.

At last month's meeting a lineup of programs was planned for the year, the membership list updated, cards were signed to be sent, and time was given for open discussion. Meetings for the group are regularly held the last Tuesday of each month in the hospital Board Room at 7 p.m., the two exceptions being June, (the family picnic at Broadford Park) and December (no meeting).

The October 27 meeting will feature Dr. Joseph Lynch of University Hospital, Morgantown, speaking on bone marrow transplants. All are invited.

give me strength. We want them to learn that everybody has their problems, not just cancer, but other illnesses or adversities in life, but you have to make the best of them. With my kids, that's what I want them to learn the most: to appreciate what you have and make the best of everything you're given, good and bad.

"Everything happens for a reason," she said.

Marchers Welcome For Saturday's March To Cure Cancer In D.C.

The impact of cancer is staggering.

In the United States alone, more than 1,500 lives are lost to cancer each and every day. One of every four deaths is from cancer. One in two men and one in three women risk developing cancer in their lifetime. Cancer is the leading cause of non-accidental death in children under the age of 15.

"The March, Coming Together To Cure Cancer," is the centerpiece of a weekend-long rally of tens of thousands of concerned and caring Americans, including two busloads of area residents, who will converge on the nation's Mall this Saturday, Sept 26. Marchers will be coming together from all corners of the country to raise awareness of the far-reaching impact of the disease and demand a response on the part of Capitol Hill legislators.

Bus seats are still available for any interested local residents, whether one has been touched by cancer or not, on a pair of charter tour buses that will depart from the Mt. Fresh Produce Pavilion at the Oakland town parking lot at 6 a.m. Saturday morning. The caravan will then travel to Accident to take on interested riders at Northern High School at 6:30 a.m. for the trip to Washington. There is no cost for the day-long round-trip excursion, and although reservations are not absolutely necessary at this point, they may be made and more information may be obtained by calling Alice Ann Ridder at 301-334-2828.

Over .5 million people die of cancer every year.

Vickie Evans

"I think Ralph Burnett, Cindy Kutchman, and I each approached our cancer in the same way," Vickie Evans said as she noted she is going into her tenth year of surviving with breast cancer. "We each seem to have sort of controlling-type personalities; we can't control our cancers, of course, but we can control our reaction to it and our decisions about our care and treatment. Don't get me wrong, others may want to leave decisions like that to others, and that's OK, too.

"I was diagnosed with cancer in 1989," Evans, an Oakland resident and a dental hygienist, said, "with no lumps or tangible warning signs beforehand; however, I knew there was a history of breast cancer in my family, and I was sensing intuitively that there was something wrong before the diagnosis was made. I feel that we know our own bodies, so when I sensed something was wrong I asked for a mammogram six months prior to my regularly scheduled one. That was when the cancer was discovered.

"A month later I underwent a modified radical mastectomy with reconstruction surgery at Georgetown Hospital. If I hadn't listened to that little voice in my head saying 'Something's wrong' and asked for the mammogram on my own, I wouldn't be here today with my six grandchildren," said Evans. "It's important to trust your instincts.

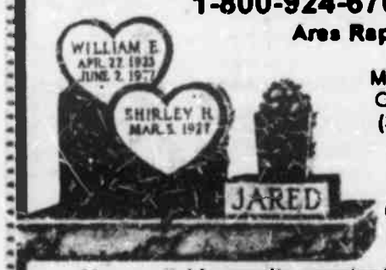
"I think that having cancer has been a terrible and a wonderful thing at the same time. I've hated the physical things it's put me through, but it brought me face-to-face with my own mortality, having to realize that anything can happen at any time. There's a lot of stuff you have to let go of as you learn what is really important."

That winnowing process does not come easy, said Evans. "You feel very alone when you have cancer. You look around and say to yourself 'I'm different than anyone else here.' Even though your family and friends want to help you in any way they can, there is no way that they can walk in your shoes.

"Having cancer, like any other crisis, can make or break a marriage. Your relationship is changed by it, and you can either get closer, or tippy-toe around it. Loved ones can sometimes make positive moves by discussing and being open with their feelings about the disease, and asking the person with cancer about their feelings.

"Family members have to recognize the pain that the patient is going through and say 'I'm sorry you're having this pain, I'm sorry you have to go through this.' It's very important to recognize the disease and the pain and let the person know that you know they are hurting. It's also important to spend as much time as you can with them without smothering them.

"Cancer is so costly in so many ways," Evans continued. "It takes your time, your energy, your resources, just like a spoiled child that wants more and more. Finally you have to just say 'Enough!' Your soul is the part that remains untouched, that's where you really find where and who you are. That part will remain unclaimed and will live on afterwards.



"When you come right down to it," Evans concluded, "the most important thing is the love you have for your family, for each other, and for God."

GCC Schedules Halloween Dance With 50s Theme

Garrett Community College, in conjunction with the Golden Achievers Club, Wildlife Club, and Student Government Association, has announced the return of the Fabulous Hubcaps at a dance to be held in the GCC gymnasium on Saturday, Oct. 31.

This year's dance is being dedicated to Tiffany Morgan, a five-year-old Mtn. Lake Park girl battling cystic fibrosis. "The student body at GCC has been touched by the events the family has endured with this young girl's struggle to deal with this disease, and is proud to help to raise money towards her medical expenses," said a college spokesperson.

For the first time the event will include a "Cruise-in" beginning at 1 p.m., weather permitting. Anyone wishing to enter a classic vehicle is invited, and dash plaques will be given to the first 50 vehicles arriving. A Crowd's Favorite trophy will be awarded to the vehicle chosen by the spectators attending the cruise-in.

From 8 to 11:30 p.m. that evening, the Fabulous Hubcaps will play at the costume dance, where prizes will be awarded to the best dressed in the theme of the '50s and '60s, as well as Halloween traditional. (Costumes are optional.) The Fabulous Hubcaps will not only perform the sounds of that era, but will also present the image as they perform in costume.

Tickets are currently on sale at $15 for adults ($2 of which will be donated to the family of Tiffany Morgan), and $7.50 for children 12 and under. Tickets may be purchased at GCC, Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry, Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland, and Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville.

For more event information, or credit card purchases, persons may call Dee Kimbrell at 301-387-3036 during the day, or evenings at 301-387-4802. Food and beverages will be available throughout the day of the event in the Lakers Cafe; however, there is no alcohol permitted on the campus of GCC.

4-H Club News

TRAILBLAZERS
by Emily Ceasar

The September meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held Saturday, Sept. 12, at the Swan Meadow School. The meeting was called to order by Sasan Mayfield, president.

Susan and Diana Mayfield reported on the State Fair and the Senior Food & Nutrition Quiz Bowl at the State Fair in which their team placed second. Susan also gave a demonstration on a paper-mâche craft she created.

A discussion followed on what to do at the next meeting, and it was decided that members would paint pumpkins to give to a nursing home. The Clover 4-H'ers worked on a craft project. After the meeting, everyone participated in a family softball game.

The club's next meeting will be held on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the Extension Office. The Trailblazers would like to invite anyone interested in 4-H to attend.

Registration for the new 4-H year will begin soon. To learn more about 4-H, interested persons may contact the Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

Glimpse of The Past . . .

DOWNTOWN OAKLAND FLOODED - This was a rather common occurrence in Oakland before the construction of several flood control dams on the outskirts of the town. This photo was taken during the flood of July 17, 1907, and a number of the town's more prominent citizens gladly posed for the camera. The photo was taken on Second Street looking south, with the photographer probably standing in the intersection of Second and Green streets. The building second from the right houses the Garrett County Historical Society museum after previously being the site for the Garrett County Bank, the Garrett National Bank, and the Professional Building. The structure was purchased by the Historical Society in 1997 and is currently raising funds to pay off the mortgage. Donations to the society may be mailed to Mrs. Randall Kahl, 877 Fricks Crossing Road, Deer Park, MD 21550. This photo is published courtesy of the society and The Republican.

Garrett School Administrator Named Marshal

Ervin Fink, director of finance and human resources for the Garrett County Board of Education, was selected as the 1998 honorary parade marshal for the Preston County (W.Va.) Buckwheat Festival, which is scheduled for this weekend.

Fink, who had retired from the Preston County school system in August of this year, came to work in Garrett County on September 1. Starting as a teacher in 1964, Fink served Preston County schools in various capacities for 35 years. His administrative offices in the school system have included director of finances, which he held for 28 years, assistant superintendent for finance and administration, treasurer, and interim superintendent of schools.

An active member of his community, Fink is past president of West Virginia Association of School Business Officials, the Kingwood (W.Va.) Rotary Club, and the Preston County Jaycees. A member of the Kingwood VFD, he served for 15 years as chairman of the Buckwheat Festival Band Spectacular.

He and his wife Darlene reside in Kingwood and are the parents of two children. The Finks are members of the Wesley United Methodist Church.

Garrett County school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets has praised Fink for his record of service. "He is a very respected adminstrator, who served Preston County well for many years," he said. Dr. Teets also noted his pleasure that Fink is now with the Garrett County school system. "Mr. Fink brings many years of experience and expertise. He will be a tremendous asset to us," Dr. Teets concluded.

New Quilting Club Sets Meeting Date

The newly formed Quilting Club held its first meeting recently at Garrett Community College and established a regular date for future meetings.

The club's initial get-together attracted 21 quilters with varying amounts of experience. Members of the group selected the second Tuesday of each month for regular meetings.

The Quilting Club has scheduled its next meeting for Oct. 13 at 7 p.m. in Room 308 of GCC's Continuing Education Building. Quilters will demonstrate different techniques of appliqué for those attending.

All interests persons are invited to participate.

Negotiation Skills Course Scheduled At Garrett CC

A Negotiation Skills class will be offered at Garrett Community College on Wednesday evenings, Oct. 7-28, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Videos, text materials and "hands on" interaction will be used to help participants strengthen their negotiation and sales skills. In this four session course participants will learn how to prepare for negotiations, use techniques for creating win/win results, get to "yes," and close sales.

"The Negotiation Skills class will provide an opportunity to build skills in negotiating contracts and in selling," according to course instructor Ken Perrin, postmaster of Oakland.

Any persons wishing to register for this class or obtain additional information may call Cathy Fazenbaker, Alyce McDowell, or Julie Yoder of GCC's Department of Continuing Education at 301-387-3080.

Grantsville Girl Recognized By Regional Group

Amanda Lou Wilhelm, Grantsville, was recently recognized for her efforts on behalf of a citizens' group dedicated to reducing incidents of child abuse through education. The third grade student, who is a 4-H member and a cheerleaders for the Grantsville Elementary Maddogs, was named Little Miss C.A.R.e.

Originally formed in Allegany County seven years ago, a group calling itself the Cumberland Area Racers for education against child abuse began raising funds to donate to local community agencies and organizations to be used for educational purposes.

Linked through a common interest in car racing, the group began expanding to include others with similar interests. C.A.R.e. soon included bowling teams, antique car clubs, and street rod enthusiasts. The organization also grew to cross county and state lines, picking up members in Bedford County, Pa., Mineral County, W.Va., and Garreu County.

The group's treasurer, Mary Peterson, explained that one large fund-raiser is held each year. This event includes a car show and a bowl-a-thon. "We usually raise about $5,000 a year. With this group, each dollar we raise is a dollar donated," she noted.

Amanda Lou, daughter of Jenny Wilhelm and Steve Beitzel, was selected as Little Miss C.A.R.e. because of her contributions to the fund-raising efforts of the group, Peterson said.

Anyone wanting more information on C.A.R.e. may call 301-264-3027 or 301-724-1389.

Adult Services Program Open At Flowery Vale

Maple Glade, an adult day services program, opened last month at Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident. Originally scheduled to open in May, several renovation obstacles resulted in a delay.

The location of the Maple Glade facility was selected through the joint efforts of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. and Tressler Lutheran Services. With a similar program in place at the Mountain Glade Adult Medical Day Care program in Oakland, a site in the northern part of the county was preferred. Community Action offered to share the senior center in Accident with the Tressler-run program.

Before Maple Glade could open its doors, renovations and additions to the senior center were needed to bring the space into compliance with the regulations for an adult day services center.

The Maple Glade program, operated by Tressler Lutheran Services, provides support services to eligible elderly and/or disabled persons. It is a community-based program designed to prevent the premature placement of persons in long-term nursing care homes. The program offers respite for family members or caregivers by sharing in the responsibilities of providing care.

Anyone interested in learning more about the program and its services may call Jacquie Shirley, RN, program director, at 301-746-8488 or 301-895-4544.

Free Training For Literacy Volunteers Set

Garrett Community College and the Garrett County Literacy Council are teaming up to offer a free training for literacy volunteers. This training is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 16, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday, Oct. 17, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Continuing Education Building at the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College.

Participants may register by calling Garrett Community College at 301 387-3069. This training introduces more than one method of reading instruction. "Laubach Literacy Action advocates training by design, which allows local literacy councils freedom to adapt the training to meet local needs," said Bonnie Evans, tutor trainer. This training is revised from what has been offered in the past. Former tutors are encouraged by Evans to attend to gain beneficial information in assisting their learners.

"There is a need for literacy volunteers. Adults who take the courageous step to obtain reading assistance should not be denied that help," she said. A volunteer tutor is matched with a learner within a reasonable traveling distance. Volunteers are needed in each community.

McHenry was chosen as a training site because it is centrally located in the county. "GCC is pleased to cooperatively offer tutor training with the Garrett County Literacy Council," commented Tom Kierstead, program director, "We have a long-term commitment to assist not only educators and volunteers, but also those who desire to increase their literacy skills."

Anyone interested in the literacy council activities or in tutoring is asked to attend the training. Volunteers are needed in other areas of council activities as well as tutoring. The next Literacy Council meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 19, at 7 p.m. at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland.

"If you treasure reading and would like to share your skill with another, this is the training for you," Evans added.

•Financial support from generous, committed individuals

The CARPENTER'S CLUB is a special way for you to support Habitat. Each square foot of living space costs $46.00, and Carpenter's Club members pledge to cover the cost of that one square foot in every house we build. Traditionally, Habitat builds two houses each year, so that the biggest commitment a member has is $92.00 a year. When we have reached our goal of 1,000 members, the biggest stumbling block Habitat faces—the start-up cost for each home, will be conquered.

PLEASE JOIN THE CARPENTER'S CLUB
by returning the pledge card below with your check for $92.00 made out to Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. Hereafter, you will be informed each time Habitat is about to break ground on a new home to remind you of your pledge.

The Board of Directors and fellow Carpenter's Club members thank you for considering this opportunity.

*Some members of the Carpenter's Club want to commit to 2 or more square feet of living space for each home. We invite you to join at the level that works best for you.

Miss DeBerry United With Mr. Knepp In July Ceremony

Marcia K. DeBerry and William H. Knepp were united in marriage on July 19, 1998, in an outdoor, family ceremony at the bride's mother's home near Cranesville. The ceremony was performed by the bride's stepfather, Pastor Donald E. Savage.

The bride is the daughter of Harold R. and Vickie DeBerry, Terra Alta, W.Va., and Hazel V. and Donald E. Savage, Oakland. The groom is the son of Phyllis Knepp, Red House, and the late Benjamin F. Knepp Jr.

She carried a fan-style bouquet consisting of dusty rose, white and blue silk flowers, that was made by her mother.

The couple had a family, buffet-style reception dinner following the ceremony. The three-tiered, mauve-trimmed wedding cake featured a fountain flowing with mauve water. The cake was made by the bride's mother, Hazel Savage, and grandmother Violet Bishop of Terra Alta.

The groom graduated from Southern High School, Garrett Community College, and the University of Maryland at College Park. He is currently attending graduate-level classes at West Virginia University on a part-time basis and is employed by the University of Maryland as a nutrient management advisor.

Garrett County Volunteers Work And Learn In Dominican Republic

A group of Garrett County residents gave up their summer vacation to lend a hand in a distant community. Consisting of 10 youths and adults, the group set out to help build a church outside of San Lorenzo, Dominican Republic.

The volunteer construction crew consisted of Dr. Abe Getty, team leader, his wife Gail, Wayne and Donna Callis, their daughter Julie, Ken Gotsch, Amanda Shaffer, Shane and Rhonda Skipper, and Jon Browning.

The trip developed as the result of an idea planted by Ben Woodring, when he visited Faith Evangelical Free Church last fall, group member Gail Getty explained. Woodring and his wife, who have been missionaries to the D.R. for 28 years, have organized churches in several areas where none previously existed. Once the congregation had built a church, had become well established, and had a national pastor, the Woodrings would move on to help in another area, Getty said.

The vicinity to which the Garrett County team traveled was extremely poor. "After being there several days, one of the teens commented, 'I'm not going to take anything that I have for granted any more,'" she repeated.

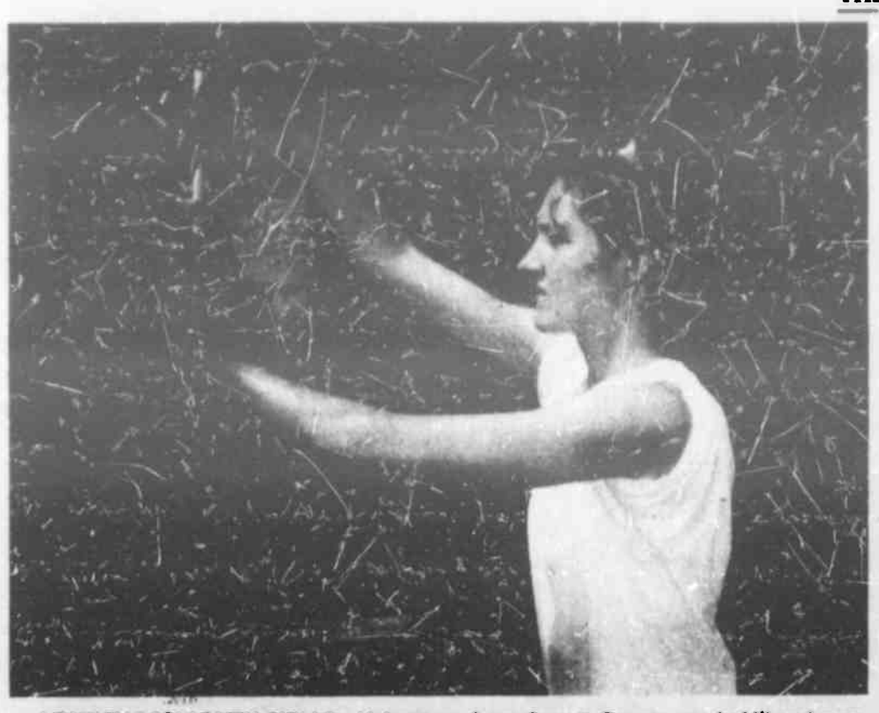
Four different teams worked on the church during the summer, and the Garrett County contingent, the third one to arrive, was tasked with building the walls. "The job foreman, Juan, was Dominican and spoke no English. He would show us what to do, then let us do it. He'd come around inspecting, and tap blocks with his hammer this way and that at first, but we soon learned to do it to Juan's satisfaction," a team member remembered. By the middle of the first week some of the group were setting corners by themselves.

Plans and instructions for the building's dimensions changed three times over a period of several days. "The team was told the walls had to be 10 blocks high, but upon examination of the plans, that was changed the next day to 11 blocks high, and on the last day to 12 blocks high," one volunteer said.

Working conditions challenged the Garrett County workers. Sand had to be sifted and cement was mixed by hand on the floor. The government frequently cut off water and/or electricity for several hours each day. One morning when the team arrived to work there was no water for making cement. "A young Dominican woman and two boys carried water on their shoulders from a block away to fill the supply barrel," Getty said.

The Dominican church members stated their appreciation for the presence of the volunteer crew, and worked with the crew when it was possible to do so. "People would stop by and stare at us. We handed out Christian literature and took part in an evangelistic rally at a local basketball court on Saturday evening," Getty related.

On their day off, the team were able to swim in Caribbean waters in the morning and hike into the mountains for a dip in a cold, clear river (Rio Frio) in the afternoon.



Gail Getty taught a three part seminar titled, "How to Study the Bible," using the inductive method of Precept Ministries of Chattanooga, Tenn. The seminar, centering on the book of Titus, was attended by young girls and women ranging in age from 13 through their 50s.

Abe Getty presented the Sermon on the Mount in Spanish and English during the Sunday service. Donna Callis and Ken Gotsch spoke to the group about what they had experienced as the effects of Christ in their lives. The team became a choir a few times and sang in English for the Dominicans.

"The team that had come before us had given a Vacation Bible School, so our group walked through the garbage-laden dirt streets to deliver follow-up materials and greet the parents of the children who had come," said Getty.

The Dominican church members accompanied them, and the families graciously received the Maryland residents into their homes. "We felt very welcome. The Dominican people are generally warm and friendly," she said.

"A cross-cultural, third world experience is never forgotten. We left our families, stayed in some fairly primitive conditions, and worked hard in the Dominican heat and humidity. But along with the building, we were able to build some wonderful relationships," Getty reflected.

LEARNING MASONRY SKILLS - Volunteers from Garrett County used skill and muscle to help construct a church this summer in San Lorenzo, Dominican Republic. One of three consecutive crews to work on the project, the Garrett County team was tasked with building the church walls. In the photo above Amanda Shaffer, Loch Lynn, demonstrates her handiwork with a trowel. Donna and Wayne Callis, Oakland, are pictured below, as they set and level blocks.

MINISTERING IN WORD AND DEED - Building bridges as well as walls, the Garrett County contingent of volunteers in the Dominican Republic not only cemented cinder blocks together, they also cemented friendships with the people they met. In the photo above Ken Gotsch, Oakland, is seen relaxing with several of the young Dominicans who helped on the building project. Teaching and distributing Christian literature also kept volunteers busy. In the photo below, Gail Getty, seated on the floor, hands spanish teaching materials to Esther Goodrich, who has been a missionary with her husband for 20 years in the Domnican Republic. Getty's group also brought cases of Spanish Bibles, which can be seen stacked in the background.

Thalidomide Receives Limited Approval

In July the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved thalidomide (Thalomid) for limited use only. The limitation is that it be prescribed and dispensed only for the inflammatory skin complication of leprosy called ENL (erythema nodosum leprosum). Thalidomide is being evaluated for other conditions such as rheumatoid arthritis, wasting syndrome associated with HIV infection, and multiple sclerosis. However, the FDA will not allow the drug to be used for these other conditions.

Only physicians registered with the manufacturer will be allowed to prescribe thalidomide. Pharmacists cannot get the drug unless they are certified by the manufacturer. Patients for whom the drug will be prescribed must sign a statement indicating they will abide by the manufacturer's safety program. For example, a requirement for female patients is that they receive monthly pregnancy tests and agree to use two forms of birth control. These and other precautions are being followed due to the potential for harm to an unborn child. Thalidomide is the same medicine that was used over 35 years ago as a sedative/tranquilizer and was responsible for many birth defects in Germany, Japan and other countries. Thalidomide was not approved at that time in the U.S.

TAKE THE HIGHWAY...

"Just don't call it the 'Meadow Mountain Scenic Drive' no more!"

Some say it's a touchy subject, best avoided. People get their feathers ruffled; get excited. Best to keep quiet. "Least said--soonest mended."

Others say it's irrelevant. Won't come in our lifetimes, anyway. Let our kids worry about it. Anything could happen. Not to worry. Rome wasn't built in a day, and neither are international trade corridors.

I agree with highway proponents that neither argument is valid. The positions we take today on the Continental One proposal have direct, immediate, and long-term implications for the quality of our local environment and for our evolving economic development.

On this--and not much else--we agree.

I don't think we need expensive tax-financed feasibility studies or years of political bickering to discover what we already know in our hearts and minds. We already know that the proposed highway "concept" aligns with neither our environmental values nor our true economic interests.

This is not another I-68 we're talking about. I-68 runs east/west and provides short driving time to three nearby metropolitan areas--Baltimore, Washington, and Pittsburgh. Continental One is proposed as a north/south route; it would connect us (at great distance) to Toronto, Atlanta, and Miami. The comparison ends where it never began. Apples and oranges are not birds of a feather. I-68 and Continental One are different kettles of fish.

The reason our local Chamber of Commerce has been so effective in generating mixed public support for the highway concept is that its focus has appealed to the bottom lines of our thinking--our pocketbooks.

The Chamber has lobbied along these lines:

A north/south superhighway would be good for the local economy. It would stimulate job growth and maximize development potential. It could attract large manufacturing plants (such as B&L). It would enhance accessibility to tourists and stimulate the local tourism industry. It would put us on the map.

A new highway would be big, exciting, and fun to drive. Twenty or thirty years down the road, we could all drive happily down a big, new, local superhighway through a prosperous land of milk and honey.

This is one possible scenario, and it enjoys tremendous appeal to our fantasies and our hopes of a better life for ourselves and for our children. The Chamber's view has special allure for the economically vulnerable among us (the unemployed and underemployed) and for those who choose to invest in property here but do not necessarily choose to live here.

This is why the Chamber's president suggested in public forum that Garrett County's unemployment problem will "only get worse" unless and until a new highway is built. This is why the Deep Creek POA issued a confusing resolution favoring the highway "concept" but opposing any feasibility of routing the thing any way near the lake.

While the Chamber's view enjoys some county-wide support, another scenario must also be considered. That is this:

Another superhighway here would remove vast amounts of land from the local tax base and/or from the natural public domain. It will infringe on the rights of individual property owners and destroy the traditional livelihoods of families in its path. It will compromise farm and forest land. Unlinked to nearby population centers, it will do little to stimulate tourism and will actually detract from the natural attraction of our beautiful county. It could encourage speculation and contribute to short-term, artificial inflation of local property values. It will stimulate job development primarily in the low-wage service sectors (gas stations, convenience stores, overnight lodging). It will do little if anything to attract major manufacturing facilities to Garrett County because of the emerging global economy and corporate accessibility to cheaper standards of living and cheaper production costs elsewhere. It could encourage development of distribution centers and warehouse facilities with no esthetic value and only marginal value to the local economy. It could place additional burdens on our law enforcement and voluntary emergency personnel. It would be expensive to maintain. It will cost the taxpayers untold millions. For the next twenty some odd years of feasibility studies and political posturing, it will do absolutely nothing for the local economy. Twenty or thirty years from now, it may occur to us that we may have been short-sighted now not to simply just say, "No!"

Sometime down the road, watching the traffic go by, we may all wonder in hindsight where our minds and values were today.

And so the great worm of public opinion turns. Doubts creep in. Could this superhighway "concept" actually be just another tax-and-spend proposal of "liberal" politicians and "conservative" corporate interests? Should we shift our focus now to less expensive infrastructure initiatives more appropriate to the emerging realities of the 21st century economy than to the prevailing economy of the passing industrial age? Might our interests in Garrett County actually not align with the national and international political and corporate interests responsible for proposing this trade corridor in the first place?

Locally, the issue ends where it never began--in the powerful, conservative court of public opinion.

What do our surviving candidates for County Commissioner think? In District 1, Mr. Gregg is learning that "there is probably less support [for the concept] than I thought." In District 3, Mr. Falter opposes the highway, while Mr. Beitzel straddles Meadow Mountain, expressing reservations that "Garrett County will derive any great economic benefit" from the concept. In District 2, Mr. Holliday contends that "a limited access highway" would "reduce congestion in our local communities and provide easier access to local merchants." Mr. Fratz, meanwhile, feels that we "need to study the pros and cons... before we reject the concept," conceding that "the economic impact...is probably 20 years away" in any event.

My own instinct (as an Independent, write-in candidate for District 2) is that as time passes, local officials (elected, appointed, and self-appointed) will become increasingly tentative, noncommittal, and finally quietly responsive when confronted on the issue by an increasingly informed public. I believe that the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce (so substantially funded by county government)--initially so eager to set the public agenda on behalf of elected, weather-watching public officials--will become increasingly less public and ultimately strangely silent in its ill-considered lobbying effort on behalf of Continental One.

If this highway is ever built--as well it may, considering the stakes--it will be in spite of and not with local popular support.

DO YOUR OWN THINK! VOTE YOUR TRUE VALUES!

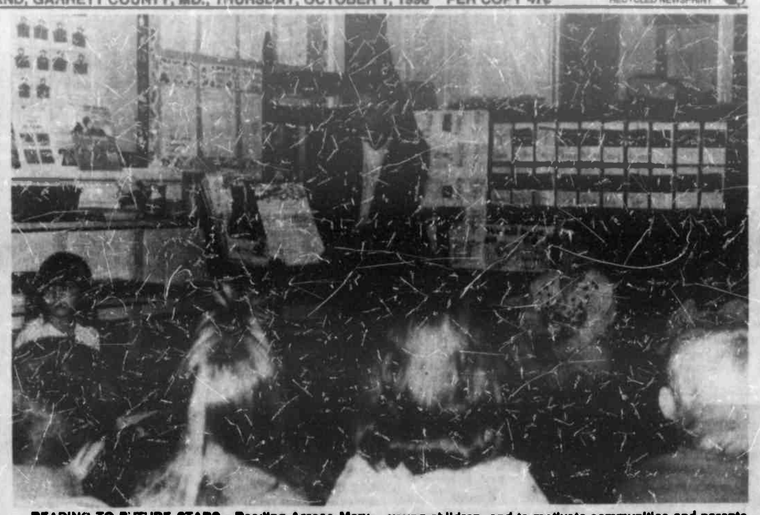
Rt. 219N Plans Viewed At Forum In Grantsville

A meeting at Grantsville Elementary School last night brought a group of about 60 residents, business owners, and government officials together to view and discuss proposed plans for the future of Route 219 north of I-68.

At last night's meeting results of feasibility studies were presented to the assembled citizens. "This project has gone no further than the initial study phase. That is all that has been funded at this time," stated Fred Crozier, district engineer for SHA.

Three plans that SHA representatives reviewed were: dualizing the existing road by adding two lanes to the northbound side; dualizing but limiting access through the building of service roads behind residences; and leaving the existing 219 North, but building a highway for through traffic to the east of the current roadway.



Crozier pointed out that Rt. 219 north of I-68 is one of three western Maryland roads included in the network of roads that can be funded through the Appalachian Regional Commission. "This is a unique source of federal funding," Crozier said. The only other two western Maryland roads so designated are Rt. 220 north of I-68 and I-68.

Grantsville mayor Fred Holliday said he was very pleased with the turn-out, and explained that slips of paper had been made available for people to write comments and plan preferences. These comments were forwarded to the SHA office of project planning in Baltimore.

"I hope people don't think these are the only options. We are getting some good comments from people about certain problems," Crozier said.

Plans of alternative highway upgrades have been on display in the town office in Grantsville over the past several months. The impact of highway changes on the community has been discussed by various groups, including the town council and the Greater Grantsville Business Association (GGBA). Both entities have written letters of concern and on suggestions to the State Highway Administra-

READING TO FUTURE STARS - Reading Across Maryland, Gov. Parris Glendening's initiative to encourage children to read, began last week with a statewide kick-off event. This is the second year for the program that will challenge students to become Rising Stars by reading 10 books before the end of the school year. More than 300,000 children in Maryland met the governor's challenge during last year's Rising Star project. The program is designed to improve reading and language skills among young children, and to motivate communities and parents to volunteer at schools. Members of the governor's cabinet and staff visited schools all across the state to read to students. Elizabeth Pike, director of federal relations for the governor's office, in the photo above, spent a morning last week reading to children at Kitzmiller Elementary School. Members of the community are encouraged to contact any school to become a volunteer reader.

Local Musician Excels At Famed Summer Camp

Amanda K. Stewart, local trombonist, recently returned home from the Interlochen Arts Camp, Interlochen, Mich., having earned two major awards. During the summer's camp, she was the first chair in the World Youth Symphony Orchestra (WYSO) for seven consecutive weeks and received the First Chair Award. The second honor she received was the Howard Hanson Memorial Award, which is presented to both the best male and female musician. Her male counterpart was the first chair, first violin (concertmaster) of the WYSO.

Miss Stewart's lessons are now continuing with Dr. Keith Jackson, professor of trombone and euphonium at West Virginia University. Jackson asked for and was granted permission for Amanda to play in the West Virginia University Trombone Choir this season. In addition to concerts throughout the year, this choir will travel next summer to Potsdam, N.Y., for the International Trombone

New Programs Offer Options In Evening Child Care Services

Two new programs have been introduced in Garrett County that will operate during evening hours to provide children's services. Both are programs of Garrett County Community Action and will be offered at the Oakland Head Start site.

Evening Head Start classes and wraparound child care services, both subject to the Head Start eligibility guidelines, have been funded to assist parents who work non-traditional hours, by providing child care options.

Wraparound Child Care

The wrap-around care component will provide child care before school and after school until 11:30 p.m.

Child care will begin at 6:30 a.m. At 8 a.m. the children will begin their Head Start day or be transported by Garrett Transit Service (GTS) to one of the nearby elementary schools.

At the end of the school day, children at the Oakland Head Start site may remain for the child-care program. GTS will pick up older siblings at the elementary schools and bring them to the wraparound care program.

Evening Head Start

Children attending the evening Head Start classes will arrive at 3 p.m. and continue to be in the classroom setting until 9 p.m. All eligible [illegible] have the opportunity to participate in a an educational program which follows the mandated guidelines of Head Start.

Beginning operations with 13 children, the evening Head Start center will eventually accommodate a total of 20 children. Additional staff will be hired as the number of children enrolled increases.

Snacks and an evening meal will be provided to the children in the evening session.

Siblings of eligible Head Start students who are not age-eligible for Head Start may participate in the wrap-

Corridor H Road Proposal Draws McCain's Support

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain was among the participants in a recent meeting of the Corridor H Action Committee (CHAC) recently in Belvard, W.Va., during which he expressed his support for West Virginia's Corridor H interstate highway proposal. He also reiterated his support for the concept of the Continental One trade corridor.

In a statement provided by CHAC, McCain said at the meeting, "I realized 20 years ago that to assure economic growth in our area we in Maryland must work together with West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and New York, and those efforts include our helping to get Corridor H completed, and also our support of the concept of the Continental One World Trade and Travel Corridor."

In its second year of existence, CHAC is a pro-Corridor H organization with the stated purpose of "bring[ing] economic development to eastern West Virginia through a completed Corridor H highway." Jim Kingsbury serves as the group's president.

Oakland Man Dies After Apparent Fall From Bridge

The Preston County (W.Va.) Sheriff's Department is currently investigating an incident in Corinth that resulted in the weekend death of an Oakland man.

Unconfirmed reports indicate that Shane Arthur Steyer, 26, died early Sunday morning after jumping from the bridge in Corinth in an attempt to avoid being struck by a vehicle that had apparently swerved towards him and his companion as they walked across. No official word has been received from the sheriff's office, however, which is waiting for the results of an autopsy. Persons with information are asked to call the sheriff at 304-329-1611.

Steyer was born June 23, 1972, in Oakland, a son of Glen W. Steyer and Lisa L. (Eary) Sweitzer, both of Oakland.

Survivors include six brothers, Cody Steyer and Wes Steyer, both of Oakland, Jay Hedrick and Patrick Judy, both of Petersburg, W.Va., and Frank Sweitzer and Paul Sweitzer, both of Oakland; one sister, Betty Sweitzer, Oakland; his stepfather, Frank Sweitzer; his stepmother, Betty Steyer; paternal grandmother, Lena Steyer, Oakland; and maternal grandparents, Paul and Alice Eary, Lake Ford.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home in Oakland. A service was conducted earlier today, Oct. 1, at the White United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Neil Parsons officiating. Interment was in the White Church Cemetery.

911 Dispatchers Trained To Give Callers More Aid

The 911 telephone answering staff members of the Garrett County Emergency Management Office will officially begin Emergency Medical Dispatch (EMD) procedures today, Oct. 1. According to Phil Rook, EMD coordinator for Garrett County, EMD allows the 911 staff to provide medical instructions to a caller before the ambulance arrives, when the situation permits.

"We are the first link in the pre-hospital care chain, and in many cases — such as with an airway obstruction, a cardiac, or trauma related calls — the first few minutes can often make the difference," Rook said. "Given our rural setting, an ambulance can't always reach the scene that quickly, so this training provides us with a valuable tool in public safety."

All call-takers recently completed the certification process for EMD through the APCO Institute, which is nationally recognized as a leading provider of dispatch related curriculum.

Paving/Striping Work, Water Project Completions Noted By County Staff

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners met with the leaders of county offices this week in the regular monthly session, hearing reports of road paving and striping work and water project completions, among other items. Commissioners Wayne Wilt (chairman) and Wayne Johnson presided over the meeting; Commissioner Gary Fratz is currently on vacation and will be back next week.

Roads Department

Road paving work has started in Accident as part of a tax differential project, according to Lee Thorne, administrator for the roads department. Base repair work will then be done on Rock Lodge and New Germany roads, and then on Sand Flat Road.

Thorne said the "curing process" for newly paved roads takes several hours, and that the result is always better if drivers are careful as they drive over the new pavement.

"We just ask that people drive slowly over roads that have just been paved. That really helps out in the long run," Thorne said.

He noted that a video tape was made of the demolition and construction of the Glendale Bridge, and that the tape is interesting to watch. It is available at the roads department office, and persons may borrow it for viewing, Thorne said.

The administrator also announced that his staff will be striping numerous road-

Deadline Passes; No Word On GPU, State Agreement

An agreement on a selling price for Deep Creek Lake was to have been met yesterday between GPU, the current owner of the lake, and the state of Maryland. However, the day passed with no word from the officials. No information on any sort of agreement or extension has been announced.

The Memorandum of Understanding, or MOU, signed by GPU and the state this spring designated the Sept. 30 deadline, and up until this week, the entities reported that they were striving to meet the date. All other negotiations, including the future management of the lake, can not be initiated until the selling price is set, according to officials.

YOUNG MISS BUTLER IS GARRETT'S MOST BEAUTIFUL — Heather Butler, a 16-year-old Northern High School sophomore, was honored by the Garrett County commissioners this week as she accepted the designation of Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person. Miss Butler has logged over 1,700 volunteer hours at area nursing homes, having starting offering her assistance at the age of 8. "We couldn't be happier about this for Heather," said Joanne Hersh, health director at the Mountain Glade Adult Medical Day Care center, where the teenager now helps regularly. "When Heather started, she was helping in the Alzheimer unit, and anyone who knows anything about that illness also knows how difficult her job was. She is the perfect example of a good Christian girl and we're proud of her," Hersh said. A feature story on the teenager will appear in an upcoming issue of The Republican. She will now travel to Annapolis for the gathering of all the state's Most Beautiful winners, and will be honored by the governor. In addition to recognizing Miss Butler, the commissioners also signed a document proclaiming October as Maryland's Most Beautiful People Month in Garrett County. Pictured left to right are Ms. Hersh, Commissioner Wayne Wilt, Miss Butler, Commissioner Wayne Johnson, and the teenager's parents, Sharon and Wayne Butler.

Police Report Several Mishaps On Local Roads

Maryland State Police, Barrack W McHenry, investigated and reported several accidents on local roadways during the last week.

Fails To Yield

Two drivers were injured when one failed to yield right of way, police reported. The incident occurred Monday, at 12:43 p.m. on Route 135 at G Street.

Virgie M. Welch, 72, Oakland, allegedly failed to yield when she pulled from G Street onto Route 135. Darwin E. Friend, 46, Swanton, was traveling on Route 135 at the time and struck the vehicle driven by Welch.

Friend's vehicle traveled across the eastbound land and shoulder of Route 135 and struck a [illegible] vehicle spun clockwise 90 degrees before coming to rest.

Both drivers were taken by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released. Oakland VFD also responded to the scene.

Fails Te Reduce Speed

A rear-end collision resulted on Saturday when a driver on Route 495 failed to reduce speed.

Dorothy M. Thomas, 64, Mtn. Lake Park, was northbound on Route 495 near Swanton Road around noon when a venicle traveling behind her struck the rear of her vehicle as she slowed to turn left into a private drive, police said.

The car which struck the Thomas vehicle was driven by Dennis Beckman, 41, Mtn. Lake Park. Beckman was charged with failure to reduce to speed.

Thomas and two juvenile passengers in her car were taken by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released. Deer Park VFD also responded to the scene.

Fails To Yield

An accident on Route 219 at Weber Road last Friday at 1 p.m. injured two people. Police said Opal O. Terrant, 78, Oakland, was attempting to turn left onto Route 219 from Weber Road and filed to yield the right of way to Melinda R. Phares, 40, Rowlesburg, W.Va., who was northbound on Route 219.

Both drivers were injured in the ensuing collision and were taken by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released. Oakland VFD also responded to the scene.

Hydroplanes, Flips

A vehicle traveling on I-68 last Friday morning hydroplaned in a heavy rainfall and flipped over.

Police said the driver Lindon F. Haynes, 19, Selbysville, Del., was westbound on the highway at 9:43 a.m. when the accident occurred. Haynes reportedly attempted to apply his brakes when the vehicle hydroplaned on the wet [illegible] traveled into the median, struck a ditch, and overturned two and one half times.

Haynes and two passengers, Charles D. Sharpe, 22, Seaford, Del., and Reggenal D. Carter, 20, Harrington, Del., were taken by Northern Rescue Squad to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, for treatment following the mishap.

Police charged Haynes with failure to reduce speed in dangerous highway conditions.

SIGNING ON FOR "VISION TO SCALE" — As reported in last week's issue of The Republican, local children and family service agencies achieved a significant goal last week when Garrett County was designated one of only two counties in the state as "Vision to Scale" jurisdictions. Vision to Scale is a partnership agreement between Garrett County and the state of Maryland that basically will allow local service providers to determine the needs of local children and their families — needs that are unique to Garrett County that require local specialized attention. Funds allotted to the county will then be controlled by local service providers in ways to address the difficulties and obstacles characteristic only of Garrett County. The Local Management Board (LMB), an appointed group of citizens involved in child and family service organizations, worked for 18 months to achieve the Vision to Scale status. The agreement was officially signed last Wednesday in Baltimore by Henry Brown (as pictured), chairman of the LMB (and director of the Garrett County Department of Social Services). Seated next to Brown is Linda Thompson, special secretary to the Governor's Office for Children, Youth, and Families (OCYF). Standing left to right are Lucia Ayora, member of the local Vision to Scale Negotiation Team; Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend; Earleen Beckman, negotiation team member; and Bob Stephens, director of the Garrett County OCYF.

Wisp To Host Education Board State Association

The Maryland Association of Boards of Education (MABE) will hold its annual three-day conference October 7-9 at the Wisp Resort Hotel and Conference Center, McHenry. This year's conference theme is "Student Performance — the Board's Role in Affecting Improvement."

Douglas C. Eadie, founder and president of Strategic Development Consulting Inc. and a national leader in helping organizations lead their own change, will provide the keynote address at the opening luncheon. He will also conduct an afternoon workshop, "Board/Superintendent Leadership in Design Change." Pneumococcal pneumonia is a serious disease that is responsible for a substantial number of illnesses and deaths in the United States, according to a health department spokesperson. Pneumococcal disease is caused by a bacteria which can lead to serious infection of the lungs (pneumonia), the blood stream (bacteremia), or the covering of the brain (meaingitis). People at greater risk from the disease include those 65 and older, the very young, and individuals with other health problems, such as alcoholism, heart or lung disease (including asthma), kidney failure, diabetes, HIV infection, or certain types of cancer.

Influenza, or flu, is caused by a virus with typical symptoms such as an abrupt onset of fever, aching, sore throat, headache, chills, extreme malaise (tiredness), and nonproductive cough. Influenza can lead to viral pneumonia. The flu incubation period is 24 to 72 hours, with the illness lasting two to seven days. The infectious period is approximately three days after the onset of symptoms.

Yearly vaccinations are recommended for high-risk and moderate-risk individuals because the viruses that cause flu frequently change and immunity may decrease in the year after vaccination, the spokesperson said. This year's vaccine contains A/Beijing, A/Sydney, B/Beijing, and B/Harbin influenza viral components.

Persons who have questions about either vaccine should contact their physicians or the local health department at 301-334-8111 or 301-895-3111.

Historical Soc. To Host High Point Group

Gene and Lillian Elliott, the Silver Spring couple who have worked for over two years to preserve the point of highest elevation in Maryland, located in southern Garrett County, will meet with the Garrett County Historical Society board on Sunday afternoon. The Elliotts hope to pursue their goal of establishing the Friends of Backbone organization, the purpose of which is to maintain the high point site, as well as a path to the apex.

In the past two years, the Elliotts have worked to establish a path to the high point, with the lane beginning in West Virginia, just across the state line. They blazed a trail to the site, marking trees and rocks to guide hikers up the mountainside. A sign-up book at the highest point proved that hundreds of individuals made tue climb, including Senator Paul Sarbanes and his family this summer.

The West Virginia Forest Service recently took out the blaze marks, however, and informed the Elliotts that access would no longer be available to hikers on the W.Va. side. Intense logging has also taken place in the area, changing the path dramatically, the Elliotts reported, and making the climb more difficult.

Now the pair is seeking help from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, having met recently with John Braskey and other state officials. They hope to establish a Garrett County entry to the high point, although the specifics of the plan have not yet been determined. In the past year, the Elliotts have met with the Garrett County commissioners on the issue, and have worked closely with local Boy Scouts, who had hoped to be the caretakers of the path (which is now basically destroyed).

In their meeting with the Historical Society, the Elliotts hope to convey the historic importance of the high point. They have obtained T-shirts for Friends of Backbone and other items in the hope that more interest can be raised among residents, who then may help in the cause.

Election Board Notes Deadlines

The Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County issued a list of election deadlines this week for those persons who wish to register, apply for an absentee ballot, or file as a write-in candidate.

The last date to register to vote or to change address is Oct. 5 at 9 p.m. The deadline for applying for absentee ballots is Oct. 27 at 4:30 p.m. (or by fax received by midnight), and the last date to file as a write-in candidate is Oct. 28 at 5 p.m.

The General Election will be held on Nov. 3. County polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Self-Sufficiency Summit Funded; Slated This Month

The Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC), in cooperation with several other service groups in the area, will host a summit on self-sufficiency in October. The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has awarded a $10,000 grant to GCCAC to help fund the event.

According to an announcement of the grant from Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski, the money will specifically be used to organize the summit, which organizers hope will bring together 100 participants from state and local government and non-government organizations to create a strategic plan aimed at increasing the self-sufficiency of Garrett County families.

The plan created by these participants, who are to represent economic development, housing, job training, and community development sectors, will strengthen relationships among family support institutions and will encourage the efficient use of family support resources.

In addition to the ARC funds, the state of Maryland will provide $29,000 for the summit, and the Garrett County Office of Children, Youth, and Families will contribute $2,655 in matching funds.

More information on the summit will be published as it becomes available.

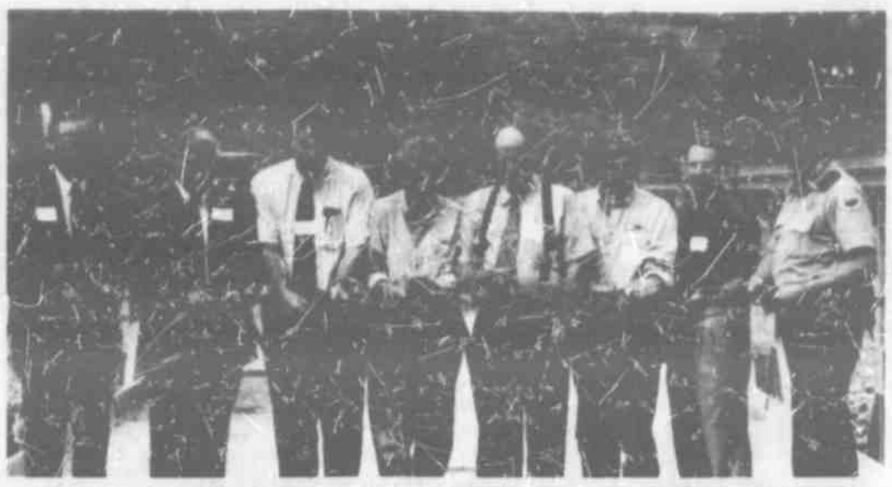
Resident Refuse Site Stickers Going On Sale

The 1998 refuse site vehicle permits will go on sale October 1, according to Rodney Glotfelty, director of Garrett County's Office of Solid Waste and Recycling. Applications may be picked up at area refuse collection sites, all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library, and offices located at the county courthouse.

Individuals may also obtain an application by logging onto the department's web site at www.co.garrett.md.us/gcsw/home.htm. Permits may be purchased by mailing or returning in person the completed application with appropriate fees to the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste, 3118 Oakland-Sang Run Road, Oakland, MD 21550.

The 1999 stickers, which will be magenta in color, must be permanently affixed to all vehicles gaining entrance to the sites after Dec. 31, 1998, when the old stickers expire. The 1999 stickers may be used immediately upon purchase to gain entrance to the collection sites either by placing them on previously unregistered vehicles or by replacing the 1998 stickers on registered vehicles.



The fee for registering an initial household vehicle continues to be $20. Other household vehicles may be registered for an additional $10 per vehicle. Individuals who rarely utilize a second or third vehicle to access the sites may wish to purchase bag stickers. These may be placed on individual bags of garbage brought to the sites without registering the vehicle. The cost for a sticker is only $.50 and may be used on bags of garbage up to 13 gallons in size. Larger bags brought to the sites require two stickers.

Bag stickers may be purchased at Arrowhead Grocery at Thayerville, Slopeside Market/Citgo Gas Station at McHenry, Foodland Fresh at McHenry, Get n' Go in Oakland, The Funny Farm in Friendsville, the Swanton Grocery, and the Chestnut Ridge Amoco, near Grantsville. Individual bag stickers may also be purchased at the Solid Waste and Recycling office at the main landfill.

Area residents may continue to utilize the sites for recycling aluminum and bimetal cans, clear, green, and brown glass bottles, and newsprint without having to register their vehicles or using bag stickers.

The new Garrett County landfill, located 3½ miles north of Oakland on the Oakland-Sang Run Road, and the Grantsville collection site also accept motor oil generated from residences at no charge. Number 2 plastic bottles and jugs are also accepted at the King's Run Road and Grantsville collection sites at no charge.

Any questions concerning Garrett County's refuse site collection program may be directed to the Office of Solid Waste and Recycling by phone at 301-387-0322 or by e-mail at gcsw@gcnet.net.

State's Deep Creek Advisory Committee Meets

The Deep Creek Lake Advisory and Review Committee (DCLARC, a group appointed by the state of Maryland and not be confused with the local Deep Creek Lake Advisory Committee) met on Sept. 24 at Garrett Community College to continue discussion on recommendations for the future management of Deep Creek Lake.

According to a press release from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), three key issues were addressed by the group:

1. Concerns from the Maryland Bass Federation about the committee's previous recommendation to exclude the group from representation on a future management group. The committee members agreed to reconsider the issue at another meeting.

2. Paul Durham, DNR manager of the lake, reiterated DNR's goal to protect the status quo management of Deep Creek, to protect the rights of all visitors and users, and to preserve the nature resources of the lake. He also explained the criteria DNR will use to evaluate any recommendation for changes proposed by the committee.

3. The committee reviewed a variety of lake management issues, as well as the role it will play in working with the DNR after the lake is acquired.

The next DCLARC meeting will be held this evening at 7 p.m. in the GCC Continuing Education Building.

WELCOME TO GARRETT COUNTY - A basket of local goodies, including maple syrup and jam, was presented by Garrett County school superintendant Dr. Wendell Teeta to Elizabeth Pike, director of federal relations for the office of Gov. Parris Glendening. Pike was visiting the county to participate in the Reading Across Maryland kick-off event. Members of the governors cabinet and staff read to children in class rooms statewide. See photo on page A-1 and story about the reading initiative.

Reading Across Maryland Begins For Rising Stars

To encourage children to spend more time reading, Gov. Parris Glendening's office kicked-off the 1998-99 Reading Across Maryland — Rising Star Initiative.

All schools across Maryland were asked by the governor's office to begin reading at 9 a.m. in observation of this program. Representatives from his office went to each Maryland county to read to children for this event.

The Reading Across Maryland program is a joint effort between the governor's Office for Children, Youth, and Families, and the Maryland State Department of Education.

Gov. Glendening has again challenged students to read 10 books before the end of the school year. Seven of Garrett County's schools achieved 100% participation in this program last year: Accident, Broad Ford, Crellin, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Swan Meadow, and Yough Glades.

Maryland children who meet the challenge will again earn a special Rising Star certificate. Last year more than 300,000 Maryland children met the goal and received their certificates. The governor's goal for the 1998-99 year is to double the participation. Garrett County's goal is that all elementary schools will achieve 100% in this initiative.

is so hard to find. That delicate mix of unique and thoughtful.

Painted portraits have long been considered the ultimate gesture of sentiment. For centuries we've looked through the eyes of the artist to see the true character and spirit of humanity. Your friends and neighbors may already have appeared in such paintings depicting our culture and traditions. For almost a decade, local artist, Laura Stutzman has used real life, Garrett Countians as models for her editorial and advertising art. Their faces have adorned the covers of nationally published books and magazines as well as advertisements for clients like IBM and MCI. Now, she's introducing non-commercial work to her portfolio.

The possibilities are limitless... a traditional portrait, perhaps incorporating a hobby or profession into the theme, or a special place as the background. In fact, that special place may be what you'd love to have a painting of... your garden or a favorite view from the kitchen window at a particular time of year. A portrait of your home and its landscape can be a wonderful addition to the family record and an heirloom that's perfect for passing down from generation to generation.

Whether you're hoping to capture the next generation before she graduates or man's best friend and all his loyalty, the warmth and appeal of a hand painted image is timeless.

We Cried, We Pondered...

It was standing room only at Faith Evangelical Church in Mtn. Lake Park last night, where several hundred local residents gathered for what was to be an incredible concert by the African Children's Choir. The 16 members of the choir, who ranged in age from about 9 to 12, were true professionals, whose energy, enthusiasm, adorability, and sheer talent were both mesmerizing and extremely uplifting. Their performance spawned many tears, and also caused those in attendance to ponder some profound thoughts about our world and life in general.

One was the realization of how much extraordinary potential in so many human beings is never cultivated because of their particular life situations. Most of these children were plucked from villages in East Africa in conditions of utter despair and hopelessness. Some were orphaned, as their parents had either been mercilessly slaughtered in civil warfare or had died from disease and/or starvation. Yet, the African Children's Choir program, founded in 1984 by Ray Barnett, has provided opportunity for these children; not only an opportunity to simply survive, but also to become educated and then return to their home nation to become leaders in their society. A number of former choir members are today making a significant, positive impact in their respective countries. So reaching a handful is now reaching thousands. What a tragedy, and what a loss for our world, that so many millions of people never receive such an opportunity.

There was also the realization of how education, coupled with faith, love, and attention, is the single most important ingredient to tapping that potential and pulling oneself out of despair.

Another was how much we take for granted our own education system, and the fact that an education is, by law, absolutely guaranteed to each and every one of our children. In many nations an education is still a luxury, and unavailable to the masses. Yet we spend so much of our time and energy griping about all that is wrong with our education system.

Another thought that came to the mind of at least one other member of the audience was that, if all of the world's ambassadors were children, we would probably have no more wars. "Out of the mouths of babes..."

Also realized at that concert was the fact that one person, such as Ray Barnett, can truly make a huge difference in the lives of thousands when one sees a need and responds to it with faith, hope, charity, and a lot of hard work.

Finally, it was exceedingly heartwarming to see so many Garrett Countians attend the concert and welcome these beautiful children with open arms, cheers, and loud applause. If every person in every nation would attend a program like this one, at least once, there is no question that the world would be a better place for all.

Just Tryin' To Finish A Sentence
by Mary Slacell McEwen

Lots of people are going to be headed this way next week for the famous Autumn Glory Festival. A ritual, a rite, a comfortable few days of fall fun when folks get together to dance or sing or watch a parade or two. I love the feeling of taking part in such a ritual — it somehow gives balance and joy. It makes me think that people are really noticing the beauty that is Garrett County, at least for a little while, and are truly celebrating it. I lived in North Carolina for about five years after college, and while springtime in that state is fantastic, the remaining seasons left me feeling homesick. Especially autumn. I remember swimming on November 1 and thinking how strange that was. And I remember turning on the air conditioner well into that month. I wanted to be home then.

So it's here again, that fun fest, and I am home, thankfully. The leaves are doing their thing and the Oompah Band is practicing. People now spread all over the country are thinking about driving home, or are maybe wishing they could. Many will arrive next week, and I'll probably get to see some old friends. Reunions always take place during the AGF. In fact, some friends only see each other one time a year, and that's during the festival. We take a second to look past the ravages of age and parenthood, and then we find that person we loved back then, the one we were with in those dangerous high school escapades, that one we laughed with in band or on a team, and those old flames. And while I look forward to this, I am also aware of reality: There is no possible way to visit with people after you become a parent. I assume this will change as the boys get a little older, but I have discussed this with other parents of tots and I think it's true for all of us right now. Here's the scene:

"Oh, my gosh, hi! How are you? What have — "

"Mommy! Alex is sitting on my head!"

"Alex, get off Rob's head. What have you been doing with your—"

"Mommy! Rob hit me! You said we aren't supposed to hit!"

"Well, he spit on me!"

"Quit hitting, quit spitting. So, what's going on?" Michael decides to climb my legs and up my torso. "I'm a 'nake," he says, hissing.

"You look great —" Michael hisses right into my face. "I'm a 'nake, Mom." I crane my neck to see around him. "Where are you living now?"

And then the friend I'm speaking to is called upon. "Mom! Where's the potty?"

And so it goes. I saw one of my best friends from high school this summer and, even though we were together for an hour or more at my parents' pool, I think the extent of our conversation would have taken up about six minutes. For the remaining 54, we were wrestling children. She was busy helping her daughter get accustomed to all the people while dipping her little son in the pool (he didn't want to go clear in), and I was distracted by my sons, who were striving to drown one another. While Judy and I tried desperately to have some sort of conversation, it was completely obliterated by the needs of our offspring. We sort of looked longingly at each other and said something like "I wish we could just go somewhere and talk for a day or two —" "MOMMY!"

Even talking on the phone is difficult. As all parents know, the phone is a magical tool for children. When they see us using it, they know we are basically tied to the wall for an undetermined length of time. It is their chance for an all-out melee, an assault upon their enemies (a.k.a. siblings or the cat), and/or a strike on the refrigerator. A child can do amazingly naughty things just feet away from a telephone-bound adult, often with a facial expression similar to that of a psychopath. So the phone conversation is comparable to the in-person exchange:

"Hey, I can't believe it's you! How the heck are ya?" CRASH.

"Oh, geez, hang on a second! Michael just pulled over the box of videos and now he's swimming in them —"

I get back to the phone and try again. "Sorry about that. So, how's life treating you?" Then she puts me on hold while she gets her kid's toothbrush out of the dog's ear. It's just hopeless. Every now and then I get determined to have a somewhat complete conversation, and I just keep steaming ahead with talk while the boys run amuck. This generally results in some really loud yelling, which regrettably hurts the ear of the person on the other end, since in my wrath I forget to cover the mouthpiece. It's far worse when the person I'm speaking to is not a parent. I know they don't really understand at all, even though they say, "Oh, it's okay. I don't mind." These statements are then often followed by, "Um, I have to go now, uh, I have a monstrous hangnail to see to, and, um, the fish need a bath . . . Bye now."

So, if any of you old friends of mine get here for the AGF, let's try to at least say hello. We won't get much else out, but we'll know, in our hearts, that we could gab for hours.

Letters to the Editor

To tha Editor:

I am a handicapped man in a wheelchair. A lot of the stores and sidewalks are not accessible to a wheelchair. It makes it very inconvenient to shop.

Some of the sidewalks are so narrow and there are some with high drop-offs at the end of them.

I would appreciate it if there could be something done about this situation.

Sincerely,
Russell Welch Jr.

To tha Editor:

Joan Sussman ended her Dittinger column of August 24th by commenting on the scandal in Washington as being personal — no one's business but the president's and his family's.

Well, what goes on in the Oval Office of the White House is supposed to be business conducted for the people of the United States. Therefore, it is our business, Mrs. Sussman. What goes on in the residential quarters of the White House would certainly be private, but the last I heard, the Oval Office still belongs to the people.

I wonder if I were to have a sexual affair with someone in Mrs. Sussman's living room, would she consider it to be my own personal business? I should think not!!

Liberals have a way of changing their tune when things hit close to home.

To the Editor:

I have known DeCorsey Bolden for 14 years and I feel that the citizens of Garrett County can be proud of "Corsey."

DeCorsey served in Annapolis for 12 years. On September 22 I was invited to Martins West in Baltimore County for a political function, and I ran into a few of the other delegates who served with DeCorsey and are still serving their districts. They all said that DeCorsey was a real gentleman and he served with more dedication for his area than others.

Delegate Michael Weir, who chairs the Environmental Matters Committee, said that he had never met such a dedicated person and that he has been missed. DeCorsey, Mike said to tell you a public "hello" from him. Delegate Weir has hunted up here with me, but he never recognized me without my hat, and because I had on a three-piece suit.

As an opponent of DeCorsey's during the past couple months, I felt something special when I spoke to him, and Garrett County can feel proud of such a person living here in our area.

I have never been much at compliments, but DeCorsey Bolden deserves one. If successful in my campaign, I would invite DeCorsey to go with me to Annapolis.

Thanks, DeCorsey.

To the Editor:

Overheard: "The important thing is that he is a home grown boy and that Faulkner guy is not. That's what's important here. We've got to keep the good old boys in there."

The name is Falter and to each his own. However, I would like to point out that what's really important is that you realize that it is more than who the person is — it is what he/she stands for. That's what's important.

For example: the 219 superhighway being proposed for Garrett County will require a huge amount of federal highway funds. Now what a lot of people don't know is that 16 billion dollars was transferred out of the Veterans Trust Fund for Health Care to help pay for this and other projects like it. My question to you is this. Is this how you want to treat the people who were willing to put their lives on the line for you? Congressman Roscoe Bartlett doesn't think so; he voted against the Transportation Bill for that reason.

My treasurer, Dick Friend (who by the way, is as home grown as you can get), doesn't think so. Dick is also a decorated war hero who was awarded The Distinguished Service Cross, our nation's second highest award.

I am irate that our government, once again dem-

Domestic Violence Awareness Month

Recognizing The Signs Of Abuse

by Linda Spaasil
Executive Director, The Dove Center

What is domestic violence? Domestic violence is the debilitating experience of being physically, psychologically, and/or sexually abused. It is associated with increased isolation, limited personal freedom and accessibility to resources. It is used to control, dominate, or hurt another within an intimate relationship. Primarily a learned behavior, its effects, without intervention, become more destructive over time.

Whenever a person is placed in physical danger or controlled by the threat or use of physical force, this person has been the victim of domestic violence. The risk for this type of violence is greater when the victim is separated from the support of friends and family members by the abuser.

Three types of abuse characterize domestic violence:

- Physical abuse is usually recurrent and escalates in both frequency and severity. It may include any of the following: pushing, shoving, slapping, punching, kicking, or choking; assault with a weapon; holding, tying down or restraining a person, or leaving a person in a dangerous place; or refusing to help when a person is sick or injured.
- Emotional or psychological abuse may precede or accompany physical violence as a means of controlling through fear and degradation. It may include any of the following: threats of harm; threats of harm to the victim's children; physical and social isolation; extreme jealousy and possessiveness; deprivation; intimidation; calling the victim names, constantly criticizing, insulting, or belittling; making false accusations or blaming the victim for anything that is wrong; ignoring, dismissing, or ridiculing the victim's needs; lying, breaking promises, or destroying trust; or driving fast and recklessly to frighten and intimidate the victim.
- Sexual abuse in violent relationships is often the most difficult aspect of abuse to discuss. It may include any form of forced sex or sexual degradation such as any of the following: trying to make the unwilling victim perform sexual acts; pursuing sexual activity when the victim is not fully conscious, is not asked, or is afraid to say no; criticizing the victim using sexually degrading names; physically hurting the victim during sex or assaulting the genitals, which could include using objects; coercing the victim to have sex without protection against pregnancy or sexually transmitted diseases; or forcing a person to have sex with or in front of others.

Victims of domestic violence report that abusers often use an array of tactics, including physical, sexual, and psychological abuse to dominate and hurt them.

Physical battering or the threat of violence is often used to enforce a position of dominance for the abuser. Once established, other tactics such as threats, intimidation, isolation, and degradation may result in the same degree of compliance in the victim.

Consequently, though reporting that physical abuse has not occurred in the recent past, the victim may continue to feel controlled by the abuser's previously demonstrated ability to follow through on threats.

Persons wishing further information or assistance may contact the Dove Center at 301-334-9000.

PLACE FOR THE WILD THINGS

Last year I made a change in my chicken house, partly because I had too many hens and partly because the weather was so hot and dry. In order to increase the air circulation, I made a rough wire screen for the doorway by knocking together a frame out of two-by-fours with a piece of one-inch-by-two-inch wire fencing tacked to it. I let the door stand open, and then fitted the frame into place. Because this frame is unhinged, I lean an old locust fencepost against the frame.

A week ago Wednesday was the first morning of autumn. I was sitting on the porch drinking my cup of coffee and saying my prayers when I saw chickens out on the lawn. The coop had been closed the night before, but I remembered that the fence post had not been quite straight.

Upon inspection, the frame was still in the doorway, but the hens had evidently put pressure on it, and had swiveled it enough to make an opening. Through that opening they had made their way onto the yard.

I tried to lure them back into the pen with scratch corn and laying mash, but the fresh grass along with bugs and worms made a delectable breakfast for them. They did not care to be lured. Frustrated, I left them to their devices and resumed my place on the porch, recommencing my prayers.

By that time it was not quite seven o'clock. The sun had not yet come over the woods, which stands 800 feet from my house. The hens were helping themselves, and were scattered around the barnyard.

All of a sudden I heard a squawk from a hen hunting solo between the garage and the house. I looked in the direction of the sound just in time to see a red-tail hawk rising and flapping his way over the garage and to a stand of trees by the barn foundation.

Why the hawk had been unsuccessful in lifting off with the hen I do not know. By the time I looked the attack was over, and the getaway was taking place. That hawk came hunting within 20 feet of my house.

I often admire the hawks which hunt on this farm. A sparrow hawk (kestrel) hunts from the electric wire along my lane. The redtail hawks nest on the corner of the woods. I often see them hunting in the fields between here and there. They soar high, and then dive straight down as if falling out of the sky.

Last spring I saw a great horned owl looking over my hens. It was near dusk, and I was on my porch. I saw the massive figure swoop low over the barnyard before taking up a place in the locust tree by the garden. In the fading light I could see its silhouette in the tree. The cat's ears confirmed my initial identification. I often hear hooting in that same woods where the redtails nest, but in 15 years that was the first time I had actually seen an owl here.

These are not anecdotes of great moment, I guess. They do indicate that wildlife has made a substantial comeback during the past 30 years in my postage-stamp corner of the globe. They also suggest that the one hen I lost over the past six weeks might not have been due to foxes, as I would have ordinarily assumed.

The experiences also remind me that however desirable it is to live with wildlife, the wildlife does remain truly wild. The great horned owl and the redtail hawk are no respecters of property. Perhaps in the language of owls and hawks they say the same of me.

We of the species homo sapiens need to make sure that there is room enough for our wild neighbors. Having done that we also need to ensure that our gates and fences are sturdy and in pl[illegible]

Pysell Crosscut Barn Burglaries Net Chainsaws

A pair of burglaries from a barn located off the western end of Pysell Crosscut Road have resulted in the loss of six Stihl chainsaws, according to a report filed with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this past week.

Three of the chainsaws were apparently taken while the complainant was out of town over the past two years, while three more chainsaws were reportedly taken this past weekend. Although no serial numbers were readily available, the models of the Stihl chainsaws, bearing the company's trademark silver and orange color scheme, were as follows: 015L; 023; 025; 032, 038; and 064. The total loss in the case is estimated at $1,515.

In other sheriff's news, three persons were arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated recently: Jamie Edward Dropplenian, 18, Swanton; Angela Jean Hebb, 26, Oakland; and Joseph Charles Marshall II, 23, Baltimore.

RECYCLERS WIN BIG — Persons who took the time and effort to recycle this year were given the opportunity to enter a raffle event, sponsored by the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling and over 20 local donating businesses. The drawing was held last week in the Garrett County commissioners' meeting room, with the winners being drawn by the county attorney, Gorman Getty (at right). Nikki Brown, shown at left, announced the winners and what they had won. The grand prize, which was a gift certificate to McCliva's Restaurant, was won by David Coleman, Swanton. John Minning, Eglon, W.Va., won first prize, which was a Cornish Manor Restaurant gift certificate. Tom Graybill, Oakland, won a gift certificate to Denny's Restaurant, and Ron Upperman, Oakland, won a bag of Maryland Environmental Service compost. Recycling containers were won by Tom Hudson, Oakland, Thomas Pasaini, Friendsville, and Bill Paugh, Swanton. Commissioners Wayne Johnson and Wayne Witt are shown as they watch the drawing take place. Brown expressed thanks to all the businesses who donated to the program and to all the individuals who recycled materials. She noted that there is no charge or fee to bring recyclables to the collection sites. Number 2 plastics, newspapers, phone books, office paper, glass bottles and jars, aluminum and bi-metal cans, motor oil, and antifreeze can be deposited at the sites. Sexual Harassment, Discrimination To Be Women's Workshop Topics

Linda Fike, personnel director at Garrett Community College, will present the workshop "Take Control of Your Life" on Thursday, Oct. 8, at 10 a.m. in Room 305 of the Continuing Education Building at GCC. This program is free and open to the public.

Included in the presentation will be a discussion of job interview questions that are illegal and an exploration of various ways to respond to those questions. "By learning to recognize and address sexual harassment and inappropriate interview questions, a person builds the foundation needed to understand job options and take control of his or her life," Fike explained.

The workshop is sponsored by the New Dimensions Program, the New Horizons Program, and The Caring Connection Program of Garrett Community College, under the direction of Barbara Frey. For additional information or to register, interested persons may contact Frey at 301-387-3071 or Virginia Jeffrey, intake/counselor specialist for the New Dimensions and The Caring Connection programs, at 301-387-3103.

The New Horizons program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the New Horizons Program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is approximately 90% of the total program budget, with GCC contributing an additional $5,300, which is approximately 10% of the total budget. The Caring Connection is 100% funded by the Maryland State Department of Education in the amount of $20,000. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources.

onstrates how little it regards our veterans and the service that they have given to the country. There are many other reasons that I am opposed to the superhighway, but our government's taking even a dollar from our veterans is at the top of the list.

My opponent has stated, "The proposed route is essentially aligned with Route 219, which passes through Garrett County. If all of the states between Canada and Florida support the concept, then Garrett County should not block its progress."

What's really important here?

George Falter, Jr.,
Candidate
Commissioner
District 3

To the Editor:

Is Garrett County about to lose control of Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH)?? And to an out-of-county, out-of-state, for-profit organization?

What is GCMH? Since the question of affiliation has surfaced, I have tried to find out. Here is what I have been told. GCMH was built on land willed by the late George Loar for that purpose. Title to the land and buildings is held by Garrett County. GCMH bonds are guaranteed by Garrett County. GCMH is controlled by an antonomous, unpaid Board of Governors set up by the Garrett County Commissioners(?) to operate the hospital as a not-for-profit general hospital for the county. The board of governors consist of 15 members(?), of which six are appointed by the county commissioners and one from the GCMH Foundation(?). The present board chairwoman is Joyce Bishoff. The operation of the hospital is controlled by the CEO, a paid position, presently held by Walter Donalson.

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation (GCMHF) is a charitable foundation, which supports the GCMH and provides a channel for charitable donations to support the hospital. The Foundation has no control over the hospital and only one member(?) on the board of governors. Co-chairs of the Foundation are Elaine McDonald and Joyce Bishoff, chairwoman of the GCMH board of governors.

The GCMH board of governors has selected the West Virginia United Health System with whom to negotiate an affiliation agreement. It has been stated that while the GCMH is in a reasonable position financially at present, patient volume and length of stays have been decreasing, therefore overall revenue has also been decreasing while expenses have been increasing. Reasons are decreased Medicare/Medicaid funding and influence of HMOs, and increased regulations.

Affiliation with a larger health organization is touted as a means to reduce expenses through consolidation of some functions. Further, Walter Donalson has stated that "the county has no Board-Certified Specialists now, and that affiliation might encourage some specialists to visit regularly" (Cumberland Times-News article, 9/27/98). Does Garrett County really not have any Board-Certified Specialists available??

Now that the health system has been selected with whom to negotiate an affiliation agreement, the need for secrecy should be over. I believe that your comment on my letter of April 4, 1998 published in The Republican, indicated your confidence that the hospital board would do all the right things and that the public would be kept informed. Now is the time to start that process. The Garrett County general public should be informed of the terms of affiliation before the agreement is finalized. I am further concerned that none of the county commissioners is a member of the negotiating team! In addition to the general public views, what are the views of the local medical community, the GCMH Foundation, and GCMH staff on affiliation, and are they being kept informed? We all have a stake in the outcome of this process!

Why am I concerned? In the news reports concerning affiliation, several words are troubling me. One report indicates that the board negotiating team will "try" to insure that control of GCMH remains in the County. It was also reported in the Cumberland Times News on 9/27/98 that board chairwoman Joyce Bishoff stated "the board of governors is very interested in maintaining local governance over the hospital and continuing with the present management team." Sorry, "try" and "very interested" are just not good enough! The words should be "insist"! If control of GCMH does not remain in the county, there should be no affiliation!! Again, Garrett County owns the GCMH building and real estate, and has also guaranteed the GCMH bonds, as I understand! How can we permit control of the hospital to be outside the county?

We are all aware of the reasons for reduced hospital revenue. Part of GCMH's short-fall can be, and evidently, is being accommodated by staff downsizing. Further, while I am opposed to any increase in county taxes, I would prefer an increase over the county losing control of GCMH. I would support the use of county funds to narrow the gap between GCMH revenue and expenses. (I can't believe I really said that I would support a tax increase!) After all, county funds are used for education, roads and public safety. The hospital benefits the whole population, as does these functions. County funds may be better spent for the hospital than for a Visitors' Center and Chamber of Commerce.

An associated matter is the reduction in patients and staff at GCMH. The WMHS (Western Maryland Health System) Community Newsletter insert in the 9/29/98 Cumberland Times-News quotes the Maryland Hospital Association as stating that Maryland hospitals have seen a 25% decline in patient days over the last five years, and that GCMH's margin has declined 18.5% during 1996-98. I also understand that there has been a 25% reduction in GCMH staff. If there was such a reduction in hospital patients and staff, I wonder what the need was to evict the Health Dept. from the hospital. The County now must budget funds to house the Health Dept. somewhere else. It would seem that if the Health Dept. remained housed at the hospital, these county funds could be applied to the hospital shortfall!

In summary, let's find a way to keep GCMH operating and its control in Garrett County! This can best be accomplished by keeping the public informed of the status and needs of GCMH, and involving them in the solutions.

Sincerely,
Carl Roberts
Oakland

Dear Mr. Roberts:

In conferring with board chairman Joyce Bishoff about your concerns, and having served on the hospital board myself for 18 years, I offer the following responses to some of your concerns/points:

The board is not "set up by the county commissioners." It is set up according to Mr. Loar's original design, which has been modified a couple of times via legislation. The commissioners each have one appointee to the board and they, themselves, each have a seat on the board. However, if they choose not to serve, each can then appoint someone to serve in his/her stead.

The statement made by Mr. Donalson that appeered in the Times-News was taken out of context and, thus, gave the reader information that was different from what was intended. A full-page ad in this issue of The Republican provides the correct information as to board certification of GCMH's medical staff, which is over 90%.

The board members are just as concerned about maintaining local control as you are, and they will do everything to see that such is accomplished. But they also recognize that there may have to be some changes, perhaps even some concessions. But concessions aren't always a negative thing. Your opinion is that the hospital should do everything it can to remain totally independent, but such may not be in the best interest of the people who need and utilize the hospital's services. In order to remain totally independent, the hospital would likely have to become a bare-bones operation. It simply would not be able to afford to provide a number of its current services, let alone additional ones that are needed. For example: The hospital on at least three occasions has explored the possibility of providing renal dialysis services since there are several local persons who must travel to Cumberland, Morgantown, or elsewhere several times a week for this treatment. Yet each and every time, it was found to be simply un-affordable. With an affiliation with a larger institution, perhaps such a service would become possible at GCMH.

I totally agree with you about the extreme importance of our hospital, and perhaps the county should offer to provide some financial assistance to the institution. However, given the nationwide trends in health care, the county would have to eventually provide not thousands, but perhaps a couple million dollars annually to keep the hospital solvent as a free-standing institution. If, for example, the state of Maryland loses its Medicare waiver, which is a real possibility, Garrett Memorial will experience an immediate loss of between two and three million dollars of income.

There are many other concerns and points in your letter that should be addressed, and Mrs. Bishoff said just this morning that the board plans to respond to the concern that the public should be well informed on the process and progress of negotiation/affiliation, via the media and board representatives arranging to speak at local meetings of various civic organizations. It is hoped that all citizens will be given the opportunity to ask questions and voice concerns.

On behalf of my former colleagues on the board, thank you for your continued interest and concern about the future of our hospital and health care in Garrett County.

Sincerely yours,
Don Sincell

Teens May Earn Service Learning Hours At Theatre

Teenagers who are working toward earning the required 40 hours of community based service learning may obtain some of those hours at the Our Town Theatre in Oakland. Several activities and events are planned at the theatre that will require the help of others, and students are encouraged to take part, according to Jane Avery, artistic director.

From the beginning of a Garrett County student's freshman year in high school until the end of his or her junior year, he or she must accumulate 40 service learning hours to obtain the status of senior. While numerous teenagers fulfill their requirements long before they are required to do so, others wait until the last minute and end up not being allowed to share senior privileges, Avery said. It is for this reason that the theatre management is offering teenagers several chances to earn the 40 hours.

The following activities are listed for the month of October at the Our Town Theatre:

Oct. 6, 7-9 p.m.: The first Our Town Theatre Cookie Bake. Using ingredients and equipment at the theatre, students will help prepare treats for the Autumn Glory Bake Sale.

Oct. 9, 7-11 p.m.: Coffee House for Adults. Volunteers can work as waiters or waitresses, serving adults coffee and snacks.

Oct. 10, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.: The Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade. Students are needed to carry theatre signs in the parade. Costumes will be provided to all participants.

Oct. 17, 2-5 p.m.: The first Costume-Making Workshop. In order to encourage more creativity among youngsters, Our Town Theatre will offer its assistance in making children's costumes for Halloween. For a fee of $6, the theatre will provide materials and assistance to young children to help them create outfits for the Halloween Parade. Teenagers are needed to assist the children and the supervisors. They are also needed to help carve pumpkins to decorate the theatre, Avery added.

Oct. 22-24, 29-31, 8-9:30 p.m.: The Devil and Daniel Webster. Ushers are needed for the performances of the play.

Students who wish to partake in any of these activities should call the theatre at 301-334-5640 a week ahead of the scheduled event.

Birth Certificates To Be Available At Health Dept.

The Garrett County Health Department has announced that certified copies of birth certificates will be available as of Thursday, Oct. 1, through the health department in collaboration with the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's (DHMH) Division of Vital Records. This will make it more convenient for Garrett County residents to obtain an official copy of their birth certificate, as applicants were previously required to obtain these certificates, either by mail or in person, from the Division of Vital Records office in Baltimore.

Many Marylanders have experienced some confusion surrounding birth certificates. The birth registration card issued to parents after the birth of a child is not considered an official document. Only certified certificates of live birth with a raised state seal are accepted as legal documentation and are necessary for school registration, out-of-country travel and for the issuance of drivers' licenses. The collaboration between DHMH and the health department simplifies the process for obtaining official birth certificates.

Health department vital records staff will be responsible for determining an applicant's authorization for receiving a birth certificate. Copies of birth certificates can be issued only upon the request of the individual to whom the record relates — a parent, guardian or other authorized representative of the individual — or on order of a court of competent jurisdiction. Applicants requesting copies in person are required to present a valid photo ID as documentation of authorization.

Most applicants born in Maryland after 1944 will have records in the database and will be issued a copy of their birth certificate on the spot. The processing fee for each certificate already in the database will be $10. Applicants in Garrett County whose birth records are not yet in the database will have their applications processed locally, and birth certificates will be mailed from Baltimore to their address. The processing fee for this transaction will be $6 per certificate.

For more information, interested persons may contact the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-1599 or 301-334-3113.

Northern, Southern Girls Battle To 1-1 Stalemate

In one of the most entertaining athletic events of the year, the Northern and Southern high school girls' soccer teams squared off at Husky Stadium last Thursday night. The Huskies and the Rams came into the match with identical 3-1 records, each having lost only to Bishop Walsh. They played two 40-minute halves of soccer, plus two 10-minute overtime periods, and when it was all over, the county bragging rights were not decided, as the contest ended in a 1-1 stalemate.

The first half was all defense, with Northern's Ashley Warnick and Southern's Becky Martin turning away a number of shots on goal. The Huskies finally broke the ice with just 14:08 remaining in the match when Kara Kenner broke through the stingy Ram defense and scored an unassisted goal.

Southern's Sara Teets responded about 10 minutes later with her own unassisted goal at the 4:16 mark to knot the score and ultimately send the contest into overtime.

The Rams finished with a 17-11 edge in shots on goal and led in corner kicks by a 4-2 margin. Warnick recorded 17 saves for the Huskies, while Martin had 10 for Southern.

Each of the teams went on to record a win Tuesday night, with the Huskies crushing visiting Westmar, 8-1, and the Rams getting by host Fort Hill, 2-1. (See separate stories.) The two teams will meet each other again on October 14 in Oakland.

Southern will host Westmar this evening and travel to Allegany next Wednesday. Northern is slated to entertain Fort Hill next Wednesday.

SHS Girls Get By Sentinels To Improve Record To 4-1-1

Despite being out-shot on goal by a 17-5 margin, the Southern High School girls' soccer team defeated host Fort Hill Tuesday night, 2-1, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League match to complete a sweep of the Sentinels for this season. The Rams defeated Fort Hill in their season opener by the same score.

The Rams' goal keeper, freshman Becky Martin, turned away 14 shots to preserve her team's one-goal victory and the Rams' second-place ranking in the area. The victory improved Southern's record to 4-1-1.

Jennifer Filsinger of Southern scored the only goal of the first half, when she put the ball into the net off an assist by Desiree Spady with just 1:37 remaining before halftime.

The Rams doubled their score at the 30-minute mark of the second half when Spady scored off a feed by Krissy Kesner.

Now you're gone and I'm a little sad, but I know you're with God, I'm so glad.

Michelle Whited cut the Rams' lead in half when she scored off an assist by Sherry Chungo with 28 minutes remaining, but that was to be the final goal of the match.

Each team had one corner kick. Becky Beeman had three saves in goal for the Sentinels, who dropped to 2-4.

The win for the Rams followed a 1-1, double-overtime tie with the Northern Huskies last Thursday (see separate story). Southern, 4-1-1 overall and 4-0-1 in the WMIL standings, will host Westmar this evening and travel to Allegany next Wednesday.

Northern Girls Crush Wildcats After 1-1 Tie With Southern

After playing to a 1-1, double-overtime tie with cross-county rival Southern last Thursday evening at the Cove (see separate story), the Northern Huskies rolled to their fourth victory of the season Tuesday night when they romped visiting Westmar, 8-1, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League encounter. The win upped the Huskies' mark to 4-1-1 overall and 4-0-1 in the WMIL.

Brooke Butler finished the evening with a hat trick for the Huskies, as she scored three goals in a row in the first half of action.

Westmar's Jamie Clark opened the scoring with a successful penalty kick in the early minutes of the first half to give the Wildcats a brief 1-0 lead. Northern's Ashley Warnick followed with a goal to tie the score. Emily Rawe then scored for the Huskies before Butler put the ball in the net three times and Kara Kenner concluded the first half of action with yet another goal for Northern. The Huskies held a commanding 6-1 advantage at intermission.

Northern coach Katie Kane moved some people around in the second half to give her young team a variety of experience at different positions. Rachel Bruch and Tricia Kamp each scored a goal for the Huskies in the second half, while Ashley Elliott and Kara Kenner worked in the goal to keep the Wildcats from scoring again.

The Huskies finished with a huge 35-5 advantage in shots on goal and also had an 8-1 advantage in corner kicks. Elliott and Kenner combined for four saves, while Westmar's Stephanie MacDonald was kept busy and finished with 25 stops.

The loss dropped the Wildcats to 0-5.

The Huskies will not play again until next Wednesday when they entertain Fort Hill.

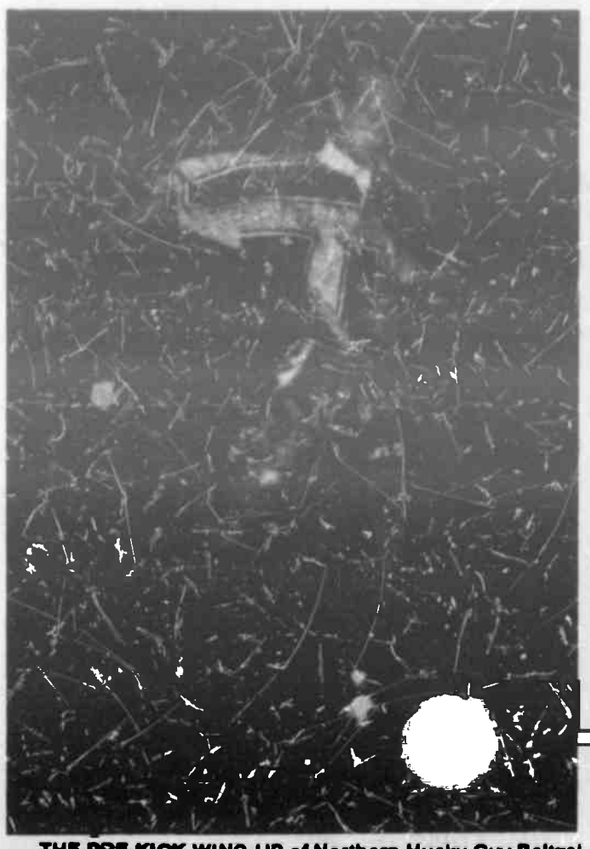
Hinebaugh Leads Husky Netters Over BW, Beall

A pair of strong performances from the service line by Rebekah Hinebaugh led the Northern High School volleyball team to a pair of victories in last week's action, as the Huskies downed Bishop Walsh and Beall to increase their record to 5-2.



Northern won the first two games at BW Monday night, 15-7 and 15-0, fell 15-6 in the third game, but stormed back to take the final 15-2. Hinebaugh tallied 18 service points and four kills, and was aided by Heidi Frazee's nine service points and six kills. Caitlyn Mullaney led the Spartans with seven service points.

The Huskies' junior varsity squad swept BW's jayvees 15-10 and 15-11. Mailia Collins had 10 service points for Northern and Seema Nagabushan tallied eight for BW.

Last night at Beall the Huskies swept their hosts by scores of 15-0, 15-9, and 15-5. Hinebaugh's 14 service points led Northern, aided by three aces and seven service points by Michele Coehlo. Frazee added two aces and three kills, Andrea McRobie contributed three kills, and Hinebaugh tallied 14 service points.

Northern's junior varsity swept its opposition for the second time in the week, defeating Beall 15-8, 15-3.

Jamie Clark put both points on the board for the Wildcats, the first on a penalty kick with 32:20 remaining in the first half, and the second on a direct kick with 10:50 left in the half.

The Huskies averted a shutout when Josh Gilpin broke loose for an unassisted goal with 13:45 remaining in the match.

High School Golfers Place High In Regionals; Two On To State

The golf teams of Northern and Southern High schools turned in excellent performances over the past week, with fine showings in Tuesday's regional tournament at Hagerstown's Black Rock Golf Course. Northern placed fifth as a team and Southern placed eighth in the 20-team field, and a pair of local golfers, the Rams' Kane Wengerd and the Huskies' A.J. Thomas, earned berths in the upcoming state tournament.

Wengerd and the Rams tuned up for the regionals by downing Bishop Walsh and Westmar this past Thursday at the Oakland Golf Club, a win that brought the Rams' regular season to a close at a 13-3 mark. Southern carded a 169 performance, while Bishop Walsh turned in a 201 and Westmar placed third with a 203. The Rams were led by Wengerd's 41, which earned him low medalist honors for the day, and close behind in the fine team showing were Bryson Paugh and Justin DiSimone with 42 each. Raphael Mazzone led the Spartans with a 48, and Zach Bittinger's 48 paced Westmar.

In the regional tourney, Middletown and Walkersville tied for the championship as each team turned in a 322. Urbana was third with a 337, Boonesboro fourth with a 340, and Northern took fifth place with a 347. Southern's 358 landed the Rams in eighth place.

Continuing his superb play, Wengerd shared low medalist honors for the tournament with Boonesboro's Matt Sullivaa as both duffers carded a 76. Walkersville's Jimmy Cunningham took third place by stroking a 77.

In 15th place was Northern's Thomas, who turned in an 83 to qualify for the state competition along with Wengerd. The Huskies' Matt Settle just missed the 83 score cutoff for states by carding an 85 in a seven-way tie for 19th place.

Rams Nipped By Grafton, 13-12, In Final Second

Disappointment is not nearly a strong enough word to describe the feeling of Southern High football coach Tom Woods, his staff, and his players that they experienced Friday night at about 9:30 p.m., which is when Grafton scored a touchdown with no time left on the clock to tie the score of the game at 12-12, and then successfully booted the extra point to send the Rams home with a stinging 13-12 defeat.

It was the third defeat in four starts for the Rams, who were supposed to be one of the area's top teams this season, but have shot themselves in the foot a crucial times during the many offensive drives.

"We made right up from the top in my 16 years of coaching as far as the level of disappointment I felt Friday night," Coach Woods said. "We had really made so much improvement on offense, and our defense has played solidly all year, with 255 yards rushing, we should have had more than six points, but again we made some crucial mistakes that cost us."

One mistake was inside by Southern running back Jason Weaver just as he was about to cross the Grafton goal line for a touchdown, and the ball was recovered in the end zone by Grafton. However, the game films show clearly that Weaver was already flat on the ground when the ball popped loose, meaning that Southern should have maintained possession inside the one-yard line.

Another controversial point in the contest was in those final seconds, when Grafton ran three plays, with the quarterback in the shotgun position, in the course of only seven seconds. With just 2.8 seconds remaining, Grafton ran two plays. There was .8 seconds remaining on the clock when the final snap of the ball was taken by Grafton quarterback Jeff Lambert, who connected with Mike Snider on the two-yard touchdown pass that set up the winning conversion kick.

"We're pretty sure it's mathematically impossible for them to have run so many plays inside 10 seconds," Coach Woods said, "especially from the shotgun position. But, there is no question that it was an outstanding drive by Lambert and Grafton's offense. They ran 10 plays in just 1:47 to win the game. We knew that Lambert was capable of this. He has a great arm."

S - Justin Lilar 3 run (run failed).

G - Ben George 6 pass from Jeff Lambert (kick blocked).

S - Jason Weaver 22 run (run failed).

G - Mike Snyder 4 pass from Lambert (kick good).

The Rams put the first points of the game on the board when quarterback Justin Lilar scored on a three-yard carry with 1:49 remaining in the first quarter. The run for the two-point conversion was no good.

There would be no more scoring until the fourth quarter, when 19 points would be put on the board in the final six minutes.

Grafton tied the score at 6-6 when Lambert hit Ben George with a six-yard scoring pass with 5:38 left in the game. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

Lilar and the Rams mounted another scoring drive that culminated with a 22-yard touchdown run by Weaver with 1:47 remaining. The run for the conversion was again stopped short by the Grafton defense and the Rams led 12-6. The ensuing kickoff went out of bounds, which gave Grafton the ball on their own 35 and set the stage for the winning drive.

Lambert connected on 16 of 30 passes for 137 yards and two touchdowns. The Ram defensive unit allowed only 17 rushing yards on 14 attempts by the Grafton ball carriers.

Weaver finished with 133 yards on 30 carries for the Rams, while Josh Bosley added 80 yards on 19 carries and Nick Dolan picked up 33 yards on just four attempts.

Pacing the Ram defense were Billy Stoner with 10 tackles and Dolan with eight.

Woods said that his players have "recovered" from the frustrating loss and are now anxious to entertain Tucker County this Friday night at home.

"The kids do a better job of getting over such things than we adults do," Woods said. "Monday and Tuesday were the two best days of practice we've had all year. The Southern-Tucker County game has become a great rivalry over the years, and we are really looking forward to Friday night."

The Mountain Lions pose a huge challenge for the Rams, as they are currently 5-0, ranked third in the West Virginia AA rankings this week, and have 10 starting seniors on each side of the ball.

The Lion offensive unit employs multiple stances, including I-formation, wing-T, and shotgun, and are led by several outstanding players. Senior running back Wes Lambert (6-0, 170) and senior split end Derek Simmons (6-3, 185) are described by Woods as "two of the most skilled, double-A players in the state of West Virginia."

The engineer for the offensive unit is senior quarterback Jason Hetrick (6-0, 160), and other standout performers include senior center Bryan Thompson (6-1, 250), senior offensive tackle Clyde Goldstein (5-11, 285), and senior tight end Jim Aliff (6-6, 200).

"Hetrick throws extremely well," Woods said, "but the key to their offense is the running ability of Lambert and Hetrick on the option."

Tucker's 4-3 defensive unit is led by senior linebacker Lindsey Rohr (5-8, 155), senior end Tyson Shahan (6-3, 220), who finished fifth in the state in the 100-meter dash last spring, and senior corner B.J. DiBacco (5-8, 170).

"They put a lot of people on the line and they move around a lot on defense," Woods said, "but they have given up some points this year, so we think we can score on them."

Woods said that the Rams and Lions have played some "super" games over the years, and he noted that Tucker County has not defeated Southern for nine straight years.

"We have been a spoiler to them in several of those years, and that's the role we hope to play this year," he said. "If we can continue to improve offensively, stop making crucial mistakes, and have some success controlling a few of their kids who are really quick, we believe we have a good shot at winning this game.

"Even though we're 1-3, we still believe we have a good football team, and this will be a golden opportunity for us to prove it," he said.

It will be Southern's 1998 homecoming game, and the weather conditions are predicted to be favorable, so Woods is hoping for a large turnout. The kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Brenneman Leads Huskies To 19-0 Win Over Hancock

Quarterback Adam Brenneman tucked the ball away and rushed for two of Northern High School's three touchdowns in a 19-0 victory Friday night. The win boosts the Huskies to a 3-1 record as they prepare for tomorrow night's showdown with Beall, always a tough opponent.

At Hancock, Northern and the hosts battled in a scoreless tie until the second play of the second quarter, when Adam Brenneman scored on a quarterback option run from 19 yards out. The extra point kick by Justin Robinson made the score 7-0.

Another option play midway through the second quarter led to the Huskies second touchdown, as Adam Brenneman pitched the ball to halfback Rob Dozier who carried 17 yards for the score. The extra point kick attempt caromed off the left upright, and the score remained at 13-0 through the third and into the final quarter.

With five minutes remaining in the game, Northern had the ball on second down with five yards to go. A quarterback sneak caught the Hancock defense off guard as the line had spread out and the linebackers blitzed from the corners. Brenneman took advantage of a key block by center Dan Rounds and carried the ball straight up the middle for a 20-yard touchdown. The Huskies' two-point conversion attempt failed, and the score stood at 19-0 until the final gun sounded.

Northern head coach Phil Carr praised his team for the winning effort, especially the stingy defense. "Our defense bent a little at the beginning of the game," Carr commented, "but didn't break. Hancock's big running back, Sam Hess, broke through the line for a 25-yard run on the first play of the game, then followed that up with another 20-yard carry on the next play. They ended up driving down to our 20 yard line, where we dug in and held the line, and their field goal attempt went wide and missed.

Second Quarter

N - Adam Brenneman 19 run (Justin Robinson kick).

N - Rob Dozier 16 run (kick failed).

Fourth Quarter

N - Adam Brenneman 20 run (run failed).

"We made some quick defensive adjustments during and after that drive," Carr continued, "and came back to shut their running game down. Hess ended up with 121 yards rushing, but a good portion of that came on that opening drive, and their next-best runner ended up with only 20 yards on 13 carries."

Hancock faired little better in the air as the swarming Huskies stymied its passing game. The opponents managed to complete more passes to Northern players than they did to their own, as the Huskies picked off three interceptions while allowing only a pair of completions. Linebacker Mark Wolf snagged the first interception and returned the ball 25 yards, the second takeaway was by defensive back Jed Wilhelm, who carried the ball back for a 15-yard return, and Adam Brenneman had the final interception from his defensive back slot.

"The turnover ratio worked out great for us," Carr said. "We took the ball away three times and gave it up only once. That's especially encouraging, as turnovers had been haunting us all year.

"We still have work to do with our offense, however. The line isn't blocking like we think they're capable of, and we'll be working hard on that this week in practice; yet any time you can play less than your best and still win you have to be pleased. When we get all the pieces of the puzzle together we'll really have something."

The Huskies will be looking for revenge in tonight's matchup with 2-2 Beall in a Region 1-A rivalry that follows the 42-0 shellacking the Mountaineers administered to Northern last year. "It's going to be a big test for us," Carr remarked. "Beall is always well-coached and well-prepared, and its offensive line is always tough.

"They've been running an I-formation more now than in the past, when they used to go with the wishbone with a lot of success. The change came about because of their big fullback, Tom Leasure, who's a powerhouse at 6-2, 225 pounds, and the path he clears for their tailback, Ryan Broadbeck," said Carr. A 1,000 yard rusher last year, the speed of the 5-8, 165 pound runner carried the Mountaineers to the state finals last season.

Kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m. on the Huskies' home field in Accident.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Arguably, there is no finer arena for deer hunting than archery season in Garrett County. The season has been open for just over a week, and local bowhunters have had some pretty nice weather for their early efforts. This should mean a nice harvest, and we will post trophies as we become aware of them.

On September 15, the DNR announced a new system for allocating antlerless deer stamps. The DNR said that 9,500 bonus antlerless stamps will be available for the 1998-99 western Maryland deer hunting seasons. A bonus antlerless stamp provides a licensed hunter with the option of taking one antlerless deer during certain portions of either the firearm, muzzle loader or bow season in Deer Management Region A, which includes all of Garrett County. Hunters will have the option of purchasing bonus deer stamps for use during these seasons, but hunters are reminded that they will not be able to use both a bonus antlerless and a bonus deer stamp during the same season. The combined total bag limit for each deer season, i.e., the bow, firearm or muzzle loader season in Region A, is two deer. Hunters should refer to the DNR publication Hunting And Trapping In Maryland 1998-99 for definitive information regarding bag limits.

Through legislation passed in 1998, the DNR can regulate the type and number of bonus deer stamps to control deer harvest. The legislation also increased the fee for non-resident bonus deer stamps from $10 to $25. Resident bonus stamps remain at $5. Garrett County will have a total of 3,300 bonus antlerless stamps, with 1,300 issued for Zone 1 and 2,000 for Zone 2. The stamps must be used in the zone designated. Applicants should follow the instructions and complete the application in the booklet issued with their license (Hunting And Trapping In Maryland). All fees will be refunded to unsuccessful applicants. Specific information can be obtained by calling the DNR Wildlife & Heritage Division Office in Garrett County at 301-334-4255.

Last year, Maryland hunters checked in over 64,000 deer, surpassing the previous record of 60,602 set in 1995. Garrett County hunters contributed 6,048 total deer, with 3,654 being bucks. Of these, archers contributed 1,517 and muzzle loaders, 1,095. Garrett hunters who travel to West Virginia will be glad to know that wildlife biologists there are predicting a good season. Scott Warner, wildlife biologist, said that the mast crop is great and the deer will be spread out. Archery season in West Virginia opened on September 17.

TNN OUTDOOR TELEVISION EXPANDS

Because of the popularity of programming focusing on outdoor sports, TNN has added a new series, Advantage Outdoors, to their already loaded outdoor menu. The show will be hosted by Wade Bourne and will focus on hunting and fishing in areas easily accessible and open to the average hunter or fisherman. The premier programming (Saturday, Oct. 3, 12:30 p.m. EDT) will cover "Ultralight Dove Hunting" and will feature dove hunting in America's heartland using smaller gauge, lightweight shotguns.

This new show will supplement an already strong schedule that includes such shows as Inside Outdoors, Hunting With Roland Martin (a Maryland native), The World Of Ducks Unlimited, American Shooter, Fishin' With Orlando Wilson, In-Fisherman Television, Buckmasters, Bill Jordan's Real Tree Outdoors, and Mossy Oak's Hunting The Country.

FISHING REPORT

Though somewhat overshadowed by fall's hunting hoopla, fishing remains good in area rivers and lakes. Trout are still being taken in deep water near the Deep Creek Dam, and small mouth are active in 12-to-15-foot depths. The Savage River has been good for fly fishermen using small Blue Wing Olive, and the Yough has been producing for fishermen casting into known haunts with or without signs of rising fish.

INTERNET OUTDOORS

It is incredible how quickly the Internet has become commonplace in everyday life. Some 60 million adults are currently on-line in the U.S., and nearly 16 million of those are sportsmen. By the year 2000, it's anticipated that nine out of 10 Americans will be on-line.

For the sportsman, the web may one day be as valuable a tool as a favorite rod or gun. After all, where else can you get advice on catching walleyes one minute, click the mouse, and read about the latest rifle scope for hunting, and, before you log off, type out a message asking fellow sportsmen for help arranging a Canadian fishing trip.

The speed, convenience, and global reach of the web may leave some sportsmen's heads spinning; but, it can never replace the experience of casting a lure into a mirror smooth lake at dusk or watching a 10-point buck edge along a ridge at dawn. Then again, it just might help you land the fish of a lifetime or bring home that trophy white tail. And, when the deed is done, you've got the whole world to brag to.

Garrett Leads State In Spring Turkey Harvest

Hunters in Garrett County bagged a total of 502 wild turkeys during the spring 1998 hunting season, according to Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary John R. Griffin. The total for the state was 2,589, which is a new state record. The spring harvest was up five percent over last year's total of 2,454. The 1996 spring harvest was 2,541.

"Wild turkey populations have been expanding across Maryland in recent years," Secretary Griffin said. "Although yearly reproduction has varied across the state, spring hunters have enjoyed continuous success in pursuit of this wily game bird."

Other counties that reported harvests of at least 100 birds were: Allegany, 389; Washington, 309; Dorchester, 251; Worcester, 193; Calvert, 189; Wicomico, 137; Somerset, 130; Frederick, 127; and Charles, 102.

Rainy weather across much of Maryland during the spring hunting season may have resulted in lower than optimal harvests. Ideal hunting weather for the entire four-week hunting season could have resulted in a harvest near 3,000 birds, Griffin said. "Adequate production in 1998 will result in continued expansion of wild turkey populations across Maryland," he added.

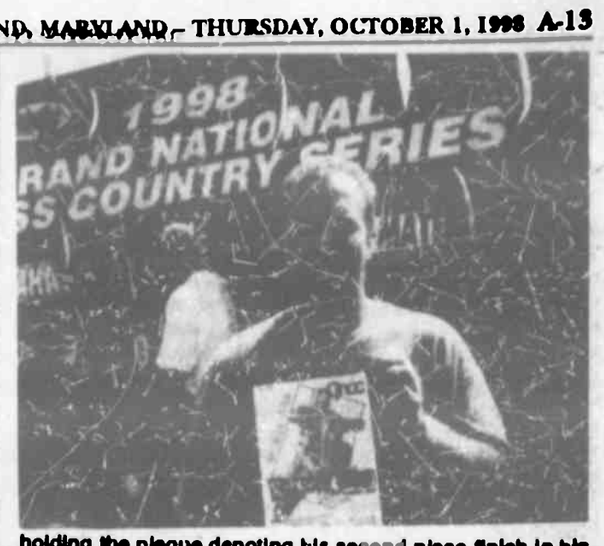
To participate in the contest, anglers must enter their catch at Johnny's Bait House, Route 219, south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge.

Squirrel, Ruffed Grouse Seasons To Open Monday

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin offered some tips to hunters this week for the opening of the squirrel and ruffed grouse hunting season on Monday, Oct. 5.

"Early results from an ongoing six-year research project on grouse indicate that grouse prefer wooded areas with a thick understory," Secretary Griffin said. "Birds do not venture far from these areas because they offer good protection from predators. Many of the grouse that have been radio collared have spent the majority of their lives on areas no larger than 100 acres."



Ruffed grouse populations are primarily found in the four western counties. Grouse populations are highest in forested areas that have been cut over. Hunters should hunt in areas that have had timbering activity within the last 10-15 years to have their best chances for finding grouse. Grouse production appears to be slightly above normal in 1998.

Squirrel populations continue to do well throughout Maryland, and hunters are encouraged to seek areas that have plenty of acorns and hickory nuts in order to locate them. Acorns, as well as other mast such as hickory and beech nuts, appear to be plentiful throughout Western Maryland. The key to a successful hunt will be locating these feeding areas.

Hunters are permitted to harvest six squirrels per day, with a possession limit of 12. Grouse hunters may take two birds per day, with a possession limit of four. Both seasons end on January 31, 1999.

For information on places to hunt squirrels and grouse, persons should contact their local DNR Wildlife and Heritage Division office.

Oakland's Black Is GNCC Dirt Bike Champion

Larry Black, a dirt bike racer from Oakland, recently clinched the championship of the senior division in the Grand National Cross Country (GNCC) series by theoretically eliminating the competition, with one race remaining in the GNCC best of eight race series for the 1998 season. In the driver's seat with a commanding a commanding 40-point lead, Black has only to complete one lap in the season's final race at Crawford, Ind., on Oct. 25 to clinch the GNCC season title.

The outstanding season for Black has included first-place finishes at races in Parkersburg and Fairmont, W.Va.; Boyers, Pa.; Millfield, Ohio; and Atlantic City, N.J. His most recent GNCC series race was Sept. 27 in Mount Morris, Pa., where despite a flat tire that cut into his time, he still managed to turn in a second-place finish in his class and place 40th overall.

Black also placed first in the senior division and 10th overall out of 144 riders at the 125/250cc pro national hare scrambles at Budd's Creek in June. His son, Jesse Black, a recent graduate of Southern High School, earned a ninth-place trophy the same weekend as he raced in the Budd's Creek 125B national motorcross division against stiff competition. This past weekend Jesse placed fifth in the 125C class and 27th overall in a GNCC race at Highpoint, Pa.

The owner of Bench Mark Land Surveying and Planning, and riding under Black's racing banner, Larry Black is sponsored by Wood Products Inc., Dawson Trucking, Westmar Builders, Skip's Honda Center, Dr. David Tuel, First Mortgage Services, and Bench Mark Land Surveying and Planning.

Laker Netters Begin To Hit Stride; Improve Record To 9-6

Editor's Note: The previous week's results of GCC volleyball play were covered in an article that inadvertently did not appear in the sports pages. This week's coverage includes GCC volleyball action covering the last two weeks.

After going into play with a 3-4 record two weeks ago, the volleyball team of Garrett Community College began putting the pieces of its puzzle together for a 6-2 performance and upping its overall season record to 9-6 with a 3-2 JUCO mark. Wins over CCAC-Boyce, and Butler, Beaver, Charles, Cecil, and Frederick community colleges were marred only by a narrow defeat by Anne Arundel Community College at the start of action two weeks ago, and a loss to Potomac State College this past Saturday.

An individual performance that bears watching is the kill average of Andrea Barrick, a sophmore standout from Keyser, W.Va. Going into this past Saturday's triangular tournament in McHenry against Potomac State and Cecil, Barrick was ranked 10th in the nation among NJCAA Division I players in kills per game.

On Friday, Sept. 18, the Lakers split with Anne Arundel and Boyce at home, losing the first match with Anne Arundel, 3-2, before downing Boyce, 2-1.

GCC lost the opener against Anne Arundel, 15-13, roared back to take the next two 15-13, 15-10, then lost the remaining pair of contests, 15-10, 15-13.

Mindy McCarty led the Lakers from the service line, going 17 for 19 for three aces and 11 service points. Erica McBride was 19 for 21 with a pair of aces and 10 service points, Sindy Niner was 18 for 21 with a trio of aces and 10 service points, and Lana Groves was a perfect 17 for 17 with two aces and nine service points.

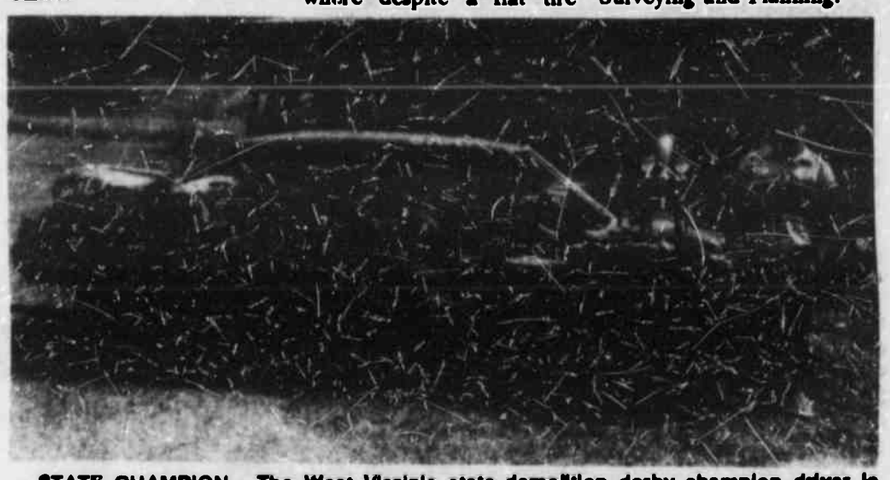
On the attack, Barrick was 20 for 39 with 17 kills, McCarty was 36 for 40 with 19 kills, and McBride was 34 for 45 with 10 kills. Laurel Wolf led on sets by going 62 for 98 with 22 assists, and Melissa Yutzy was 66 for 88 with 21 assists.

The victory over Boyce came as GCC won game one 15-12, dropped the second 15-13, and won the third 15-7.

McBride led serves with a 12 for 12 performance with three aces and three service points. Niner was two for nine with a pair of aces and three service points, and Groves was 16 for 16 with three service points.

McBride led the attack by going 20 for 23 with nine kills, Niner was 12 for 17 with five kills, and McCarty went 10 for 14 with four kills. Crystal Kimble was 35 for 51 on sets with 10 assists and Yutzy was 21 for 33 for seven assists.

Monday, Sept. 21, at Beaver the Lakers opened by downing Butler 15-13 and 15-9.



Yutzy went 12 for 13 in serves with one ace and nine points, and converted 21 of 33 setting chances with 10 assists. Barrick was 11 for 14 on the attack with eight kills and contributed four solo blocks on defense. McCarty had six points and was 10 for 12 on the attack with a pair of kills, and Niner was 10 for 10 from the service line with five points.

The Lakers danuned Beaver in the next match with a flood of points, 15-9, 15-7.

Yutzy was 11 for 11 in serving with eight points, and 19 for 30 in setting with nine assists. Barrick was 11 for 14 with eight kills, and McBride added four points and three kills. Niner and Sines added five points each.

Wednesday, Sept. 23, the Lakers demolished Charles

Country Current, Heart-N-Soul To Perform For Free

Fans of country and bluegrass music will on Oct. 11 have the opportunity to hear two popular bands in free concerts, courtesy of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF). On that date, the United States Navy band Country Current will perform on the grounds of the Wisp Resort, McHenry. Heart-N-Soul, a local group, will present a pre-show for the Sunday afternoon event, which will begin at 3 p.m.

This show, sponsored by Wisp Resort, is the closing event of this year's GLAF season. Guests are invited to bring their lawn chairs and picnic baskets and enjoy the relaxed atmosphere, according to Fred Stanmle, executive director of GLAF.

Country Current is the Navy's premier country music group and is a specialty unit of the United States Navy Band in Washington, D.C. The seven-member ensemble was formed in 1973 and quickly established itself in all aspects of country and bluegrass music.

Touring the country each year in support of Navy recruiting, the musicians have also performed with such artists as Boots Randolph, Charlie Daniels, and Vince Gill. The band also performed at the "Branson Cares — Help Start the Healing" tribute to the citizens of Oklahoma City on Memorial Day 1995. Other credits throughout its 25-year history include performances at the Grand Ole Opry, Wheeling Jamboree, and the Academy of Country Music Awards show.

Country Current performed for over 100,000 people at the Fort Vancouver (Wash.) 4th of July Fireworks Spectacular in July of this year. In June of 1994, the musicians appeared at the Nova Scotia International Tattoo, and in February 1989, they entertained Chinese officials in Beijing at a dinner hosted by former President and Mrs. George Bush.

Sugarland Run is the title of a compact disc released by Country Current in 1996, which received a "rave review" in the September issue of Bluegrass Now magazine. The group also received national acclaim during Operation Desert Storm for an original composition titled "We Are With You," which was aired on ABC's "Good Morning, America" and TNN's "Nashville Now."

Heart-N-Soul has been performing as a dance band for the past six years. According to Carson Yoder, keyboardist, guitarist, and singer with the group, Heart-N-Soul's motto is: "If you can't dance to it, we don't play it." Yoder said the group's inventory includes everything from Brooks and Dunn to the Doobie Brothers.

In addition to Yoder, the group's members are Harold Winters, guitar and background vocals; Norman Folk, bass and vocals; and Tim Crowe, percussionist. Yoder is known by the local radio audience as "the trucker" on WFRB's morning show "Hannah and the Trucker."

Persons do not need to obtain tickets for this free concert event. In the case of inclement weather, the show will be performed inside the McHenry House.

Mary Beckman, director of the Head Start program, spoke of the needs that will be met through these two new services. "We're trying to help parents deal with some real issues. Parents who need to work evenings could leave their children in a safe educational setting with licensed care providers," she said.

Beckman said that parents are welcome to arrange to stop in and see the Oakland Head Start center and see what the program provides. "This is the only program in the area that offers these services," she added.

Anyone wishing further information on the evening Head Start class or the wraparound child care service may call Mary Beckman at 301-334-9431.

EXPANDING CHILD CARE - New child care programs are now available for parents seeking quality services during evening work hours. Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc.'s Head Start center in Oakland will offer extended care from 6:30 a.m. until 11:30 p.m. Wraparound services will serve children in need of before- and after-school care, while an evening Head Start session will offer instruction between the hours of 3 p.m. and 9 p.m. Though separate, these programs may be combined for those meeting eligibility requirements. Mary Beckman, director of Head Start, and senior staff member Pam Armstrong are pictured above at the Oakland site with a group of children enrolled in the program. See story for details.

Training Course Slated For Dove Center Volunteers

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College, in cooperation with The Dove Center Inc., will offer a course titled "Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Volunteer Training" beginning Monday, Oct. 19. The course will meet on five consecutive Mondays between 6 and 9 p.m. in Room CE-310 of the Community and Continuing Education Center.

The Dove Center assists individuals and families in Garrett County who are dealing with domestic and sexual violence. The instructors for the volunteer training course, Linda S. Spassil and Kelly K. Cover, are both employed at the Dove Center. Spassil is executive director of the center, and has over 15 years experience working with people from diverse backgrounds. Cover is a licensed professional counselor who has 10 years of experience working with maltreated children.

"This course is designed to prepare potential volunteers with the skills necessary in crisis situations," said Tom Kierstead, associate program director at GCC. "Participants will be introduced to the issues of domestic violence, rape, sexual assault, and child abuse. Medical and legal options will be reviewed. The role of advocates will also be covered."

GCC will provide competency citations to those who complete the training and are selected during the screening process to become volunteers for the Dove Center. Others who attend at least four of the five sessions, but who do not become volunteers, will receive participation citations.

"Due to the unique arrangement with the Dove Center, GCC is pleased to offer this training to participants for a small registration fee," added Kierstead. The registration fee is $4 for all participants, and potential students are asked to register no later than Wednesday, Oct. 14. For additional information interested persons may call the Continuing Education and Training Office at 301-387-3069.

Amanda, who is a junior at Southern High School, played first chair with the Three Rivers Young Peoples Orchestra (YPSO) in Pittsburgh last season. This orchestra is composed of high school students from four states. In August, she auditioned for the Pittsburgh Youth Symphony Orchestra, which is mostly comprised of musicians from the Pittsburgh area and regional colleges. She was informed this month that she made the YPSO and will be playing second chair this season. The first concert will be on Sunday, Oct. 11, at Heinz Hall in Pittsburgh. This show will be a "side-by-side" performance with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, and will feature Marvin Hamlish as conductor.

Miss Stewart will audition in November for her fourth consecutive appearance in the Maryland All-State Band. She has also been nominated to the All-Eastern Band/Orchestra, and if she is chosen in this capacity, she will play at Carnegie Hall in New York City in February 1999.

Two other competitions are on the horizon for the young Oakland musician. The Music Teachers' National Association will hold its Maryland state brass competition at St. Mary's College in October. If she wins the state competition, she will travel to Boston College for the regional competitions in February 1999. From that point, the trombonist would have a chance to be in the March 1999 nationals in Los Angeles.

Her second competition will be during the Eastern Trombone Workshop, held by the United States Army Band at their headquarters at Ft. Myer, Va. Last year, she placed second in the high school classical music solo competition.

"With a great deal of hard work and practice, Amanda is still working toward her goal of playing in a major symphony orchestra," said Brad Steward, Amanda's father. Persons interested in attending any of her concerts may contact Brad and/or Patsy Stewart at 301-334-2166.

After-School

pervisor Kendra Todd of the Garrett County Health Department explained that a new component this year to the after-school sessions will be sexual abstinence education.

Members of AmeriCorps, the national service agency, will coordinate activities at the after-school middle school sites. Elizabeth Gibbons will host the program at SMS and Geni Sharps will facilitate the sessions at NMS.

The after-school program at the Grantsville Senior Center is currently in operation on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons from 3:15 p.m. to 6 p.m. Children from grades four through eight are encouraged, as at the other two sites, to participate either on a regular or on a drop-in basis.

Students attending the Grantsville sessions will have access to tutoring, mentoring, craft classes, and sporting activities. The group will also participate in community service activities and visit with residents at the Goodwill Mennonite Home. The health department will provide drug and alcohol abuse prevention activities, and representatives from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office will also give information on preventing drug abuse.

Grantsville's program supervisor, Linda Green of Garrett County Community Action's Emergency Services Department, explained that the after-school sessions will provide a nutritious snack each day.

The program coordinator at the Grantsville site is Karen Wood, who is assisted by Stephanie Merrill. The AmeriCorps member working with them will be Virginia Fike. The Grantsville program is funded in part by the HotSpot crime prevention initiative.

For further information on the NMS and SMS programs persons may call Kendra Hall at 301-334-8122. Those wanting information on the Grantsville program may call Linda Green at 301-334-9431 or Karen Wood at 301-895-5818.

ways this fall, beginning later this month. He said the department will spend $100,000 on striping this fall.

Thorne said he is looking into the possibility of using specially made reflective tape for some striping projects. He has been doing research on this tape as well as on a new de-icing product that the department will try this winter.

Sanitary District

Wendell Beitzel, director of the Garrett County Sanitary District, told the commissioners that the Hutton sewer project is now complete, with all residents hooked to the system.

He also announced that the flood wall in Friendsville has been finished. The wall is designed to protect the water and sewer plant in the town, which has been regularly flooded in the past.

"Now that the wall is there, the town council and the residents won't have to spend hours sandbagging the plant the next time there's a flood," Beitzel said. He said the water system rehabilitation work is finished in Friendsville, too, resulting in a drastically decreased daily flow.

"The plant was processing 286,000 gallons a day, even though it was designed to handle just 125,000. Now, with the completion of the rehab, we have about 40,000 gallons processed per day," Beitzel said.

Community Action

Duane Yoder, director of the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. (GCCAC), reported that the Overlook project (a housing project being constructed on the former High View apartments site) is moving forward on schedule.

Yoder said GCCAC was notified recently that the Department of Human Resources has funded a late-evening child care program for the county. Now child care will be available from 6 a.m. until 11:30 p.m., especially for the benefit of single parents who have shift-work jobs.

"This is a great step in our attempt to assist working parents," Yoder said, giving credit to Henry Brown, director of Social Services, and the commissioners for their support of the endeavor.

Yoder noted that Bob Lyons will step down as chairman of the GCCAC board after serving 16 years.

"Bob is one of the most dedicated people I've ever encountered," Yoder said. "He came in two or three times every week. We are going to miss him."

Finally, Yoder reported that he has been working in Crellin with Rev. Michael Mudge and others on flood mitigation. A survey of the residents has been completed, he said, and now an engineer is to be brought in to do individual studies. Yoder suggested that the engineer be paid by way of amending a current Community Block Development Grant (CDBG) that has some excess funds.

ATTENTION
Southern Garrett Alumni Band
With the Autumn Glory Festival creeping up on us once again, it is time to start thinking about Alumni Band. Last year we were small in numbers, but big in both spirit and sound. All of the alumni that stuck it out last year, as well as all of those that watched from the parade route are invited to join in. We had a great deal of people that didn't know that we were going to march last year, so spread the word around so that we can be the biggest band on the street!
Practice will be held at "The Band Room" on Friday, Oct. 9 at 7:00 p.m.
If you can't make the practice, just catch up with us at the parade line-up on Saturday, Oct. 10.
If there are any questions, call Christine Chaney-Crass at (304) 599-9102 or E-mail Aaron at adcrapp@erols.com.

RONIN

Rated R - Running time: 1:58

Back in the days of The Deer Hunter, Raging Bull, and Once Upon A Time In America, I used to think Robert De Niro was one of the best actors alive. But that was before I realized that most of his career would be spent playing the same character. De Niro is very convincing in this type, but I wish he would branch out more often, as he did in films like Brazil, Awakenings, and Wag The Dog. I'll have to wait, though. John Frankenheimer's Ronin is yet another fine example of what a great job De Niro does playing his old standard: the streetwise thug.

De Niro's typecasting notwithstanding, Ronin, written by newcomer J.D. Zeik, is actually a very suspenseful, intelligent thriller, and another nice addition to director Frankenheimer's impressive catalogue.

"Ronin," we learn at the film's opening, are former Samurai warriors from ancient Japanese folklore, who have been dishonored by the murder of their master--the one whom they were sworn to protect. No longer honored with the term Samurai, they wandered the countryside, looking for work as mercenaries or sushi bar waiters. De Niro's character, Sam, is a modern-day example of one such type. A former cold-war CIA killer, out of luck in the present-day climate of U.S./Russian détente, he must find work as he can among other mutually antagonistic peoples. And he does so in Paris.

Sam meets a beautiful Irish woman named Dierdre (Natascha McElhone, last seen in The Truman Show), who hires him and several other high-priced hitmen to steal a metallic carrying case from some people who really don't want to part with it. No one but Dierdre and her mysterious boss (Jonathan Pryce) knows what's in the case, but since it's handcuffed to a guy and protected by about a dozen heavily armed goons, we assume it must be pretty important. Besides, someone (also unknown) is prepared to pay an outrageous sum for it.

One of the few people on the mission that Sam trusts is a fellow named Vincent (Jean Reno), though they have little idea how much they will be depending on each other's loyalty in the days to come. The allegiances in this group are traded around like baseball cards after one of the guys (Stellan Skarsgård) gets the case and doesn't want to share. After several long, fast car chases through French cities and lots of dead bodies, the group arrives at an ice skating venue in Arles, and we arrive at the climax. A cameo appearance is made at this time by Olympic skating star Katarina Witt, who plays Natacha Kirilova, the featured Russian skater at the huge arena.

Perhaps the most disappointing feature of this well-acted and -directed film is the unsatisfying ending. The whole plot seems to revolve around what's in the case, and when you hear that question answered, you may want your money back. But if you're interested in good action and good acting, and you're a fan of De Niro's tough guy persona, you'll not be disappointed. ★★★★

URBAN LEGEND

Rated R - Running time: 1:40

When coming up with an idea for a teen horror movie, it isn't easy to think of something original. Urban Legend, a debut effort from both writer Silvio Horta and director Jamie Blanks, is a testament to that fact. Horta's feeling is, the stories are already there; all we have to do is work them into a script. But for a first-time effort, he could have done worse. This story, although it requires the viewer to overlook some rather major discrepancies, is reasonably compelling and fun, and falls right in line with the new-generation '90s-hip horror genre brought on by Scream and its descendants.

We used to just call them "ghost stories," but lately they've taken on a new name. "Urban legends" are the modern-day equivalent to folklore, usually involving some kind of horror in a college or big city setting. We've all heard them: There's the boyfriend who leaves the girl in the car on a dark, spooky night to investigate a mysterious tapping, and when she finally opens the door she discovers that the tapping is caused by her boyfriend's feet as he hangs dead from above the car. There's the creepy gas station attendant who drags the girl out of her car, and when she breaks free and speeds away, we learn that he was only trying to tell her there was a killer in the car with her. And perhaps the most recent, passed around of late on the Internet, is the person who is drugged at a party and wakes up in a tubful of ice, with his kidney removed for sale on the black market. None of them are true, but everyone insists that he knows someone who knew the victim.

So begins the story at Pendleton University in a quiet Maine town. The college is known for its safety, but there is a sudden rash of strange killings done in classic "urban legend" form. Natalie (Cybill's Alicia Witt) keeps losing her classmates, and she's getting concerned. But her best friends, party girl Brenda (Rebecca Gayheart) and newspaper reporter Paul (Jared Leto), are trying to help her stay sane while figuring out the case. The most obvious suspect is Professor Wexler, played by Robert Englund (Freddy Krueger of Nightmare fame), who teaches about urban legends in his psychology class. But along the way, Natalie has reason to suspect just about everyone she encounters, until she's running for her life with the parka-wearing killer hot on her heels.

As teen thrillers go, Urban Legend is about average. There are several plot holes common to the style, like indifferent authorities who don't investigate multiple murders--even though the bodies keep disappearing--and a killer who repeatedly comes back from the dead. But plot sense is not the top priority when selling a horror movie to 14-year-olds, so it will do well. An adequate performance is given by Witt, and despite a slow start it moves along with plenty of chills. ★★★

PERSONAL NOTES

I know it is really autumn now. As I look out of my window, I see many red leaves on our maple trees and red ivy on the humming bird feeder. Of course, the hummers are long gone to South America. I feel like I am starting to hibernate as I can't seem to fully wake up today. If long range predictions are true, we are in for a long, bad winter. I am not sure how to interpret the wooly worm pattern, but I saw one with a tiny black end with a long brown middle part. I guess the colors have to do with some scientific prediction, and the way this one looked is a sign of a real long winter. My personal prediction is that snow will hit in early December and have steady snow falls until March. It should be great skiing weather, with not too many big dumps of snow, only a few school days canceled. Just a steady winter.

I got a call from an old friend, Gloria Carchetti, last week. Gloria lived here from 1976 to 78. She also worked with me in the costume business in New York City, and lived in the same building on 11th Street. She is back in Baltimore after 10 years in California. She hopped on a Greyhound bus and came up to spend the weekend. We enjoyed the beautiful weather and took a quick tour of Garrett County. When we arrived home, a bunch of luscious tomatoes and peppers were left by a friend from their bountiful garden. I also found that my girls and their grandmother found a wonderful collection of my favorite wild mushrooms and even a few nice puffballs. The girls love them so much that when I cooked them for the first time they almost fought over the last piece.

That afternoon we cooked a beautiful fresh spaghetti sauce with all the fresh goodies. It was a real feast. I preserved a few tomatoes, peppers, and mushrooms to bring back that summer feeling later on when we really need it. Oh, by the way, you do not need to worry that we will poison ourselves. I am perfectly sure about my mushrooms. This batch was safe, as they are meadow and horse mushrooms. I have picked them at the same place for years past. One good rule is never eat a white mushroom if it also has a white inside. Do not eat them! They're probably the deadly Anemetia. The ones they picked were brown with pink underneath.

There is also no problem with the white puffballs with the inside flesh white. If I do cut a puffball and the flesh is some "yukky" color, we do not eat it. My identification of these mushrooms is confirmed by a number of knowledgeable sources, including my Uncle Ralph Hummel, a long-time mushroom enthusiast. We had many great walks years ago looking for mushrooms.

I remember one time when we were out scouting for the mushrooms and it was only one week before I delivered my first baby. I had great difficulty crawling under low branches.

Since I do not have any more to say, and the fact that I must have strained my right forearm muscle and it hurts to see it, this is about it.

PS — You would not believe it, but that super lady, Lillian Mitchell, baked us another cheesecake. It was delicious, and with not even a scolding for what happened to the last one. This was safely put in the refrigerator.

ARE ANTIBIOTICS NEEDED FOR DENTAL PATIENTS WITH JOINT REPLACEMENTS?

In 1997 an expert panel of dentists, orthopedic surgeons, and infection specialists met to develop guidelines for the use of antibiotics for dental treatment in joint replacement patients.

They concluded that patients with pins, plates and screws do not need antibiotics before dental treatment.

For patients with total joint replacements (hips, knees, and shoulders) it is recommended that patients have antibiotic treatment prior to their dental appointment for at least two years following surgery. Patients in high risk categories such as past joint failure and diabetes may always need antibiotic treatment prior to their dental appointments. Please consult with your surgeon for your individual needs in your future care.

It is important to inform your dentist of a complete medical history and to include any changes in your medical history at your dental appointments.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Army Pvt. Adam B. White has entered basic military training at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga.

During the training, the soldier will receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, map reading, tactics, military customs and courtesies, physical fitness, and first aid.

White is the son of John and Lois White, Oakland. He is a 1996 graduate of Southern High School.

U.S. Army National Guard Pfc. Barbara L. Friend has entered basic military training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C.

During the eight weeks of training, the soldier will study the Army mission and will receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, Army history and traditions, and special training in human relations.

Friend is the daughter of Judy L. Friend, Accident, and Robert E. Friend, McHenry. She is a 1984 graduate of Northern High School.

U.S. Marine Cpl. Michael W. Duling, son of William G. Duling, Oakland, recently participated in a large training exercise while on a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf with the 22nd Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU), embarked aboard the ships of the USS Saipan Amphibious Ready Group (ARG).

During Exercise Matador Livex '98, Duling's unit trained with U.S. Navy units from the ARG, the USS Dwight D. Eisenhower Battle Group and other special naval support elements, including the Navy Seals, in a one-week exercise in the Mediterranean Sea. The intense exercise tested every mission phase of a combined force including air, surface, subsurface, noncombatant expeditionary operations, and maritime interdiction operations.

The overall purpose of Exercise Matador Livex '98 was to enhance ARG and carrier battle group interoperability in an operational environment, according to a Marine spokesperson.

Home based in Camp Lejuene, N.C., Duling's unit is an expeditionary intervention force with the ability to rapidly organize for combat operations in virtually any environment. MEUs are composed of more than 2,000 personnel and are divided into an infantry battalion, an aircraft squadron, a support group, and a command element. With the combination of these teams, Duling's unit supplies and sustains itself for either quick mission accomplishment or clearing the way for follow-on forces, the spokesperson explained.

Duling, a 1992 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, joined the Marine Corps in October 1995.

Miss Maryland Heather Davis To Participate In Annual Festival

Heather Davis, Miss Maryland 1998, will participate in the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade on Saturday, Oct. 10, beginning at 1 p.m. in downtown Oakland, and the Greater Gortner Airport Fly-In/Open House beginning at noon on Sunday, Oct. 17.

Miss Davis is a 1998 graduate of Louisiana State University with a ntasters degree in mass communication. She also holds a B.A. degree in communications studies/minor in music (voice and piano) from Virginia Polytechnical Institute and State University. Her scholastic ambition is to obtain a Ph.D. in mass communication.

Davis's scholastic honors include selection as the Manship Fellow at the Manship School of Mass Communications, LSU, in 1998; graduating cum laude from Virginia Tech in 1996; Alpha Epsilon Rho, National Broadcasting Society's honor fraternity; Phi Sigma Pi, national honor fraternity; National Honor Society graduate of high school; and U.S. Achievement Academy listing in its who's wholike publication. Her accomplishments at Virginia Tech include receiving the Outstanding Student Leadership Award and being a student representative to the University Council; the Maryland Governor's Special Citation, a personal award presented at high school graduation for founding L.I.F.E. Program, and other honors. Heather has been employed as a university PR assistant, an AT&T customer service operator, assistant manager for Telecom firm, and as an anchor/reporter for Tech Tonight, LSU Review, and VT News. She has served internships with CNN, CBN, WVEC-13 (ABC), WSLS-10 (NBC) and WPAR-FM Radio.

Miss Davis's talent is classical piano, and her platform issue is employing peer mentorship to fight substance abuse in elementary and secondary school-age children through a six-year program called L.I.F.E., which she founded as a senior in high school. Her career ambition is to be a member of a TV news broadcast team, teach mass communication at the university level, and teach classical piano to children. She is the daughter of John and Sharon Davis of Severna Park.

Heather's sponsor for the Autumn Glory Festival is Gregg's Pharmacy, Oakland, and the State Pageant sponsor is the Miss Maryland Scholarship Organization Inc. The Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade is sponsored by First United Bank & Trust.

AGF Guests May "Park Spouses" At Our Town

As a new feature of the Autumn Glory Festiv the Our Town Theatre will host "Park Your Spouse." According to Richard Hill, president of the theatre's board, "Park Your Spouse" will be the answer to many a problem on Autumn Glory Saturday.

"You know he means well. He tries to keep up and show interest in all the wonderful things there are to do and see at this year's Autumn Glory Festival," Hill said. "But after a while he begins to tire, he loses interest and patience. He gets a little crabby, tries to hurry you up as you peruse the crafts, visit the vendors, or just socialize. You don't want to go home and miss anything, and you hate to be hurried. What to do? Just take him to Our Town Theatre."

The theatre, located at 121 Center Street, is in the heart of the Autumn Glory festivities (including the parade), and will open its doors at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 10.

"For $2, a spouse or significant other may relax in the comfort of our collection of easy chairs, enjoy free coffee, watch a video, play games, have a snack, or just have some of that famous male bonding," Hill said.

Wives who are in need of a seat and a break are also welcome to "park" for $2. Only those 18 and older will be allowed to partake in this offering, however.

The theatre will remain open until 4 p.m.

Coffee House

An Adult Coffee House will be held at Our Town on Friday, Oct. 9, 7-11 p.m. There will be live piano music, poetry, a play reading, free coffee, and lively conversation, Hill said.

For more information, persons may call the theatre at 301-334-5640. Our Town Theatre is a non-profit organization.

A MOCK SEARCH AND RESCUE was held recently at Potomac State Forest, hosted by Company A 1st Battalion of the Maryland Defense Force (MDDF). The "search" was for a lost camper and utilized the resources of the Maryland State Forest and Park Service, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department, the GCC Search and Rescue Team, and the Amateur Radio Emergency Service, as well as the MDDF. In the center of the above photo, Deputy Dave McLaughlin instructs search teams about the abilities of the bloodhound. Pictured at far left is search manager Chuck Harris of the Park Service, and at far right is planning chief Don Tucker of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Mike Steyer of the Gorman VFD served as operations chief of the exercise, while Cpt. Rick Lewis, Co A commander, MDDF, was the officer in charge of the overall search effort.

Southern Garrett Band To Hold Basket Bingo

The Southern Garrett Band Boosters will be sponsoring a Longaberger Basket Bingo (smoke-free) on Sunday, Oct. 25, at the National Guard Armory in Oakland. Doors will open at 1 p.m. and games will begin at 2 p.m.

Bingo prizes will be Longaberger baskets. Door prizes and refreshments will be available. Special games will also be played. At least two additional raffles will be held, one for a Longaberger hamper and the other for a Longaberger hope chest basket.

Tickets are $20 per person for 23 games. A ticket is good for a nine-card package of 23 games. The 24th and last speed game will be optional and will have an extra charge. Advance tickets are available now by calling 301-387-7467. Seating is limited.

Grand Jury Issues Report; Urges Officials To Finish Jail Project

The September Term Grand Jury convened last week and visited Garrett County offices as part of its biannual tour. Members were apparently most outspoken about the unfinished work at the county jail, where a renovation job taking place was to have been finished by the end of April. The jury also made note of the current impasse in negotiations with the county roads department. Several positive comments about improvements were noted in the report as well.

As is customary, the jury members divided into committees to visit the board of education office, the Oakland office of the Garrett County Roads Department, the courthouse, jail, and county landfill.

County Jail

"We feel all the uncompleted construction work at the sheriff's department needs to be completed so that the facilities may be used properly, i.e., to eliminate the hazard and to prevent overtime and extra work for staff," the jury's report states.

In a discussion with Lamont Pagenhardt, county administrator, the jurors learned that this project originated in 1990 and, since that time, three different sheriffs have had different ideas about the use of the space. Additionally, rules and regulations concerning jail complexes have changed over time.

According to the jury report, the contractor (Naylor's) has had trouble obtaining supplies, as one original supplier has gone out of business. Apparently there have been delays in having doors made and an electrical panel completed. The cost of renovation is approximately $100,000 to the county and $76,000 to the state.

The jury members recommended that, in the future, officials should not use obsolete blueprints. For example, the new cellblock plans were actually from 10 years ago. It would be to the benefit of the agency to have the blueprints up to date to fit current needs.

They also discussed the unfinished project with the county commissioners and with Lisa Thayer Welch, the state's attorney for Garrett County. The commissioners told the members that there was an understanding with the contractor to complete the project as time was available and that the contract was open-ended. The jury report states, however, that this information contradicts the written agreement that indicates the project was to be substantially completed by April 30, 1998.

Gary Mullich, the supervisor of general services for the county, met with the commissioners this Tuesday to give them an update on the job, as was requested by the Grand Jury. He said the contractors now hope to be finished by the end of October or the first part of November.

Welch was requested to pursue this issue with the commissioners and to report back to the jury with information about the progress of the project and the resolution of outstanding issues.

"The Grand July is very highly dissatisfied and concerned about the lack of progress on the jail renovation project," the report states. "It is our serious desire this project be completed as soon as possible, but no later than January 1, 1999."

As for the other issues and projects of the sheriff's office, the jury commended Sheriff Dick Sanders and his staff for getting additional funding to hire more staff "to better serve our community," the report states. The jurors said they encouraged the staff to "keep up the good work" with cost efficient meals and medical savings. The jury "strongly recommend" that the programs currently in place continue "for the good of the community."

Jurors also noted that they were pleased to find out that the recommendations from the last Grand Jury were heeded and that the heating problem has been rectified. However, they did note that nothing has been done as to the privacy issue at the sheriff's department window, as was recommended in the last Grand Jury report.

Jurors were greeted by the sheriff, who informed them that there are 17 sworn officers, including two K-9 units, one chief deputy, one captain, two lieutenants, one narcotic investigative officer, and one DARE officer. The jail's rules are set by the Maryland Department of Corrections.

Sanders and his staff have initiated the Reality program, the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI), and Domestic Violence Awareness. A member of the Grand Jury questioned the feasibility of the GBI, asking if additional tax dollars would be required to continue the unit at a later date. Sanders said combined resources create "better and quicker results with a greater chance of conviction." He also stated that the GBI will help to prevent double investigation, and if the unit does not work, it will be dissolved.

The GBI consists of the following investigative officers: two from the sheriff's office, three from the Maryland State Police, and one from the state's attorney's office.

A member of the Grand Jury asked if the sheriff's office employees and Garrett Central work together well, and Sanders replied that they do.

Courthouse

The jury recommended that fans be placed in the older part of the Garrett County Courthouse. The members also suggested that the first floor be equipped with exit signs above the doors. They said an escape route should be established, or windows repaired, to allow for an emergency exit.

"Overall, the courthouse was in good condition and very well presented," the report states.

Education Board

The jurors met with Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of Garrett County schools, and Mike Sines, supervisor of maintenance for the board. They took a tour of the board's main office.

Teets informed them that the board is staying within its budget while satisfying all school renovation school projects. He acknowledged that the main office continues to be in need of renovation, or that a new building should be sought. The jurors noted that subtle remodeling is being done throughout the building to maintain it for safety standards.

The committee noted to Teeta the need for additional handrails on stairways, and that the entrances should be clearly marked and appropriately lighted.

The jury also recommended that 11th and 12th graders be able to use their service learning hours tutoring underclassmen and elementary students.

Teeta reported that the county's 16 schools are well maintained. He said the board's plans prioritize a renovated gym, library, stage, and lobby at Southern High School and an auxiliary gym at Northern High School. These projects will take five years to implement. County schools are also being wired for Internet access, the jury was told, with Southern and Northern being wired this year.

Teeta said although the education board office building is in need of repair, educating the students directly is of first priority.

County students are above the state and national averages on the CTBS scores and the SAT scores. Academic goals for improvement are to increase the percentage of graduates going on to college or advanced training and to improve the dropout rate of 4% (compared to a state average of 3%).

The School to Careers program was mentioned as a means of improving on both of these needs.

Landfill

A group of jurors toured the Garrett County Landfill with Director Rodney Glotfelty. He explained general operations of the facility, including tipping, billing, and office operations. He showed the group landfill information now available on the Internet.

Glotfelty showed the jurors the current operation cell and the ongoing construction of the new cell by Carl Belt Construction Company. The jurors reported that Glotfelty "seemed very well informed" in the area of landfill operations.

Treasurer's Office

Patty Glover, county treasurer, met with a group of jurors. She informed them that five full-time employees work in her office, in addition to two college students during summer months. Her office is responsible for maintaining all county accounts, printing and collecting county tax bills, dispersing funds to correct agencies, and reporting directly to the county commissioners. She expressed thanks to the March Term Grand Jury for recommending additional space for office personnel, which she has since received.

Roads Department

The jury members wished to address issues and problems within the County Roads Department. One concern is the calculation of overtime for the employees — whether it is calculated after 40 hours of paid time or after 40 hours of actual work, according to the jury report. The jurors were told by Pagenhardt that the issue has been referred to arbitration, with the county attorney having placed over 20 telephone calls to schedule a meeting to select an arbitrator, with no success. Apparently the department and the county are currently at an impasse, pending the selection and then recommendation from an arbitrator.

Concerning the roads department working space, the jurors said they found the entire area as well as the equipment to be in good repair. The following recommendations were made by the jury:

1. Install sprinkler system in the county roads garage.
2. Install a new heating system for garage, preferably one that uses used motor oils.
3. Install and use time clocks for all employees in the garages.
4. Use salt on the most heavily traveled county roads in winter.

Lee Thorne, county roads supervisor, spoke to the jury members, explaining that there are three garage/maintenance shops, and that the department maintains 703 miles of county roads. His staff is presently using traffic counters to calculate priorities for upgrading roads.

Thorne also said a company was hired to map all county roads, locate culverts, and determine where line-painting is needed. The company charged $40,000 for its work, which was approved by the county commissioners. Thorne said several bridges will be replaced and several roads are scheduled to be repaved.

Thorne discussed the "dead deer policy," explaining that county employees will pick up carcasses if they are on the right-of-way, but he noted that disposal is a problem.

The roads staff is presently looking into new products for dust control during summer months and a product to use on ice in winter. Thorne mentioned the purchase of several pieces of new equipment, stating that the county's goal is to purchase equipment not older than 10 years.

County Administrator

In addition to the items already noted, the jury also discussed with Lamont Pagenhardt the operations of his office. He responded to the questions concerning the completion of the jail renovation project, personnel issues with the roads department, and general county employee contracts and payment/benefit issues.

Pagenhardt told the jury that he believes "definite progress" is being made to achieve maximum efficiency and work production of county employees, both union and nonunion.

County Commissioners

The jury met with Garrett County Commissioners Gary Fratz, Wayne Johnson, and Wayne Wilt, chairman.

The county roads buildings were also discussed, and the commissioners said plans may include the sale of the Oakland office with the relocation out of the business area. Land has already been purchased to relocate the Grantsville garage, the members were told.

The commissioners are currently working on the sale of Deep Creek Lake, having met with officials in Annapolis. The jury encouraged the commissioners to continue to pursue agreements with the state upon its purchase of the lake so that there is some measure of local control of its operation.

Blueprints have been developed to expand the airport, and statistics are being collected to determine the feasibility of obtaining federal funds, the jury report states.

The jurors commended the commissioners for encouraging economic growth in Garrett County.

The jury report was submitted by Ruth Ann Hahn, foreman.

A "GRAND OLE OPRY," Garrett County style, will be held in conjunction with the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival, as the Friday Night Pickers and Hammers & Strings will present a concert at the former Loch Lynn School on Friday, Oct. 9, beginning at 7 p.m. The program will include flat foot dancers and cloggers, as well as refreshments and door prizes. Admission will be $2 for adults and free for children under 12. The sponsoring groups have performed in the Front Porch Pickin' concerts at Garrett Community College, as well as at numerous festivals, reunions, churches, and dances. For more information about the event, persons may telephone 301-334-4465.

Financial Aid Available For Tornado Victims

The Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department is seeking tornado victims in the Finzel and Pocahontas, Pa., area who may still be in need of financial assistance.

Jim Raley, treasurer for the Eastern Garrett VFD, recently reported to the fire department membership that money had been collected from several groups and individuals to assist victims of the June tornadoes. "We received contributions from several churches and members of the community who wanted to help the victims in our area specifically, as well as several special collections conducted through the fire department," reported Raley.

A community mailing is being conducted to inform residents of the fund. Anyone who is aware of residents of the Finzel and Pocahontas areas who have unmet needs should have those persons contact Jim Raley at 301-689-5431.

"The funds are quite limited, but we want to get them disbursed now that most have started the rebuilding process and have received funds from insurance companies," Raley concluded.

A Doll's House
by Henrik Ibsen
November 20, 21, December 3, 4, & 5 at 8 pm, November 22 at 2 pm
A Doll's House tells us that it is the primary duty of every person to discover who s/he is- a message that is certainly as valid today as it was in 1879.
Actress Janet McTeer, who played Nora in the 1997 Tony Award-winning Broadway revival, explains that one must, above all, see A Doll's House as a portrait of a marriage ... the story of two people whose marriage is disintegrating. If you let the play be what it is intended to be, you find it is not a feminist play, but in fact a humanist play, from which you can draw feminist conclusions."

Swanton Resident Assists Farmers In African Nation

Swanton resident Wayne Harnum recently returned from a three-week trip to Zimbabwe, where he taught local agridealers how to better serve small-scale farmers in that nation. Harman served as a volunteer through the Agribusiness Volunteer Program of the Citizens Network for Foreign Affairs (CNFA), a private, non-profit organization committed to stimulating economic growth in the former Soviet Union and southern Africa.

Working with agridealers—the Zimbabwean equivalent of U.S. general stores—Harman led seminars for eleven different stores there on western-style marketing and business management techniques. He showed store management how to better address the needs of small-scale farmers, who currently purchase a very small volume of such products.

Harman — who retired from Southern States Cooperative in 1997 as district manager for the West Virginia and western Maryland district after a two-decade career during which he also served as a store and operations manager in Westminster, Clarksburg, W.Va., and Raleigh, N.C. — also provided training in U.S. credit management practices, including estimating credit needs, business plan development, and record-keeping techniques. He said he emphasized that "through proper record-keeping and sound business management, agridealers would be better customers for suppliers and better distributors of essential agricultural inputs for small-scale farmers."

Agridealers have two main problems to overcome, Harman said. One is the logistics of getting store supplies to their dealerships, which may be 100 miles away from the nearest town. "Dealers will often ride a bus to the nearest town to stock up on supplies, and carry bags of supplies back on top of the bus. They often have no electricity or telephone, either."

A second challenge is the situation of Zimbabwe's small farmers themselves, which can hinder agridealers' prospects of promoting improved farming techniques. "Since the one-party government controls everything and owns the land and utilities, the small farmer is neglected and his markets are very limited," Harman remarked.

The government buys the corn that farmers produce and sets the price. White corn is the main food crop in the country. Most farmers' cash crop is cotton, which is purchased by the Cotton Company of Zimbabwe. Up to 98 percent of a farmer's cash income for the year may be generated by the one-time cotton sale each May; from that sale the farmer must pay his expenses, including the purchase of cotton seed for the next planting, which leaves very little leftover for fertilizer.

There are thousands of small farmers trying to make a living in the bush, on farms averaging 15 acres that are worked solely by hand and oxen. Fertilizer is not a priority for most small farmers, whose ground is at risk because the nutrients are being depleted often without being replaced. "In my workshops I would invite a Zimbabwean gentleman who holds a PhD in agriculture to discuss the benefits of fertilizer. I also met with two of the nation's largest fertilizer suppliers and negotiated with those companies to deliver fertilizer and improve service to outlying farm suppliers, which in turn, will improve service to the small-scale farmers."

Harman, who graduated from West Virginia University with an agriculture degree in 1956, said the agridealers and the approximately 25 farmers who attended his presentations were encouraged to return to their villages and educate their neighbors on new farming techniques.

CNFA is a private, non-profit organization committed to stimulating economic growth in southern Africa and the former Soviet Union. Since 1993, CNFA's Agribusiness Volunteer Program has sent over 500 volunteers to Zimbabwe and Mozambique, and Russia, Ukraine, and Moldova. "CNFA volunteers bring hands-on experience to their assignments, helping their overseas counterparts ease the transition to a market economy," a CNFA spokesperson said.

Persons interested in further information on volunteer opportunities may contact CNFA at 1-888-872-2632, or via e-mail at gallol @cnfa.org. The CNFA's home page is <www.cnfa.org>.

THE 219 SUPERHIGHWAY (SOME LITTLE KNOWN FACTS)

FUNDING: A whopping $16 billion dollars will come from the Veterans' Trust Fund for Health Care for this project and others like it. Congressman Roscoe Bartlett voted against the Federal Transportation Bill for that very reason. We feel that taking money from veterans and using it for highways is a very shabby way to treat the people who fought for the rights and freedoms that we all enjoy.

THE ALIGNMENT: The only alignment listed in the County Comprehensive Plan is US 219. This is important because under the 1997 Smart Growth legislation no other alignment will be eligible for state funding unless it is included in the plan. The County Comprehensive Plan has already been submitted to The State and it becomes effective October 1998.

JOBS: There is no evidence that any good paying jobs will result from the 219 Superhighway; in fact, the opposite is true. A similar highway (I-69) is currently being constructed through the middle of the country. The following quote from the Wall Street Journal on May 22, 1998 says it all. "With its multiple border crossings to Mexico, Texas is very much the engine to boost traffic and lift the cost/benefit ratio for the entire project. General Electric Co., Converse Inc., and Zenith Electronics Corp. are among the big companies with Mexican assembly plants to be served by the I-69 spurs. The lower Rio Grande Valley Partnership maintains a second set of offices in Ciudad Victoria, Mexico, where the regional business group works to coordinate road projects south of the border." In other words, not only will these highways be used to exbort jobs, we get to pay for them with our hard earned tax dollars. And worse yet they will be built on the backs of our veterans.

THE SHA STUDIES: The State Highway Administration's own studies clearly show that the first two phases of the 219 Superhighway (The Oakland Bypass and the 219 Connector) are not justified. Anyone interested in seeing these studies may contact GEORGE FALTER. Furthermore, the enormous amount of money spent on these studies could go a long way toward correcting some of the existing problems that we have with our roads in the county. And still they are calling for even more studies to waste more of your hard-earned money.

PRIORITIES: The money that will be neccesary for just the 219 Connector, which is only a 2.5 mile segment north of I-68, could be used to wipe out unemployment in Garrett County take care of many other community needs and still have money left over. The amount is $47 million dollars, and there is a comment in the Feasibility Study that states that it could go even higher because of environmental and other concerns.

THE FLEECING OF AMERICA: They are trying to do it right here in Garrett County.

Comments Invited On Draft National Strategy For Animal Feeding Operations

David Doss, Maryland state conservationist for the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), invites the public to comment on a Draft National Strategy for Animal Feeding Operations (AFOs). AFOs are defined as livestock-raising operations, such as hog, cattle, dairy, and poultry farms, where animals are kept and raised in confined situations. When not properly managed, animal waste can run off into nearby water bodies.

"It's important for Maryland farmers and landowners to review and comment on the Draft Strategy," said Doss. "Created as part of the Clean Water Action Plan (CWAP), the strategy provides a draft plan to improve America's water quality and reduce runoff from animal feeding operations that can impact water quality. The 120-day public comment period provides an excellent opportunity to let USDA and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) know how they can work with livestock producers to improve water quality while maintaining a strong and environmentally friendly livestock industry."

In February 1998, President Clinton announced his CWAP to finish the job of cleaning up America's waterways. The Draft AFO Strategy, formally titled the draft "USDA-EPA Unified National Strategy for Animal Feeding Operations," is one of more than 100 actions President Clinton directed under the CWAP. The CWAP identifies nonpoint sources (runoff from urban and rural areas) as the most important remaining source of water pollution and provides a coordinated effort to reduce polluted runoff.

The Draft AFO Strategy addresses the resultins water quality problems of runoff polluted by excess nitrogen, phosphorus, pathogens, and other compounds. Elevated concentrations of these pollutants have been associated with the contamination of drinking water, crops, and animal feed, and adverse impacts to fish and shellfish.

"By emphasizing voluntary incentive-based actions, the Draft Strategy allows the livestock industry to remain productive and profitable while reducing threats to water quality," said Doss. "Developed in partnership by USDA and EPA, the Draft Strategy provides unified national guidance on the management of animal feeding operations. As it now stands, Maryland producers will not likely see additional requirements beyond those anticipated from the recent Maryland legislation."

The Draft Strategy establishes a national expectation that all animal feeding operations develop and implement comprehensive nutrient management plans by the year 2008. These plans include manure handling and storage, application of manure to the land, record keeping, feed management, integration with other conservation measures, and other manure utilization options. The regulatory program intends to focus permitting and enforcement activities on the largest concentrated AFOs (or CAFOs, those with 1,000 or more animal units), AFOs with unacceptable conditions such as direct discharge into waterways, and AFOs that are significant contributors to water quality impairment within a watershed.

EPA and states will expand efforts to ensure that all permits include comprehensive management requirements, including land application conditions, and will revise regulations to support this effort by December 2001. In addition, EPA will revise national environmental guidelines to limit discharge from poultry and swine facilities by December 2001 and national guidelines for cattle and dairy facilities by 2002.

Over the next 120 days, EPA and USDA will be accepting written comments on the Draft Strategy. Comments should be addressed to Denise C. Coleman, Program Analyst, USDA, Natural Resources Conservation Service, P.O. Box 2890, ATTENTION AFO, Washington, DC 20013-2890. Copies of the Draft Strategy are available on the Internet at USDA's Homepage at http://www.nhq.nrcs.usda.gov/clean water/afo or by calling the EPA's Water Resource Center at 202-260-7786. Copies are also available at NRCS offices located in USDA service centers.

When to Harvest Your Corn?

Corn is maturing better than I expected this year. This week we found the moisture level in several fields ranging from 30% to 38%. If you intend to harvest your corn as high moisture feed, monitor the moisture content often. The following moisture contents are recommended:

- High moisture shelled corn — upright and bagged silos, 26% to 32%; oxygen-limited, 22% to 26%.
- High moisture earcorn—upright and bagged silos, 32% to 38%; oxygen-limited, 30% to 36%.

Ear corn can be safely cribbed at 21% moisture. If the crib is narrow and we have cold weather you can crib at a higher moisture content.

Quackgrass Control in the Fall

Fall is an excellent time to control Quackgrass with Roundup Ultra. Harvested corn silage and small grain fields are ideal sites for fall quackgrass control. The following criteria should be used to determine the time to spray:

1) Quackgrass at least 6 inches tall, green, actively growing, and not covered with crop residue.

2) No visible signs of frost injury on quackgrass leaves (quackgrass can tolerate light frost without damage, so the occurrence of a frost does not preclude the use of Roundup Ultra in the fall).

3) Minimum daytime high of 50 degrees F.

4) No risk of rain for at least two hours. I suggest six hours if temperatures are cool.

5) Wind less than 10 mph.

If all five criteria are met, fall Roundup Ultra application should be very effective on quackgrass. Remember that the likelihood of meeting all five criteria diminishes as we get later in the fall. For best results, Roundup Ultra should be applied at a rate of at least 1 qt/A.

Corn Harvest At Halfway Mark

Harvesting of corn for grain continued to make a large advance as it improved by 15 points from last week's report of 35%. Corn harvesting stands at the halfway mark. Another dry week in most of the state, except for western Maryland, which received minimal precipitation, allowed Maryland farmers to be in their fields for over six days. Corn harvested was well ahead of the previous year and five-year averages.

Sixty-five percent of soybeans had turned, which was above the previous year average and the five-year average. Soybeans, shedding leaves, improved by nine points and was three points ahead of the previous year.

Almost three-quarters of the sorghum crop had turned color. Although sorghum advanced 21 points from last week, it was still below the previous year average. Sorghum harvesting was 15% complete for the state.

Topsoil moisture condition was 32% very short, 46% short, and 22% adequate. Subsoil moisture condition was 31% very short, 48% short and 21% adequate.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended Sept. 27, listing the item, and the percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, follows.

Development: field corn, mature 80, 64, 62, 75; soybeans, turning 65, 34, 48, 58, shedding leaves 26, 17, 23, 31; sorghum, turning color 73, 52, 81, 80, mature 31, 10, 18, 38.

Harvesting progress: apples 37, 36, 45, 47; corn, grain 50, 35, 12, 28. silage 80, 65, 72, 78; sorghum 15, 10, 2, 9; other hay, 3rd cutting 95, 93, 76, 79, 4th cutting 57, 55, 23, 38; alfalfa hay, 4th cutting 73, 70, 65, 74.

Local FSA Issues Loan Reminder

All producers who have farms enrolled in the Production Flexibility Program (P.F.C.) may be eligible for a loan deficiency payment for corn or soybeans. This is not a loan, but a payment when the posted county price for a commodity falls below the county loan rate for that commodity.

All producers are urged to keep records of the date of harvest, amount of acres harvested, and the amount of production harvested.

The Conservation Reserve Program signup will begin on Oct. 26, 1998, and run through Dec. 11.

Also, for fiscal year 1999 farmers are eligible to receive AMTA payments (Production Flexibility Contract payments) all at once or in two equal payments during the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, 1998, and ends Sept. 30, 1999.

Farmers with questions may stop in or call the FSA office for additional information. The number for the Allegany County FSA office is 301-777-1536, and for the Garrett County FSA office the number is 301-334-6954.

Md. Farmers Hurt By Severe Economic Woes

Maryland farmers trying to recover from last year's drought are now battling on another front, low prices brought on by the Asian financial crisis.

U.S. farmers will probably export 1.5 billion bushels of corn this year, about 25% less than two years ago. The resulting surplus is driving down the price farmers will get for corn, wheat, soybeans, and other grain, said Melvin Baile Jr., president of the Maryland Grain Producers Association.

"We, right now, are in survival mode," Baile said.

Carroll County grain farmer Lawrence Meeks, who represents Maryland in the National Corn Growers Association, said he and his counterparts in other states are beginning a grass roots effort to lobby Congress for trade and economic policies that could make it easier for farmers to sell their grain abroad—and for other countries to afford it.

Planting and producing corn costs about $2.50 a bushel, but current prices are at $1.80 a bushel, according to the Department of Agriculture. That compares to $2.45 per bushel last year.

For a farmer harvesting 50,000 bushels of corn this year, that's a loss of $35,000, although federal programs can make up for some of that.

"The very sad part of this is, this has been the second year that was a bad one for production agriculture," Meeks said. "When there are two in a row that are bad, you really find out how strong the family is."

For Carroll County farmer John Parker Smith and his family, strength comes from three generations working their family farm.

"You put your faith out there with the good Lord with tha weather," said Marsha Smith, John Parker Smith's wife. "We bought this farm back in '85 and tha year after that, we had a drought. It happens all the time."

As fickle as the weather are the global markets.

In previous years, one-third of the gram raised by American farmers has been exported, much of it to Asian countries that can't afford to buy as much this year.

"It's the external forces that no one can really put a handle on that are going to affect our bottom line," Baile said. "It has nothing to do with our local government, but governments halfway around the world."

Last year's drought crippled Smith's corn stalks—many of them never even produced an ear—and his harvest yielded 38 bushels per ace, compared to 160 bushels an acre in 1996.

"So what we have to do this year is cut expenses, maintain our production, and I was hoping this crop of corn wa were getting ready to harvest would put us back in the black," Smith said. "Today, with the low price of grain, it's going to be a real challenge to even break even with 1998's crop. Hopefully prices will recover."

Citizens Sought To "LEAD Maryland" Agriculture Into The 21st Century

Increasing urbanization puts new pressures on Maryland agriculture at the same time that farms and businesses struggle to remain economically competitive, environmentally friendly, and good neighbors to suburban residents. An effective, educated leadership base is essential to successfully anticipate and respond to these pressures.

LEAD Maryland, a new, two-year, agricultural leadership development program, has been established by the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the Maryland Farm Bureau, the Maryland Education Foundation, the Grain Utilization Board, and Maryland Cooperative Extension to cultivate that leadership base. Other organizations are expressing interest in supporting and funding the program, which is modeled on successful LEAD programs around the nation. The goal of LEAD Maryland is to identify, train, and unite individuals interested in guiding Maryland agriculture into the 21st century. These individuals will represent farm, agribusiness, environmental, political, educational, and other communities that have a stake in the future of Maryland agriculture.

"All of Maryland will benefit from having leaders representing the entire agriculture industry working, learning, and solving problems together," said Maryland Farm Bureau President Stephen Weber, one of the organizers of LEAD Maryland. "We know from similar programs in other states that these individuals are destined to hold such positions as influential community and organization leaders, government officials, or exemplary farmers who use cutting-edge technologies and marketing strategies."

"I believe LEAD Maryland will prove invaluable to the future of Maryland agriculture," agreed Dr. Thomas A. Fretz, dean of the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources and director of Maryland Cooperative Extension. "The new leaders who emerge from this program will have the skills to ensure the industry's success in the next millennium."

Applications are now being accepted for the first LEAD Maryland class, which will begin training in February 1999. These applications must be received by November 16, 1998.

Up to 25 applicants will be selected. During the next two years, they will attend eight three-day seminars, covering such subjects as: leadership and communication skills; agricultural infrastructure and policy; land use and preservation; resource management; and family and societal issues. Participants also will take part in domestic and international study tours designed to help them compare and contrast political, economic, social, and cultural issues. Most of the program costs are covered by donations and in-kind contributions from sponsors. A tuition is also paid by participants.

For more information or an application form, or to nominate someone to receive an application form, interested persons may call Susan Harrison, LEAD Maryland's executive director, at 410-827-8056 or write to her at the Wye Research and Education Center, P.O. Box 169, Queenstown, MD 21658.

USDA Sets Next CRP Sign-up For October-December

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has announced that the next Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general sign-up will be held during a seven-week period from Oct. 26 through Dec. 11, 1998, in USDA service centers across the nation.

"This is an opportunity for farmers and landowners to participate in a cost-effective, voluntary program to improve their land, water, and wildlife resources," Glickman said. "It is also an opportunity for current participants with contracts expiring next fall to make new contract offers."

USDA will continue to evaluate and rank eligible CRP offers using an Environmental Benefits Index (EBI) based on the potential environmental benefits gained from enrolling the land in the CRP. Decisions will be made on the EBI cutoff after sign-up 18 ends. The EBI cutoff used in previous sign-ups may not be used for this one. The cutoff is decided after analyzing the EBI numbers of all the offers. Those who would have met previous EBI thresholds are not guaranteed a contract this time around.

"CRP is a highly competitive program," said Glickman. "I encourage all landowners to find out about the Environmental Benefits Index before the Dec. 11 cutoff, and to consult with local USDA experts on steps they can take to maximize EBI points and increase the likelihood that their land will be accepted."

The EBI in place for the 18th sign-up is very similar to the FBI used for the 16th sign-up.

USDA is authorized to maintain enrollment of up to 36.4 million acres. Approximately 30.5 million acres will be enrolled in CRP contracts as of Oct. 1, 1998. The contracts awarded under sign-up 18 will become effective on Oct. 1, 1999. Just over 3.5 million acres currently subject to CRP contracts will expire on Sept. 30, 1999.

CRP maximum rental rates have been updated to reflect 1996-1998 local land rental rates. Farmers should contact their local USDA Service Center for current rental caps and other additional information.

The CRP is designed to improve the nation's natural resource base. Participants enter into contracts with USDA to enroll erodible and other environmentally sensitive land in long-term contracts—for 10 to 15 years. In exchange, participants receive annual rental payments and a payment of up to 50% of the cost of establishing conservation practices.

The program protects millions of acres of American topsoil from erosion. By reducing water runoff and sedimentation, it also protects groundwater and helps improve the condition of lakes, rivers, ponds, and streams. Acreage enrolled in the CRP is planted to resource-conserving (vegetative) covers, which make the program the major contributor to increases in wildlife populations in many parts of the country.

Cost Of Rental Of Ag Cropland Reported By MDA

Cash rents for agricultural cropland were mixed, with most states showing increases while other states held at the same level or dropped slightly. Cropland cash rent estimates were made for 40 states.

California again had the highest cash rent for irrigated land at $235 per acre. The major corn-producing states of Iowa, Illinois, and Nebraska all had cropland rents exceeding $100 per acre. Western states showing irrigated cropland over $100 per acre included Arizona, Idaho, Oregon, and Washington.

States in the Corn Belt and Appalachian regions showed little to no change from last year, with percentage changes that ranged from a 2.9% decrease to a 3.6% increase.

Pasture cash rents for 1998 increased from the previous year for most of the 25 states estimated. Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Iowa had the highest pasture rents at $42, $37, and $35, respectively.

States with the lowest cash rents included Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Montana, and New Mexico, all with rents under $8 per acre.

USDA To Hold Public Session On EQIP Plan

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will hold a Northeast Region Roundtable Session on the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Oct. 21, at the Howard County Fairgrounds, 2210 Fairgrounds Road, West Friendship.

"The purpose of the session is to listen to the general public, especially farmers and landowners, to improve the administration of EQIP. We are looking for feedback at the grassroots level," said David Doss, state conservationist for the Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS). USDA is holding a series of roundtable sessions around the country to gather input to improve this new program.

"Our objective for the meetings are two-fold: to get feedback on successes utilizing EQIP; and to hear suggestions on what to do to improve the administration of the program," said Doss. USDA national and state leadership from NRCS and the Farm Service Agency (FSA) will hear comments from the public and from employees. As time permits, each participant will be able to speak for up to 5 minutes. Written testimony will be accepted and is encouraged. USDA will consider all recommendations as future improvements are made in the program.

EQIP was established in the 1996 Farm Bill as a voluntary conservation program for farmers and landowner, who face serious threats to soil, water and related natural resources. Priority areas of special environmental sensitivity are identified through a locally led conservation process. EQIP offers financial, educational, and technical help to install or implement structural, vegetative and management practices called for in 5- to 10-year contracts for agricultural land uses.

New Law Gives Choice For PFC Payments

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman urged farmers to contact their local USDA Service Center to select how they want to receive their 1999 Agriculture Marketing Transition Act (AMTA) payments.

Under a plan passed by Congress and signed by President Clinton, farmers eligible to receive AMTA payments (also called Production Flexibility Contract [PFC] payments) in fiscal year 1999 can choose to receive the payments all at once or in two equal payment during the fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1, 1998, and end Sept. 30, 1999. The initial payments should be distributed by Oct. 22, 1998.

"These are payments farmers were entitled to receive even before this bill became law," Glickman said. "Advancing the payment date will provide limited financial assistance in a time of stress on our farmers. We need to move forward on many fronts to ensure family farmers and ranchers have a strong, secure future on the land.

"The Emergency Farm Financial Relief Act will help ease the current cash-flow problems for many farmers who are in dire economic straits," Glickman said. "But the money does not address the underlying causes of today's hardship—weak Asian export markets, strong world crop production, and a U.S. farm policy that cannot cope with a string of natural disasters."

So far this summer, USDA has made emergency loans available to farmers in declared disaster areas: the entire states of Florida, South Carolina, and Texas; most of Oklahoma and Louisiana; and portions of Arkansas, Georgia, Kansas, and North Carolina. Emergency grazing of certain land in the Conservation Reserve Program has been allowed to help livestock in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

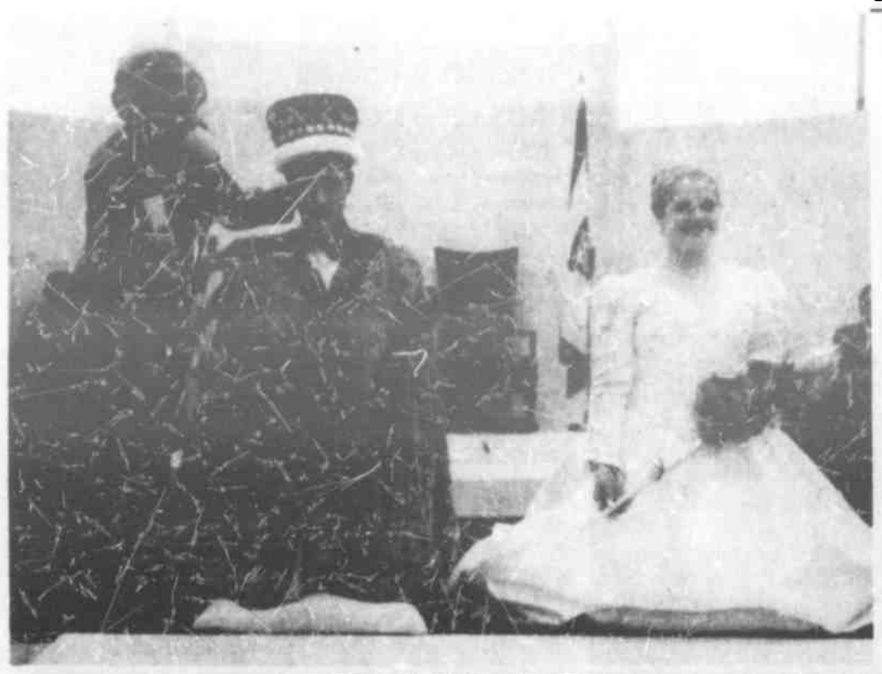
Author To Sign Book On History Of Md. Brigade



The history of the 1861 formation and a record of the daily activities of the Potomac Home Brigade (PHB) has been complied and published by Jack Sanders, Keyser, W.Va. The author will be signing copies of his work at the Main Street Books tent during the Burlington Apple Harvest in West Virginia this weekend.

The mission of the PHB was to protect the life and property of the citizens, the Potomac River, the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The PHB's patrol area extended from the Monacacy River, Frederick, to the western boundary of Maryland, Oakland.

Guarding the River, the Canal, and the Railroad recounts the activities of Dr. Benjamin Burbridge Shaw of Moscow, Allegany County, as he became captain and organized 102 recruits from the George's Creek area for the Company D, second Regiment, PHB. The papers portray military exercises of the small company as it camped and fought along the river, the canal, and the railroad.

The accounts of Capt. Shaw, complied by Sanders, his great-great nephew, were taken from original papers and artifacts found in Shaw's old field desk, which had been tucked away in the attic of a family home.

Main Street Books, Keyser, is taking advance orders for this book, with a $10 discount available through Oct. 2.

THE PRESTON COUNTY COMBINED MIDDLE SCHOOL MARCHING BAND, comprised of fifth through eighth grade students from throughout the county, was formed this year after the ninth graders were moved to Preston High School and were able to join the senior high band there. The middle school band made its premier appearance during this year's Buckwheat Festival parades.

"A FALL REUNION," the theme of this year's Preston County Buckwheat Festival, was also the theme of many floats that participated in the festival parades last weekend in Kingwood. The float shown above was sponsored by The Terra Alta Bank.

THE COORS DRAFT HORSE TEAM delighted thousands of parade watchers as the huge animals strutted through the streets of Kingwood pulling a wagon filled with area children.

Red Cross Notes Critical Need Of All Blood Types

American Red Cross has announced a critical appeal to donors of all types. The Johnstown Region of the ARC is experiencing a seriously low blood supply for all blood types.

All eligible donors are urged to donate during this appeal in order to bring the supply back up to safe levels. Collections have not rebounded from summertime lows, which has resulted in less than a two-day supply of type O, A, and B blood, with just a one-day supply in types O negative, A negative and B negative.

At least a three-day supply of all blood types should be available in order to be well prepared to respond to any and all patient emergencies. Low blood supplies impact the ability to meet all hospital requests.

In response to the need for blood, the Beta Club is sponsoring its annual blood drive at Union Educational Complex on Rt. 50 in Mt. Storm, W.Va., on Wednesday, Oct. 7, from noon to 6 p.m.

To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in generally good health.

Persons with specific eligibility questions may contact the Red Cross at 1-800-732-0382.

HEY! WHAT ARE "EWE" LOOKING AT? These dorset ewes, just like all of the other livestock exhibited during the Buckwheat Festival, were observed by the crowds who passed by their pens. The ewe on the right seemed to be just as curious as her admirers, and she climbed up to see what all of the fuss was about.

FROM HIGH ATOP THE FERRIS WHEEL, riders could overlook festival activities below. Festival-goers were blessed with near perfect weather during the four-day event, sponsored each year by the Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department.

Cadette Girls Scout Troop 224, Mt. Storm, celebrated Hampshire Heritage Days on Sunday, Sept. 13. The girls toured the streets of Romney, the oldest town in the oldest West Virginia county.

On a walking tour, they saw a bee-pollinating display, purchased crafts, toured Civil War encampments, and saw a number of old buildings. They also took a carriage ride through the town and then rode the Potomac Eagle train along the South Branch of the Potomac River.

The train was "ambushed" by a unit of Civil War re-enactors. Brownie Carrie Kitzmiller was given the job of protecting a gold box for which the soldiers were searching.

LIBRARY NEWS

Patrons at the Friendsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library now have access to three online search tools provided by the Western Maryland Public Libraries, the regional library for Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties.

The three online search tools are as follows: 1) "Novelist" helps patrons find additional books on topics they are interested in or new titles based on ones they have already read. It has access to over 60,000 titles of adult, young adult, children's, and easy fiction books. 2) "Ebsco" has abstracts and indexing for over 500 general research magazines and full text articles for over 210 periodicals. The earliest full text articles begin in 1990. 3) "American Business" provides information on American and Canadian companies and is searchable by name of company, type of business, location, and business size.

All three can be accessed from the public use computer at the library by choosing the appropriate icon. Copies are 20 cents per page.

Students needing information for projects or papers are encouraged to stop at the library or call in a topic at 301-746-5663. Subject requests can often be filled within a week through the Ruth Enlow Library System or through the regional library. If patrons do not have access to the Internet or magazine articles, the staff can search for information and print it out. Copies may be checked out like books for a length of three weeks.

Regular library hours are Monday - Friday from 2 to 7 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

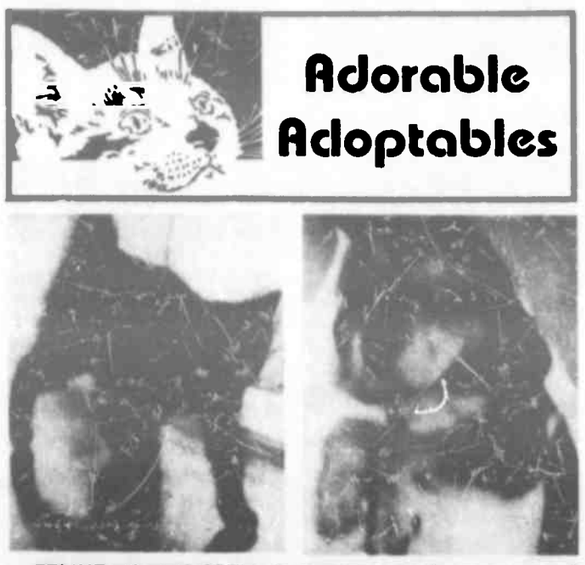
READING PROGRAM

During the first three weeks of the school year, second, third, fourth, and fifth grade students at Friendsville Elementary School participated in, and passed, computerized tests on 192 books, earning a total of 132.3 points.

According to Bonnie Termin, accelerated reader coordinator at the school, "The Accelerated Reader Program again has students excited about reading." Each time a student makes the "point club," he or she is called to the office during morning announcements and is presented a check for $2.50 to spend at the school book fair, along with a certificate and a "point button or reading star hat" to wear on "button/hat day" the following Friday.



An additional incentive for the students is the "Reading Store," where they can "spend" their points, Termin added, and immediately after earning 100 percent on a test, they can choose an item from a box that contains stickers, bookmarks, and small toys. Every two weeks, students are given certificates listing the number of times they earned 100 percent during that period. A special bulletin board has been placed in the school's hallway where the names of each month's winners are posted.

The top 10 point earners for September were recognized during an Academic Pep Rally. Those receiving certificates and ribbons were as follows: fifth grade, Andrew Frazee, Chris Thomas, Maranda Funk, and Tim Eggleston; fourth grade, Heather Thomas, Shayla Rodeheaver, Wesley Ditmore, Angie Nunez, Ashley Snyder, Emily Sisler, Joey Studley, Ben Jenkins, Jenny Hoover, and Randi Dunure; third grade, Roland Fisher, Leah Frazee, Steven Taylor, Bradley Friend, Nichole Fike, Ricky Cosner, Devan Yoder, Bobby Funk, Justin Rosenberger, and Lindsay Wolf; and second grade, Russ Thomas, Lyndsay Miller, Linzi Sisler, Hannah Sines, Kevin Hoover, Alayna Gaither, Ashley Rodeheaver, Tyler Hardesty, Eddie Lytle, and Dustin Stough.

GED Exam To Be Revised In 2000

Every 10 years the National Testing Center in Washington, D.C., revises the high school diploma exam (GED), and in the year 2000 there will be a new exam that may impact those who have challenged but not yet passed the current exam, according to Patricia Baer of Garrett Community College.

"Individuals who tested and passed portions, but did not pass all five parts, of the GED exam have five years in which to retest those portions they did not pass," Baer explained. "However, once the test is revised in 2000, this will not be possible. When the new test is in place, individuals will be required to take the entire exam."

Persons who currently need to retest are advised by Baer to do so before the exam is revised. She said that the new exam is likely to be a computerized test.

Those who desire more information and/or wish to retest in the near future may contact Baer at the Oakland Center of GCC, 301-334-8304.

Othello To Be Presented At Potomac State

The Student Union/Student Government of Potomac State College, Keyser, W.Va., will be host to the National Shakespeare Company for a performance of Othello at the Church-McKee Arts Center on Tuesday, Oct. 6, at 7 p.m.

Director Ken Marini said, "Othello is perhaps the greatest tale of personal tragedy by any writer. In other tragedies, something positive often comes out of the drama which has unfolded before us. It is impossible to find the positive side of Othello's and Desdemona's tragic deaths."

For a contemporary audience, however, Marini says there is definitely something to be learned. "Prejudice on any level needs to be exposed," continued Marini. "It seems obvious, but one single, honest conversation between Othello and Desdemona could have put an end to Iago's plans." The director sees the need for trust even more pressing today than in Shakespeare's time. "Then, women weren't treated as equals. Their opinions were not important. With greater independence for everyone now, it's crucial for people to communicate, and not merely to suspect the worst of each other," he said.

Based in New York City, the National Shakespeare tours the country each year.

Tickets are available a the door. Admission is $6 for adults and $2 for elementary and high schoo students.

For further information, persons may contact Martin Smelik at 304-788-6837.

Fire Prevention Week To Stress "Great Escape"

The focus of the 1998 Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4-10, will be "The Great Escape" — the first ever Northern American fire drill. The office of the State Fire Marshal has been working in conjunction with the nonprofit National Fire Prevention Association and fire departments throughout the United States and Canada to coordinate this event.

The Great Escape will focus attention on fire safety, in general, and developing and practicing a home-escape plan, in particular. State fire marshal Rocco J. Gabriele stressed the need for such plans in all homes. "If a fire breaks out in your home, you and your family only have a few minutes to escape safely," he stated.

Having and practicing an escape plan can greatly increase the odds of survival in a fire. "Home fire escape planning and practice assure that everyone in the household will know how to use that small window of opportunity effectively and get out alive," Gabriela, said.

For information on fire escape plans, persons may contact their local fire departments or call the State Fire Marshal's office at 800-525-3124.

WHY WE CAN FILL ANY PRESCRIPTION

Although we have thousands of different medicines in our prescription laboratory, our reference books list many thousands more. Yet, rarely do we not have in stock the medicines physicians, even those in distant cities, prescribe.

By reading drug and medical journals and staying right up-to-date we know those medicines that are being called for most often. And leading drug manufacturers send us a supply of each new drug as soon as it is released for safe public use.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE BAALS IN YOUR BACKYARD
October 4, 1998

Background Scripture:
Judges 2
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 78:17-32

So what are these 'baals' that I'm saying are so close at hand?

In the Old Testament Baal was a Canaanite farm god who was thought to be responsible for the germination and growth of crops, the increase of flocks and fruitfulness of farm families. He was also believed to be the consort of the goddess Asherah or Astarte.

There was not just one Baal, but each Canaanite community had its own manifestation of Baal. All of the Baals together were referred to as the Baalim and they were worshipped on mountain "high places" in licentious rituals. This worship was known as Baalism and, although strictly forbidden by God, was very attractive to the people of Israel who had heretofore practiced an austere desert wilderness religion.

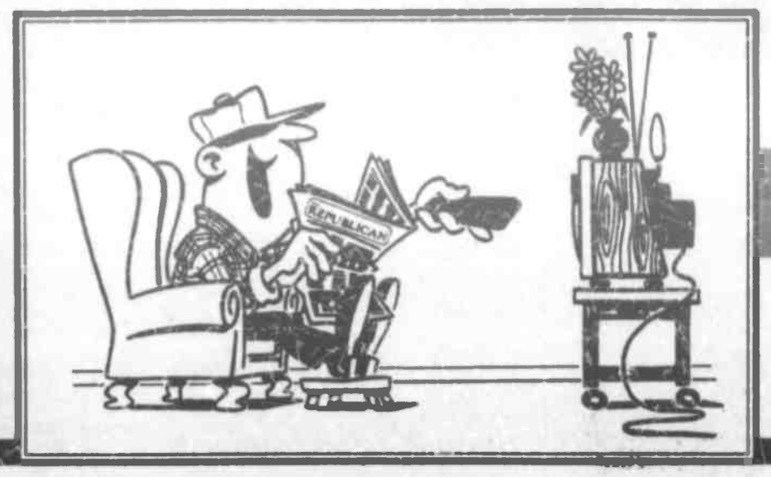
From our 20/20-hindsight vantage point more than 3,000 years later, it seems incredible that Baalism should have been a threat. Trust in God and his covenant had freed these people from captivity in Egypt, guided them safely through the wilderness and brought them to the promised land. With a track record like that why wouldn't they continue to "dance with the one that brung them"?

VICIOUS CYCLE

Judges 2 is an introduction to the whole book, setting forth a cycle of national apostasy, peril, repentance and deliverance. Practically every chapter follows that outline and begins with these words: "And the people of Israel did what was evil in the sight of the Lord and served the Baals" (Judges 2:11). The writer of Judges seems as incredulous as we are today: "...and they forsook the Lord, who had brought them out of the land of Egypt..." (12). After all the Lord had done for them, how could they forsake him?

Generations from now, people may look at us and ask the same question. After all that God has done for us, how can we turn from him and worship the Baals in our backyards? From the perspective of time, it may be quite apparent that we, too, have forsaken the Lord.

If the people of Israel had been asked whether they had forsaken the Lord and were worshipping the Baals, I am sure that they would have replied in the negative. The anger of the Lord was kindled against Israel, " not because of what they said, but because of what they did. They still gave lip-service to the Lord, but it was to the Baals that they turned when they determined their values and their conduct.



OUR BAALS

Most of us also profess to believe in God, but it is not our profession, but our conduct that is offensive to the Lord. When we decide what is important in life, when we determine the ethics by which we live our daily lives, where do we turn for the answers? What backyard Baals entice us: power, wealth, popularity, sex, pleasure, material things or others? To what or whom do we turn when we need help? In what or whom do we trust? Where does our money go?

Inevitably, in Judges, whenever the people forsook the Lord and "did what was evil in the sight of the Lord," there was a painful price to be paid. Often, it was only when they were in the midst of suffering a terrible price that they repented and called upon the Lord to get them out. Since much of their suff

Winningham stunning in CBS psychodrama

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Mare Winningham

Emmy winner Mare Winningham gives a haunting performance as a mild-mannered woman plagued by repressed memories in Little Girl Fly Away, a fact-based psychological drama premiering Tuesday, Oct. 6, on CBS.

Adapted from Gene Stone's 1994 book, Little Girl focuses on Catherine and Frank Begley (Winningham, Bruce Davison), a sedate middle-aged couple whose calm lives are devastated when she begins to receive threatening letters and phone calls from a man who is out to kill her.

Catherine is convinced that her stalker is The Poet, a sinister figure who once attacked and scarred her. As the threats accelerate in intensity, Frank insists they go to the police.

While Catherine is visibly terrified, one of the detectives (Clayton Rohner) begins to suspect that Catherine may know her tormentor. The truth, when uncovered, is even more bizarre: The Poet is directly connected to a hideous childhood trauma Catherine has repressed for most of her life.

The film's starring role would put any actress through an emotional wringer, yet it seems tailor-made for Winningham, whose exceptional career has included playing a number of ordinary women in bizarre circumstances, from an alien abductee (Intruders) to a beauty whose brain is transplanted into a plain woman (Who Is Julia?).

The actress admits that her first reaction to this intense material was that it would be "fun" to tackle.

"Actually, I've wanted to do a role like this ever since I saw Sybil back in junior high school," she says, referring to the Emmy-winning drama about a woman with multiple personalities. "Although Catherine isn't a multiple personality, she does sort of split off from herself, and I think that makes for a very interesting challenge: How do you play denial? What the audience is seeing some of the time is not really what is happening."

Winningham subsequently immersed herself in Stone's account of Kansas housewife Ruth Finley, the real-life prototype for Catherine.

"Analyzing a character this way just confirms my intuition," she says. "There were 300-odd pages about her therapy, and that was vitally important to me. ... Her early doubts about her own denial sort of mirrored my own doubts when I first read the material, and the book addressed that for me."

The TV movie builds to a shattering emotional catharsis as therapist Helen Geddes (CCH Pounder) helps Catherine confront her horrific past. Winningham credits director Peter Levin with shrewdly planning these crucial moments for maximum impact.

"We shot that final scene near the last day of filming, so we had established a trust level with everyone," she says. "That scene builds so you can't really break it up into pieces, and Peter clearly had planned it out in his mind. He knew something would happen, and he somehow knew how to have his cameras in the right place to catch it when it did."

Viewers, too, will want to catch this superb actress at the top of her form. She's a keeper.

Adrian Paul

Q: A friend says that Highlander: The Series has been canceled and that its star, Adrian Paul, is married. I say she is wrong. Who is correct? –Elizabeth via e-mail.

A: You're both half-right. Paul announced at the beginning of last season that it would be his final year with the show. Highlander: The Series ended with his departure.

The story of the Immortals continues with Highlander: The Raven, a syndicated spin-off starring former Miss America Elizabeth Gracen as Amanda, a role she introduced on the original series. Paul takes up Duncan MacLeod's sword once again when he stars in 1999's Highlander 4: The Search for Connor, a big-screen sequel in which he joins original Highlander film star Christopher Lambert.

Paul married in 1990 and divorced in 1997.

Q: Whatever became of Chris Noth, who played Mike Logan on Law & Order? Will we ever see him again? –Joyce Watson, Charlotte, N.C.

A: Yes, Noth is set to reprise his Mike Logan character in Exiled, a TV movie scheduled to air in November on NBC. Noth also plays Sarah Jessica Parker's beau in the hit HBO comedy series Sex and the City.

Q: I used to watch the TV show Lost in Space and I can't help wondering whatever became of the young actress named Angela Cartwright. I know she was in The Sound of Music, but is she no longer acting? –T.S., Brooks, Ky.

A: Cartwright, whose older sister, Veronica, continues to act, came out of retirement to play a reporter in the big-screen Lost in Space last summer. Happily, I ran into her at a reunion of the cast back in 1997 and she gave me a business card from Rubber Boots, her gift boutique in Toluca Lake, Calif. Be sure to stop by if you're ever in that area.

Q: What was the name of the movie starring Carroll Baker in which she played a Spanish nun who left a convent and the Virgin Mary came down to take her place while she was gone? –D. Corbin, Skowhegan, Maine.

A: You're thinking of The Miracle, a 1959 drama that is available on video.

Q: Whatever happened to gravelly voiced actor Robert Fuller? –S.G. Rowe, Centre, Ala.

A: At 64, Fuller is still acting. Just this past season, he made two appearances as Ethan Cole on Viper. He also has guest starred in recent years on Kung Fu: The Legend Continues and appeared in the 1994 big-screen version of Maverick.
